Prominent Hog Raiser Says Prices Charged Are Unwarranted—Makes His Own Hog Food, With Better Results.

"That he is all through paying fancy prices for stock foods and hog remedies and that he is raising some of the best hogs ever placed on the market," was the statement made recently by E. H. Beckstead, well-known hog raiser and authority on live stock.

Mr. Beckstead's hogs are the envy of his neighbors, and have "topped the market" for several years in Iowa. He states that for years he bought high-priced hog foods and hog remedies, but he is all through paying extravagant prices for what he can make himself. He states that what the hogs need are minerals, and tells the secret of his wonderful success by explaining that he takes about five pounds of ordinary mineraline (which is pure concentrated minerals and cost only a couple of dollars) and mixes same with enough bran or filler to make a hundred pounds. All hogs, and especially brood sows require minerals as they keep them free from worms, and in the pink of condition, and are essential to the hogs growth and a well balanced ration. This inexpensive mixture placed in a sheltered box where the hogs can get at it as they need it, will produce far better results than any high priced so-called stock foods.

Send two dollars to The Mineraline Chemical Co., 1638 North Wells St., Chicago, Ill., and they will forward you by prepaid parcel post, enough mineraline to make a full hundred pounds. Adv.

The publishers of the Lincoln Journal believe that during the session of the legislature is the best time to demonstrate to non-readers the advantage of being a Journal reader; therefore are making the very unusual offer of that daily two months by mail for only 50 cents. Add 25 cents if you also want the big Sunday paper with its news and feature pages, its magazine supplement and colored comics. On account of being the only morning paper printed at the state capital, the Journal can give later news to most parts of the state, than any other paper. The paper will be stopped at the expiration of the trial term. Every family should read a daily newspaper during these strenuous days of reconstruction. For those who for some reason must depend on a weekly, The Weekly State Journal at only 50 cents a year is a wonderful newspaper bargain.

DEATH OF RILEY HOWARD

Riley Howard, 64 years old, and an early Nebraska settler, died on Tuesday afternoon of last week in a Sioux City hospital from an attack of pneumonia.

About eleven years ago Mr. Howard and his family moved from Orchard to this county and became possessors of the electric street car line then operating between Dakota City and South Sioux City, and also the Crystal Lake Park property.

For about a year past Mr. Howard had resided in Sioux City, engaged in the real estate business.

Riley Howard was born at Fairbanks, Ia., in 1856, and moved to Antelope county, Nebraska, 25 years later. In 1879 he married Julia Cramer of Fairbanks, Ia.

Mr. Howard was one of the earliest settlers of Antelope county, he and his brother, John, having taken homesteads one mile northeast of what is now Orchard. For a number of years Mr. Howard was interested in business in Orchard buying stock and grain. It is said that Mr. Howard was the person who named the village of Orchard.

Some time ago Mr. Howard was injured in an automobile accident. He had apparently recovered from the injuries he received, but before strength had been fully restored he took cold, which caused his death.

Mrs. Howard, five sons and one daughter survive him—Harry, Ira, Wilber, Frank and Stephen Howard, and Mrs. Fred Drayton of Orchard; also two brothers and one sister—Stephen Howard of Fairbanks, Ia., John Howard of Orchard, and Mrs. Julia Joles of Waterloo, Ia.

It has often been said that Mr. Howard was a valuable man in the community, as he was always ready to help those in distress. Many of his old time neighbors received help from him in a financial way. He practiced the golden rule in his dealings with others. Through the early struggles in this country many were benefited by his goodness and there are many now ready to give their testimony to his worth as a citizen.

Mr. Howard was good to his family. He was a good husband and a kind father, and one who provided well for the wants of his household.

He was a man who had many friends. To become acquainted with him was to become his friend. He was universally trusted and respected. Mr. Howard had means, was a good business man, and did things on a large scale. He had a large influence and used his power for good. He was industrious, one who accomplished a great deal of worth and one who met and overcame many difficulties, especially those peculiar to life in a new country.

It can truly be said that the world has lost a good man in the departure of Mr. Howard.

Funeral services were held at Orchard on Saturday afternoon of last week.

Lutheran Church Notes

By Rev. C. R. Lowe.

We did not have any church service last Sunday on account of the snow storm.

The Salem Ladies' Aid will entertain the community at the Salem church on Friday, February 11, at 7:30 sharp, at a "fair." There will be a program. There is no fee to be any admittance fee, and no offering, nor a collection when you get in. You do not have to pay to get out after you are in. It is intended that you come and have a good time with your neighbors and friends.

Our only object in the above is to have the folks get together and feel at home at the church. We have been told a lot about the value of the social life in the church, and we do not appreciate it at all. If people do not feel at home there they will hardly be induced to become members in it. If they are minded to become members of the church they will go some distance to be members and not where they do not find a friendly feeling. And they can hardly be expected to do otherwise. May be it is a good theory that they should, but do not go much on theory when sentiment is running things. And if folks do not feel at home and welcome at the church, what is going to become of the church when the present generation of people are gone. It is not a question of this particular church, it is the problem of every church. It may be a trifle more serious with the rural church, but we doubt even that. It used to be the mark of the ancient church and was the wonder of the non-christians. "Behold, how these christians love one another," and it ought to be the mark of the church today to be friendly with those who are not of the church to the end that they be brought into the church, being made to feel that they are wanted. This is a laudable aim in the matter of the social life of the community. We are linked together in a way so that no one is wholly his own, but he is a part of his neighbor and the neighbor is a part of him. If you do not believe that just try to go through this summer and its work and help nobody, and do not ask anyone to help you. It will be bad business, indeed, you will find. There is a lot of life that is not lived between the plow handles. We have to have friends; we like to be with the neighbors. And there is a lot of life that is above that, even. It is fellowship with God. This does not take the place of human fellowship, nor is it built upon human fellowship, but it presupposes human fellowship. "If a man does not love his brother whom he has seen, how can he love God whom he has not seen?" And we do God a real service when we serve our fellow in the name of God. And again, "If a man say he loves God and hates his brother, he is a liar." My, now, how can a christian hold a grudge against another. And yet there are some folks who try to grudge at a neighbor and be a servant of God at the same time. Remember, there is a lot of difference between having your name on the church roll and having membership in the "true church." The true church is the inner and spiritual church in which are only the believers, the saints, the saved. Men cannot be driven into the church nor compelled to stay there. They have to be drawn into it by the evidences of the power of the gospel in the lives of those who are there, and as a rule they are kept there because they find holy fellowship there. We can see how it is possible for a man to remain faithful and be alone, to live on a plane of christianity where he is not moved by the waywardness of the world and the coldness of his close friends, but like David and Job, trust in God, though he slay us, but that is not the way with most men. So we will be friendly next Friday night at the Salem church.

There was a council meeting of the Salem church at the parsonage last Friday afternoon to consider the matter of the encroachment of the river.

There will be a joint council meeting of the Salem-Emanuel councils at the parsonage on Wednesday afternoon of this week at 2:30 p. m.

M. E. Church Notes

Rev. S. A. Draise, Pastor

The Thursday evening meeting is growing in interest and attendance. The subject for last week was "The Epoch of Human Government." The meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Schalmus. Next Thursday the meeting will be with Mr. and Mrs. Mell A. Schmied. The subject is, "Abraham," in the epoch of promise. As soon as the attendance is so large that the homes can not accommodate, we will hold the service at the church. There is nothing more interesting than the Bible study when one gets really interested. And there is nothing more important in life than to know the human-divine relationship.

The storm Sunday morning interfered with the Sunday school and morning service. No one will lose a credit for not being present. A small congregation was present in the evening.

Services next Sunday: Sunday school, 10 o'clock; preaching, 11 o'clock; evening service, 7:30 o'clock.

Monday evening, February 14, Dr. E. M. Furman, the district superintendent, will be in Dakota City for the second quarterly conference. All members and any others who are interested should be present. Do you realize that nearly one-half of the conference year is gone?
