

Thousands of Happy Housewives in WESTERN CANADA

are helping their husbands to prosper—are glad they encouraged them to go where they could make a home of their own—save paying rent and reduce cost of living—where they could reach prosperity and independence by buying on easy terms.

Fertile Land at $15 to $30 an Acre
—land similar to that which through many years has yielded from 20 to 40 bushels of wheat to the acre. Hundreds of farmers in Western Canada have raised crops in a single season worth more than the whole cost of their land. With such crops come prosperity, independence, good homes, and all the comforts and conveniences which make for happy living.

Farm Gardens—Poultry—Dairying are sources of income second only to grain growing and stock raising. Good climate, good neighbors, churches, schools, rural telephone, etc., give you the opportunities of a new land with the conveniences of old settled districts.

COMMUNITY HAULING CONSERVES FARM LABOR AT BUSY SEASONS

Autotruck Delivers Farmers' Produce and Collects Purchases at City Station.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

"I'd almost be money ahead if I jumped this milk into the brook this morning instead of carrying it to the creamery. With the best horse in the barn it's a two-hour job to carry 300 pounds of milk three miles, and it has to be done every day. Those straw-berries simply must be picked this forenoon, too. Rain last night and sunshine today; all the berries set in the cooling room by noon will be spoiled."

This farmer had encountered one of the periods in his farm work when the proprietor's presence is desperately needed in two places at the same time. Turning to save a profit on his dairy, he was likely to lose one on his strawberry crop; if he saved the berries he lost the milk, for milk and strawberries wait for no man.

Starts on the Trip.
"Well, I've got the milk ready to go, but I haven't picked the berries. Here goes for the milk."

Two minutes later he guided old Jim and the buckboard around the maple on the corner and urged the horse into his best gait when they reached the main road. Every minute was valuable this morning. A half mile from home a forewheel began to give off slight, complaining sounds.

"A dry axle," groaned the farmer. "I'll have to stop at Yelp's and grease the wheels."

When he reached Yelp's farm two more of the buckboard's wheels were squealing wildly.

"Can I borrow your wagon wrench, jack, and some axle grease?" he called, catching sight of his neighbor, oddly muffled in gauze and gloves under a tree in the orchard.

"Sure! Help yourself," came the hearty reply. "I'd find the things for you myself, but I'm so busy I can't spare a minute. I'm trying to live some of my bees that swarmed this morning, and I've got a dozen crates of lettuce all packed that must go on the noon train."

"There's another man in the same fix," thought Stevens as he worked. "He's got to stop profitable work to haul stuff into town. Probably Hamilton and Grosner and Phillips and Jones are no better off, either. I can't afford a truck to haul just my own produce, but if those fellows would make it worth my while to buy a truck and carry their stuff to market, too, there ought to be a way out of this for all of us."

He thought the matter out to a conclusion, and that evening drove around to his neighbors with his proposition. He called only at the farms that lay between his own place and the village, and to their owners he made a proposition that ran something like this:

"How much would it be worth to you to have your milk and farm produce carried into town for you every day? There are days when you have to make a trip that takes an hour or more of your time at the busiest season of the year just to haul your milk to the creamery, and there are other times when you'll have a load of things that you want to send. Suppose I buy a light truck—would you be willing to pay me enough for hauling your produce to make it worth my while?"

"Yes; we'd be willing to do that, providing your charges aren't too steep. How would you regulate the prices?"

"I've been consulting a bulletin on this subject issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. Maryland farmers have already put an idea like this into execution, according to the department's representatives. They own and operate a truck on co-operative basis, and the rate is 15 cents per hundredweight for first-class goods. I believe I can haul your produce with a light truck for 20 cents a hundred pounds during the summer months. The co-operative idea in Maryland is not managed to secure a profit, but I shall have to make a profit to pay for the time I am taking from my own work."

"How will we manage when we want things brought out from town?"

"Telephone your orders and have the merchants deliver the goods at the creamery where I can pick them

MRS. NANCY SHARP, of Los Angeles, who says she received the greatest surprise of her life when Tanlac completely restored her health after she had almost lost hope of ever getting well. Suffered twelve years.

"After seeing the wonderful results my husband obtained from Tanlac I began taking the medicine myself, and now we both agree that it is the greatest medicine on earth," said Mrs. Nancy Sharp, a prominent and highly esteemed resident of Los Angeles, Calif., living at 321 Camulus street, whose husband is proprietor of the Merchants' Express Co.

"During the twelve years that I suffered with indigestion and stomach trouble I tried nearly every medicine I heard about, but nothing helped me and I lost faith in everything. So, my wonderful restoration to health has been the greatest surprise of my life."

"I began to feel an improvement on finishing my second bottle of Tanlac, and now after taking six bottles I am like a new woman. I have a splendid appetite, eat three hearty meals a day, enjoy them thoroughly and am never troubled in the least with indigestion or any other disagreeable after-effects."

"Before taking Tanlac most everything I ate caused my stomach to rebel and I would suffer for hours afterwards. I was so dreadfully nervous that many nights I never closed my eyes in sleep, but now I am not the least nervous, and I sleep like a child. My strength has been wonderfully increased, and I have much more energy."

"I just wish it was so everybody troubled like I was knew about this wonderful medicine."

SUCH A NICE YOUNG MAN!
This Minister Evidently Not One of the New School of Blunt and Direct Speech.

Though scare-head scoops and front-page news "stories" do not come often from the department of Frank N. Wallace, state entomologist, nevertheless reportorial drones who buzz around the bee division of Mr. Wallace's domain may count always on at least one good daily story. Here is the latest one:

He was a young minister of the old school. He did not follow the modern doctrine of frankness in his speech, especially with the lambskins of his flock. Flustered and "fussed," he stood before a large gathering of smiling, good-looking up-to-the-minute peppy lambskinettes and in guarded tones reminded them of the pitfalls and evils of this wayward world. He reached the climax of his address and with a blush of ultra-modesty he said: "And, my dear young friends, do you know that even this very day there has come to mine ears a rumor that there is in this very community a hand of bold, bad bootleggers!"—Indianapolis-News.

EXTERMINATING RATS THROUGHOUT COUNTRY
Work Is Now Being Carried on in Vigorous Manner.

County Agricultural Demonstrators and Rodent Control Experts Making Determined Efforts to Destroy Little Pests.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

According to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture, rat extermination work throughout the country is being carried forward vigorously under the combined efforts of the county agricultural demonstrators sent out by the states, rat extermination service and the rodent control experts representing the bureau of biological survey.

At Blackstone, Va., the home demonstration agent and the biological survey representative joined in a rat campaign which promised to send 12,000 rodents into the rat hereafter. When the final count of rat tails was taken it was found that 30,000 of the pests had been killed in the one town.

At Fargo, N. D., the citizens were annoyed by a heavy infestation of rats. A bureau representative enlisted the co-operation of the city commission, the commercial club, the health department, the boy scouts, women's clubs, and other organizations, and conducted a very successful campaign against the pest. In this instance the poison, barium carbonate, was purchased in quantities and used as a destructive agent with excellent results.

A statewide rat eradication campaign in Texas will be launched against rats. The bureau of biological survey has been asked to detail a specialist to direct the operation.

CAREFULLY TEST OLD SEEDS
Moistened Blotting Paper and Two Ordinary Dinner Plates Make Satisfactory Contrivance.

Test all old seeds before planting. Make a tester from two dinner plates. Put a piece of moist blotting paper in one plate, place some seeds on it, put another piece of moist blotting paper over the seeds, and invert the other plate over all. In a few days, remove the plate, turn back the blotting paper, figure the percentage of germinated seeds, and if below ninety per cent, buy new seeds.
