Winnemago Chieftain: A son of Bob Leedom got a gash cut in his forehead last week which required the services of a surgeon.

Fullerton News-Journal: Miss Josephine Huse was a week-end guest of her sister, Mrs. Ed Agnew, leaving on Monday for Dakota City.

Pender Republic: Mrs. E. J. Leonard returned Saturday from Dakota City where she had been visiting the family of her son, William Leonard.

Ponca Journal: Mrs. John Twobig and daughters, Margaret and Charlotte, of Goodwin, visited last Friday with the former's aunt, Mrs. Martha Sheahan, east of town.

Ponca Advocate: Miss Etta Bauer and little nephew, of Lincoln, spent last week with her mother and brother in Ponca. Gail Benedict, of So. Sioux City, took in the dance in Ponca Saturday night and remained over Sunday.

Allen News: E. J. Garlock of So. Sioux City, was in Allen Monday afternoon helping A. Stull make preparations for his new work as representative of the Koch Medicine Co., in Cedar county. Mr. Stull will continue for the present to retain his home in Allen and drive to and from his Cedar county territory.

Walthill Citizen: Wm. Beeken and family were So. Sioux City visitors Sunday, with his sister. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Barley of South Sioux City, attended the Comstock meetings Sunday. The following from Homer attended the Comstock meetings last Thursday: Mrs. F. J. Thorn, Miss Maggie Thorn, Mrs. E. M. Leamer, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kipper, and Mrs. C. A. Hiserote.

Walthill Times: Ponca Big Elk, probably the oldest member of the Omaha tribe, died August 25, 1921, of senility at the age of 193 years. She was the wife of John Big Elk and she was born near Homer. Her father was Hai-ga-ha and her mother, Nazzaen-za. She was a sister of Mrs. Silas Woods who lives southeast of Macy. The funeral was held at Macy August 27th.

Sioux City Journal, 15: A man giving his name as Peter Skopia and his address as Sioux City was arrested by Marshal George Knox at Homer, Neb., last night and is being held pending an investigation by the authorities of Homer. When arrested the man was driving a car which is alleged to have contained six gallons of "moonshine whisky."

Sioux City Journal, 20: After taking $7 from James Ressegieu, of So. Sioux City, Neb., two thugs maltreated his feminine companion and their apparent attempt to assault her was frustrated only by the approach of a motor car. The holdup occurred on a road which leads from Morningside to the Floyd monument. The two robbers held guns on Ressegieu while they relieved him of his cash. While one kept a revolver pointed at him, the other turned to the woman, scuffling with her for some few minutes before the motor car appeared. At its approach, the two thugs ran.

Sioux City Journal, 17: Elmore E. Halstead, an early resident of Ponca, Neb., and widely known banker, died at Cleveland, O., Friday morning, following a slight paralytic stroke. Mr. Halstead owned a chain of banks in Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska. Mr. Halstead established the Leeds bank in 1903. The deceased also established the Dixon County bank at Ponca and the Bank of Jefferson, at Jefferson, S. D. Mr. Halstead was 69 years old. The aged banker was born at Port Byron, N. Y., May 15, 1852. Moving to Waterloo, Ia., while a young man he entered the jewelry business. In 1881 he moved to Ponca, where he established a bank the same year. Mr. Halstead continued to operate the Ponca bank until 1919, when because of ill health he sold out and moved to Cleveland. The deceased owned banks at Gayville, Meckling and Burbank, S. D. Mr. Halstead also established the bank at Jackson, Neb., and was associated with the bank at O'Neill, Neb. The last of the chain of banks owned by Mr. Halstead was sold within the last two years. Besides his widow, Mrs. Etta H. Halstead, of Cleveland, he is survived by one son, Taylor H. Halstead, of Leeds, Ia., and two daughters, Mrs. H. W. Fenton, Lima, O., and Mrs. J. S. Metcalf, Cleveland. Burial will be made in either Cleveland or Port Byron, N. Y., Monday.

Ice House Plans
Of course the ice harvest is still several months off, but now is the time to begin planning that new ice house. U. S. Farmers Bulletin 1078, "Harvesting and Storing Ice on the Farm," discusses the capacity, location, construction, insulation, drainage, ventilation, and water proofing of ice houses and shows plans and specifications for six different types of houses. This bulletin may be secured free from your county agricultural extension agent or from the College of Agriculture.

Feed Now for Winter Egg Production

At this season of the year when grass is more or less dried up, and bugs and fresh water are scarce, the hens are very apt to become ill and overfat from too much corn, oats, wheat, or barley they find in great abundance around the average farm. Do not expect the hens to do their best on an over-supply of starchy food and a lack of green food, protein, and fresh water.

This is one of the most critical of all months in pullet management. If they do not have a growing food, supplied in a dry mash, they are apt to become stunted and start a premature molt.

Feed a dry mash to hens and pullets now to start them into winter production. While there is no one best ration, the Nebraska College of Agriculture gets excellent results with the following dry mash ration:

50 pounds bran, 50 pounds shorts, 50 pounds corn meal, 50 pounds ground oats, 50 pounds tankage or meat scraps, 2 1/2 pounds table salt.

The dry mash is for egg production and to make muscle, tendons, skin, intestines and feathers and should be kept before the hens all the time in a self-feeder. The directions for making a good self-feeder can be obtained free of charge from your county agricultural extension agent or by writing to the College of Agriculture, Lincoln, Neb., for circular No. 1419. On practically all the farms the hens are getting all the grain they need but if they are not, a good, cheap scratch ration is as follows:

50 pounds cracked corn, 25 pounds cracked barley, 25 pounds of whole wheat, 25 pounds of whole oats. This should be fed twice a day in a litter. The mash will cost about $1.25 per hundred and the scratch feed about 85 cents per hundred.

Different.

They were talking about their friends.
"And what do you think of Jones?"
"I'd trust him with my life."
"Yes, I know. But would you trust him with fourpence in cash?"—London Tit-Bits.

A Raise.

Two drummers in conversation:
"Jack Rose handed in his resignation as a bluff to make the firm raise his salary."
"Did they raise it?"
"Yes, but another man is drawing it."—Boys' Life.

The Hunger for Comedy.

"Why don't you put a little humor into your remarks?"
"I tried it once," replied Senator Sorghum. "It almost ruined me. The folks out home began to write indignant letters because my subsequent speeches failed to make 'em laugh."

Comparisons in Mentality.

"Do you think Hamlet was insane?"
"Well," replied Cactus Joe. "I'm no alienist. But I will say he was smarter in some respects than us fellows that paid real money to get into the show."

The Practical Viewpoint.

"The motion pictures should be censored."
"Of course," replied Mr. Stormington Barnes. "Nothing boosts any kind of a show like an argument about its morals."

Crocodile Tears.

George—Birdie had her audience in tears last night.
Pussie—Yes, they were crying for their money back, poor things.—London Mail.

Safety First.

Wigg—"Girls don't burst into tears as easily as they used to."
Wagg—"No; they've learned that crying ruins the modern complexion."—London Answers.

Life as I See It.

"As I left the house this morning I said to myself: 'Nothing can hurt me today. I am captain of my soul!'"
"Then I slipped on a banana peel!"

DAKOTA CITY SCHOOL NOTES

By Prof. H. M. Eaton

The parents of the school children are working with us in part only, in our request that they keep the children at home until the ringing of the first bells. Now really this is for the best. If you are not able to handle your own children, how do you expect us to do so.

The telephone is no doubt placed in the school house for the benefit of the patrons of the school. It is quite necessary to have one in the school. Yet it may be made to be a nuisance. The superintendent and principal are busy with the classes practically every period of the day. They are not in a position to answer the same at all times. Please confine yourselves to near the close of school at noon and evening. Of course in case of sickness we will be pleased to answer at any time.

The Jackson football team defeated us to the tune of 17 to 0 Friday afternoon. We play a return game there September 30th, at which time we hope to do better. It was a mighty spunky game at that.

School will be dismissed the coming Friday on account of the Interstate fair at Sioux City. This will give everyone a chance to see the exhibit without missing school.

Two and more weeks of school has gone by and not a soul has been up to see us. Oh, yes, you are paying us, but we would like for you to pay us a visit and find out if you are getting your money's worth.

Halleck Mason missed school a half day Monday. This was the first black spot in our attendance record.

A Discovery.

The Women's Dean—Remember, young lady, that billions of bacteria are propagated through the practice of kissing.
The Senior—That's funny. How did they ever find out that bacteria indulged in kissing?

DISPROVED

"Women can't keep a secret."
"Nonsense! The cook never tells you she is going to leave until you have invited a house full of company."

New Fish Stories.

John Barleycorn, the friend of vice, still makes a wicked struggle. And does not know it is not nice for fishing smacks to smuggle.

Forgetting Her Starry Eyes.

Eva—I think this young Sleigh is a boob; he invited me out last night for a moonlight walk.
Julia—Well, what did he do?
Eva—Nothing, but admire the moonlight!

An Obstruction.

Joy Rider (at phone)—Is there anything to prevent you from getting a car around here promptly?
Garage Man—There is—your last bill.

He Knew.

"Your honor, this lady married a man to reform him."
"Divorce granted," said the judge briefly. "Never mind about the details."

An Amended Aphorism.

"Imitation is the sincerest flattery."
"No," replied Miss Cayenne, "flattery is the sincerest imitation."

CIGARETTE CASE TOO COSTLY

Man-About-Town Found That Friends Were Too Apt to "Mooch" Smokes From the Box.

"What's happened to your cigarette case?" asked the business man of his friend as the latter offered him a cigarette from an ordinary package.

"I don't carry my case any more because I couldn't stand the expense," the man replied.

"Expense!" exclaimed the business man. "What expense is there connected with carrying a cigarette case?"

"Well," his friend replied, "if you have been a close observer of the psychology of offering the weed to a man, you know that a cigarette in a case looks much more tempting than it does in an ordinary package. Nine times out of ten a man will take a cigarette when it is offered to him from a case. Of course, out of courtesy I always offer one to my friends, so carrying a case became an expensive proposition. I haven't obtained the statistics on the ordinary package, but I know that the average of acceptances is far lower."

CHANCE TO BUY THE WORLD

English Village Has It for Sale, Although It Is Made of Portland Cement.

Jules Verne or H. G. Wells, letting his fancy free, could have made much of the chance to buy the world. It does not come to every man, but it comes to all who happen to be at Swanage, Dorset, England, in the month of July. For that curiosity known as the Great Globe is then to be put up at auction. It is a great mass of Portland stone, measuring 10 feet in diameter, and weighing 40 tons. It is so posted as to represent the position of the earth in space, and on its surface are shown in detail all the countries of the world. George Mowlem Burt, the Swanage boy who made a fortune in London as a contractor, and then came back to "develop" his native village, was a perfect Gradgrind for facts. Not content with erecting the Great Globe, he surrounded it with stone slabs crammed with geographical statistics. And yet the railway advertisements tell you that Swanage is a place where children may spend a happy holiday.

Smuggler's Ingenious Trick.
Arthur Mason, author of "The Flying Bo'sun," tells, apropos of the current news of liquor smuggling, a story of a very prosperous smuggler with whom he was acquainted on the Pacific coast a number of years ago. This man's wares were Chinese. He brought them in, there was no doubt of that. But for long his professional secret remained undiscovered. Revenue officers boarding him could never find anyone but his crew. His trick was to have some curious collars made and at the approach of revenue men he dropped his Chinese overboard in these, securely attached by a line. When all was clear he fished them up again, apparently none the worse in health.

Daddy of All the Bugs.
The monster bug of the age has been found by a man in Hodgenville, Kan. The man found him when he cut down a tree. It is 16 inches from tip to tip and weighed 6 1/2 pounds. It is a dull yellowish brown color. The most striking feature about it is its beak, having a clasp above and below. He was frozen when found and thought to be dead, but when warmed up he made a heavy buzzing noise that could be heard 200 yards.—Exchange.

Made Successful Appeal for Life.
Czar, a terrier pup, was a candidate for the dog catcher's pound in Topeka, Kan., because his master, a Russian, had been out of work for several weeks, and therefore could not buy Czar the license. So a card inscribed "Please help pay for my license" was attached to a can fastened about the dog's neck. The terrier sat near the Rock Island depot for two hours, and enough money was donated to save his life.

Students Made Protest Effective.
The story of a unique strike comes from Naples, Italy. Students of the university protested against the ever-increasing price of scientific text books. Marching round the city to the book shops they presented a demand for a 50 per cent reduction. Stores of those who refused were raided and their stocks torn to pieces or pitched into the streets.

Natural Deduction.
"Ah!" breathed the amateur sleuth, "a mouse has visited this room!"
"Great Scott, man! How do you know?" said the listener.
"Simple. See the woman's heel marks in the seat of the mahogany chair."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

The Herald for News when it is News.

See This Golden Range—It's the Latest!

Actually this new coal and wood range appears as if it were worth $10,000! For were it made of solid gold, you could scarcely detect the difference. Not only does the new metal—heavy, thick "copperoid"—which composes its outer walls and high closer, resemble gold in color, it retains this golden appearance despite heat; it cleans easily, does not chip, crack or break, and shines rust. So the range is as everlasting as it is beautiful to behold. Come, see, admire and wonder at it!

ROUND OAK COPPEROID CHIEF RANGE

The price is surprisingly moderate, due to immense production, and is guaranteed. Terms.
