

GLAD THAT BOTH HAD GONE

Honest Criticism Probably Would Have Pained the Soul of Statesman Whose Hobby Is Painting.

Sir Auckland Geddes, the British ambassador, said the other day at an art exhibition:

"Winston Churchill paints, you know. He writes, as well, but painting is his latest hobby.

"He's a good painter, too, though his friends joke him a great deal about it. He stayed not long ago at Dunrobin castle with the duke and duchess of Sutherland, and after he was gone the duchess said:

"Mr. Churchill is so original. He spent all his time while here painting one of the castle towers. He is gone now. I am so glad he took his picture with him."

MOTHER! CLEAN

CHILD'S BOWELS WITH CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoonful to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Advertisement.

Stumped.

The woman was helping her young nephew to undress at bedtime. The lad sat on the floor undressing his shoes, but in the course of time came a cropper on a knot. He tugged at the lace awhile, then all his pent-up feelings were uttered in a very feeling "D—n it!"

The woman was deeply chagrined at such language and informed him in most severe tones that nice people never used such words.

The boy was thoughtful for a moment, then he said: "Well, will you please tell me what they make those words for if you can't use them?"

The woman was without an answer.—Chicago Journal.

Highly Adaptable.

"A man should make some concessions to public opinion," remarked Mr. Gadspar.

"And if he's running for office he certainly will," said Mr. Twobble. "The Hon. Jeremiah Jabwind, for instance, has been a candidate for first one thing and then another for the past 20 years. All the Hon. Jeremiah asks of public opinion is just a chance to anticipate its wishes."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Warranted Loquacity.

"That little fellow does not seem to be very talkative," commented the picture enlarger.

"Well, no; not as a general rule," replied Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge, Ark. "But he can talk all right when he's got anything to say. For instance, he slipped and set down in a kettle of hot water tuther day, and fairly pized the surrounding atmosphere with his remarks."—Kansas City Star.

Mexia Typical Mushroom City

Texas Town Grows From Sleepy Place of 3,000 to 30,000 Inhabitants Over Night.

OIL BOOM IS RESPONSIBLE

Hundreds Are Forced to Sleep Out. Doors and There Is but One Bathroom in the Place—Prices Are High.

Mexia, Texas.—Mexia, which has come into so much notoriety through the sending of state troops here to put an end to outlaws, the sale of illicit booze and restore order, is a typical mushroom city.

Overnight a tented city arose. From an apparently sleepy little town of 3,000 population in October, 1921, where old settlers farmed for a living and eked out a bare existence from their lands to a bustling city of 30,000 people, and all in a few months, this is the recent record of Mexia, an old-time Texas town, which is feeling the effects of one of the numerous oil developments in the Southwest.

The population now consists of an assortment of oil field followers and thousands of men and women seeking employment. Consequently because of the exorbitant prices charged for a room, if one were lucky enough to secure one, hundreds of men, favored by the long continued mild winter, are sleeping on the grass along railroad tracks, public parking places and, in fact, anywhere they can.

Beds in Tents Costly.

Overnight a bed in a tent marked "A place to flop" soared from 50 cents a night to $3. A night in a crude plank structure where one didn't know his bed-fellow or the hundreds of others in the single room cost $5.

Rail traffic jumped hundreds of percent. There are two trunk lines, the Houston & Texas Central and the Trinity & Brazos Valley, leading through here, and passenger traffic is very heavy, while freight trains are frequently seen running three abreast, so heavy is the demand for oil machinery. One road is said to have spent $500,000 in enlarging its facilities.

The water situation is not altogether what could be desired. Getting a bath here is quite an experience, if indeed not a task. The old saying, "If you want to do something big—wash an elephant," certainly has found parallel in Mexia.

But One Bathroom.

This luxury may be found, outside the woodland creeks, only in a downtown barber shop. The bathroom is a stall in a wooden-floored, plank-in enclosure. The plain, pine planks are slippery, but the proprietors of the house have found that it is not necessary to maintain first-aid kits because the board floors are warped enough to allow the bather a foothold.

But as for oil. There are a solid six miles of new derricks, drillers, outfit, tents, wooden buildings and people where once there was the open prairie. A survey of all local lumber men shows that buildings completed or contracted for since October 1 total between $3,500,000 and $5,000,000.

Gambling and drinking halls filled with dancing girls are open every night, and one may buy openly "red" and "corn" whisky at 50 cents a drink. Fortunes are lost overnight at the dice and roulette tables.

FLOOD BENEFIT TO FARMERS

Water Left Fine Silt of Good Earth on Impoverished Lands in Washington.

Sedro Woolley, Wash.—A fine silt of very fertile earth layer from two to five inches deep was left on the inundated farm lands when the flooded Skagit river subsided to its regular channel.

The layer of silt had added great value to the valley lands, according to owners. The flood, which was the most extensive known here since the early homestead days, lasted from De-

HOME TOWN HELPS

CITY SHOULD BE BEAUTY SPOT

Traveler Singles Out Atlanta, Georgia, as Ideal Residence Town, for Variety of Reasons.

The importance of insisting upon making our city a cleaner, more attractive city and one of which we may be proud, was brought home to the writer while attending a national advertising convention at Atlanta, Ga.

After making a tour of the residence and suburban districts, as well as the downtown business portion of Atlanta I was very favorably impressed. It was quite evident that the citizens there are making every effort to have their city known, not only as a progressive and up-to-date center, but as one of the beauty spots of the South as well.

In our own Kansas City should we not take more seriously the suggestions of a just and successful newspaper and give more thought and attention to the cleaning up, painting and beautifying of our downtown districts? To my mind, the present is the critical period in the life of our great city, and we should be careful not to allow our interest in its financial welfare to overshadow our desire to be known in the future as the city beautiful.

Advertising is one of the biggest factors in business, but before we can take advantage of that means we must get our business, or our community, in such a condition that we are justified in offering it to the public.—Kansas City Star.

WORK FOR CITY'S INTEREST

Best Kind of Business Man Recognizes the Duty Which All Owe to the Community.

What does a business man owe to the city in which his business is located besides the payment of taxes? Nothing, some close-fisted and tight-lipped business men will say. But they are not the biggest success, nor are they the kind of business men who get the most out of life. The business men who make the biggest successes and who get the most out of life are the kind who believe they owe something more to the city in which their business is located than the payment of taxes, who believe they owe it what they can contribute of active aid in solving the problems that confront it, social, political or commercial. Fortunately for the cities of this country, there are many able business men who, disregarding the advice of the kind of business men who say that it may cause them to lose some trade if they take sides in a city's affairs, are devoting considerable of their time and their talents to doing something for the general good of their city. And the number of such good business men is growing.—Lawrence (Kan.) Telegram.

Plant Trees.

There is no question about the need, the value, the absolute necessity of planting trees in America. Any small argument against it is overcome by big arguments by people who know the tree subject.

There is but one question left—how many trees will you plant? You don't have to do the actual work. Pay your money to the American Legion. The boy scouts of the country have offered to take orders from the legion and plant trees, and giving money is the least of the task.

If there is anything you want to know that you haven't been told about trees, you are welcome to write the American Forestry association at Washington, and you will be sure of a courteous reply, and a quick one.

Home Owning.

If home owning is promoted the profit to the country eventually will be greater than any outlay so far suggested. It is an investment in practical patriotism. It means more young men growing up in the country with an intense practical loyalty to the nation and its institutions. It means unity and strength based upon appreciation of service rather than disaffection and weakness due to apparent contempt for such service.

Road Improvement.

The time is near when all main roads will be paved and lined with trees and shrubbery. This beautification movement is well along already, thanks to the splendid memorial tree campaign which will plant a tree for every American soldier who served in the World War. We're now in the era of road building, and we soon will lead the world in permanent, connected highways.

Love Mellows Prize Fighter

Girl Brings Desire for Education to Former Terror of the Boxing Ring.

IS SEEKING ANOTHER DEGREE

"Kid" Wedge, at 41, Enters Harvard Almost Penniless, to Obtain Ph.D. Degree—Left Lumber Camps to Be Pupilist.

Boston.—A story of great love, of a career of hard battles in the ring, and of a winning fight against tuberculosis came to light at Harvard university a few days ago when Frederick "Kid" Wedge, forty-one years old, of Arizona registered in the Harvard graduate school of education, where he is to study for his Ph. D. degree.

Fifteen years ago the name of "Kid" Wedge was one to be feared in the timber lands of the Middle West. For years he had fought in the rings of that region. At twenty he left the woods, where he worked with lumbering crews, and took up the fighting game for his profession. In the next six years he fought 68 battles and won 65 of them.

Romance Entered Life.

Then, when he was twenty-six, came his romance. He met the daughter of a Wisconsin doctor. She was a graduate of a Nebraska college, and far removed from Wedge's station in life, but they were married. Then he realized the great difference in their intellectual standards, so he gave up the ring to secure an education with the money he had earned as a prize-fighter. For six years he attended a preparatory school, where he did 12 years of elementary work to prepare for college.

He entered the University of Nebraska, but the war interrupted his work. He went to Camp Grant as a boxing instructor, and there another obstacle appeared. The doctors pronounced him an incurable victim of tuberculosis, with but six months to live. He went to El Paso, Tex., to begin a different battle, and in a year he was a well man.

Won Degree of A. B.

Then he entered the University of Arizona and finished the work he had begun at the University of Nebraska. He was given his degree of A. B. He was forty years old then, and became principal of the high school at Benson, Ariz. That was the position he held until the end of last year, when he resigned to go East and continue his studies.

He made the trip of thousands of miles in freight cars and "on the rods." He started with $10 traveling expenses, and reached Cambridge with 65 cents in his pockets. When the next semester opens at Harvard, after the mid-year examinations, "Kid" Wedge, former boxer, former lumberman, former hobo, and former flying consumptive, will open up the books that will make him a doctor of philosophy.

BLINDNESS DECREASES IN U. S.

Cases Drop From 57,272 in 1910 to 52,617 in 1920, Say Census Figures.

Washington, D. C.—The number of blind persons in the United States decreased from 57,272 in 1910 to 52,617 in 1920, according to figures for the last census announced by the census bureau. The decrease was attributed in part to advanced methods for treatment in blindness and also to education of the public in preventing blindness.

Wireless Commission Advocates Building of Stations in Colonies and in China.

London.—The wireless telegraph commission has recommended to the government the construction of stations in England, Canada, Australia, South Africa, India, Egypt, East Africa, Singapore and Hongkong. A year was devoted to study of the question. The average cost of the stations is estimated at not more than £100,000, normal value $800,000, but those in England, Egypt, Singapore and Hongkong would aggregate about $853,000, or $4,265,000. Recommendation is made that two wave lengths be fixed for each transmitting station, and that each center be equipped for receiving from several stations in the chain simultaneously.

FIND A NEW USE FOR PIGEONS

Forest Fire Fighters Find Them Efficient Assistants.

As Means of Quick Communication Between Ranger on Fire Line and Headquarters Carrier Pigeon Has No Equal.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The carrier pigeon has found a place for itself in the fire-fighting forces of the forest service. It demonstrated its worth this year in the Idaho national forest, and will be installed next year at all protective camps in that district. As a means of quick and certain communication between the ranger out on the fire line and headquarters, the carrier pigeon has no competition, reports from Idaho to the Department of Agriculture state.

One bird, after a preliminary course of training, was taken a rough trip by puck horse, kept overnight at its destination, and released the next day. This carrier was back at its coop, at headquarters, 30 minutes after it was released, having covered 18 miles, sir line, and flown over a high mountain. Its mate equalled the performance. Another, released at dusk from the bottom of a canyon, rose abruptly, crossed two high ranges and was at its coop before dark. A third, carried in a back pack into high peaks of the Buckhorn country, flew home within an hour, covering in that time a good day's journey for a man on horseback.

In the face of fire, this performance was equalled. The ranger took two birds to the spot where smoke had been located. The first bird carried instructions to send help. Not long thereafter the fire-fighters at the front had brought the blaze under control. The second bird was released, countermanding the first order. It reached headquarters just as the summoned assistance was about to start for the fire, and the message it carried not

YOUNG GIRLS NEED CARE

Mothers, watch your Daughters' Health

Health Is Happiness

From the time a girl reaches the age of twelve until womanhood is established, she needs all the care a thoughtful mother can give.

The condition that the girl is then passing through is so critical, and may have such far-reaching effects upon her future happiness and health, that it is almost criminal for a mother or guardian to withhold counsel or advice.

Many a woman has suffered years of prolonged pain and misery through having been the victim of thoughtlessness or ignorance on the part of those who should have guided her through the dangers and difficulties that beset this period.

Mothers should teach their girls what danger comes from standing around with cold or wet feet, from lifting heavy articles, and from overworking. Do not let them over-study. If they complain of headache, pains in the back and lower limbs, they need a mother's thoughtful care and sympathy.

A Household Word in Mother's House writes Mrs. Lynd, about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"My mother gave me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was 14 years old for troubles girls often have and for loss of weight. Then after I married I took the Vegetable Compound before each child was born and always when I felt the least run down. Both my sister and sister-in-law take it and have only the highest praise for it. It has been a household word in my mother's house for years."—MRS. KATHERINE LYND, 2431 Gladys Ave., Chicago, Ill.

A Little Book Helped Her to Decide

Milwaukee, Wis.—"My daughter took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she was so weak and did not feel like going to school. She was like that for a whole year before taking your Vegetable Compound. I found a little book of yours in our mail-box and decided to give her your medicine. She is now strong and well and attends school every day. We recommend your Vegetable Compound to all mothers with weak daughters. You may use this letter as a testimonial."—MRS. E. KLUCZNY, 917 20th Ave., Milwaukee, Wis.

"I was always feeling tired and sleepy, was losing in weight and would faint at times. I had other troubles too, that made me feel badly. I read your little book and heard friends talk about the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done them, so I have taken it too. The results are most satisfactory, for I have gained in weight and my bad symptoms are gone. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to all my friends and you may make whatever use you like of this letter."—GLORIA RAMIREZ, 1116 5th Ave., Tampa, Florida.
