The City of Alliance.

Alliance is a thriving, pushing, growing little city of 3200 souls, with a future full of promise—indeed, so bright is the outlook, it is freely predicted that within five years it will have a population of from 5000 to 8000. In all of Northwest Nebraska there is no town, in point of population and volume of business, that can approach it. Its railroad facilities are the best, being located on the main line of the great Burlington and Missouri River railroad system; and its schools and churches are not surpassed anywhere. Its people are hospitable, enterprising and intelligent. Its climate is beautiful, invigorating and inspiring. In short, no town in Nebraska presents superior inducements for men of capital, enterprise and push to locate within her borders. Letters of inquiry addressed to the ALLIANCE HERALD will be answered promptly and in detail.

CONGRESSIONAL.

For Congressman, Sixth District—GEN. P. H. BARRY,
Of Greeley County.

Knox is off for Patee and Teddy is left alone to bluster and brag about subjugating the trusts.

MR. ROOSEVELT is swinging around the New England circle, bidding for another term as chief magistrate. Every word he utters is intended to strengthen Roosevelt. He subordinates everything else to this one ambition.

THE Union Pacific strike goes merrily on. The company appears to be making but little headway against the solid ranks of its striking employees. May the best man win. And the best man is the union labor workman, who is contending for his rights as a man.

It is greatly to the credit of the fusionists that within their ranks they had a Westover, a Sullivan, a Barry, and a dozen others that could have represented this district in congress with honor alike to themselves and the people. Either the g. o. p.'s have but one man they deem worthy or capable of such distinction, or else that one man has the ear of the power that furnishes the corruption fund, or both. But we'll beat him, just the same. Otherwise, as we have said before, write us down a lot of vacillating chumps.

REPUBLICAN candidates for congress in this district should not be backward in coming forward with their $50 contributions to the Mercer campaign fund. Mercer will need every dollar he can scrape up to secure the nomination, but $100,000 would not elect him if he had the nomination.—Omaha Bee.

There you have it, blunt and plain, from a source that cannot be discredited. We are offering a prayer night and morning that Mercer may not be defeated for the nomination. Wonder what our friend Rosewater will do if he is not? Will he be magnanimous enough and brave enough to support his hated journalistic rival? It will be the opportunity of your life, Mr. Rosewater, to prove your manliness. Are you big enough to grasp it?

Governor Cummins of Iowa.

Governor Cummins of Iowa is nothing if he is not brave. How all the world loves a brave man! But bravery without discretion is nearly always disastrous. Despite the attitude of the national administration, and in the very face of the warning cries of the leaders of his party, Governor Cummins insists that the democratic party is right in demanding a revision of the tariff. Right in its argument that the present criminal tariff law is responsible for the existence of the trusts. Once in a great while we are permitted to view the exhilarating spectacle of a prominent republican refusing to follow, blindly, the unholy teachings of men who are lost to every sense of justice and right—who dares to stand up for principle. This is the most notable instance of anything of the kind, however, in recent years. It cannot be that Governor Cummins has not counted the cost of his rebellious attitude. It is certain that he has, and that he esteems principle far above political preferment obtained at the sacrifice of manhood. Listen to these words of Iowa's brave governor: "It is the extreme of folly to assert that this (tariff revision) will seriously disturb the industrial fabric or frighten the producers of the country." What rank treason lurks in those words! And then again this honest, fearless republican governor of Iowa dares to say: "The truth is that those who are enjoying monopolies are every day laughing at the inertness of the people and wondering how long the reign of inactivity will continue." Never were truer words uttered than these. And never a truer man wielded the reins of government in Iowa, with the exception of Horace Boies, than Cummins. There'll be no backing down. Cummins will fight the monopolists to the death, though it be Cummins' death. We know the man. We knew him when he defied party ties, threw himself into the breach and twice aided in the election of a democratic governor of Iowa. And he will do it again, rather than subordinate principal to unholy greed and self-aggrandizement.

Moses P. Kinkaid, Stand Up.

Mr. Kinkaid, the subsidized press tell us that you are the republican candidate for congress in this district, and the HERALD is disposed to believe the statement, for there never was a time in your career that you were not a candidate for something. Granting, then, the truth of the announcement of the aforesaid subsidized press, it is no more than right that you should take the people into your confidence. It is due to them that you tell them how you stand on a number of public questions. A man who will dodge honest questions is unfit to represent a free people in the halls of congress. Will you grant this? Yes? Well, then, Mr. Kinkaid, the republican majority of the house committee on banking and currency has recommended for passage the Fowler currency bill. This bill provides for branch banks, a bank currency based on bank assets, the retirement of the greenbacks and for making the silver dollar redeemable in gold. Mr. Kinkaid, do you favor enacting the Fowler bill into law? Don't dodge, Mr. Kinkaid. Answer the question like a man. Sheltered behind a protective tariff the trusts are robbing the people right and left. Infant industries have grown so big that they threaten to throw their parents out of the house. Mr. Kinkaid, do you believe in revising the tariff without any further delay or humbuggery? Don't dodge, Mr. Kinkaid. Answer the question like a man. A year ago Mr. Roosevelt delivered himself of a flowery, but hypocritical announcement, about "shackling cunning," having reference to the trusts that prey upon the people. He did nothing while congress was in session. But as soon as congress adjourned he began to tell us what he was going to do to the trusts in the future. Mr. Kinkaid, if by any means of jugglery and trickery, you should be elected to congress, will you try to "shackle cunning" with your mouth, or will you try to shackle it with appropriate legislation? Don't dodge, Mr. Kinkaid. Answer the question like a man. The people have a right to know where you stand on the questions, Mr. Kinkaid. And they want to know. They will not be satisfied with glittering generalities. Maundering mouthfuls of mere mush will not satisfy the intelligent voters of the "Big Sixth." They are not fools—not by a long shot. And you'll make the biggest mistake of your life if you allow yourself to believe they are. They know as much about politics as you do. Step up to the rack, Moses, and answer the questions.

Nothing is more certain to come to pass than a great popular uprising against trust domination. It will find expression in public regulation of a more or less drastic kind, according as the matter is more or less delayed.—Springfield Republican.

EVERYBODY who reads the newspapers is acquainted with Russell B. Sage. Nobody questions his sagacity. That has been proven a thousand times. Many of us loathe the greed and grasping, grinding character of the man, but none of us doubt his ability to forecast the future. And when he puts himself on record as saying that "combinations of all industries are a menace to true government—not only so, but they are the oppressors of the people," we must realize, if we but stop to give the matter a thought, that the great financier knows what he is talking about. And when Russell B. Sage says that unless a change in the present condition of affairs is wrought that "the American people will revolt, and there will be financial ruin the like of which this country has never seen," it ought to be a warning that would strike terror to the hearts of the political jugglers who have made it possible for these combinations to exist.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has again declared himself unequivocally for legislative regulation of trusts. But the democrats will insist that he does not mean it.—Omaha Bee.

Is there the slightest evidence in the manner of his procedure that he does?

The nomination by the fusionists of Gilbert M. Hitchcock to contest the honors with Dave Mercer in the Second congressional district, doubtless meets with the approval of a large majority of those who will support him. It is but a just recognition of his long and untiring services to the cause of the common people. Mr. Hitchcock is the proprietor of the World-Herald, the greatest, fairest and truest exponent of a "government of the people, by the people and for the people," in all the northwest. He is an able man, a successful man, and a man to be trusted. And viewing the situation from this distance, there must come a wonderful change in affairs in the Second district to prevent the election of Gilbert M. Hitchcock. He will be the peer of the brainiest men who will take their seats in the Fifty-eighth Congress.

THE HERALD would suggest that just underneath the two or three pictures of Railroad Candidate Mickey which are displayed in public places in this city these words be written: "Our Man Mickey," and just underneath them again, a little to the right, the signature, "John N. Baldwin," be placed. This would be in keeping with the eternal fitness of things.

SOUTH CAROLINA democrats may believe in negro disfranchisement, but they insist on majority rule in party primary nominations. No minority candidate can come up under the South Carolina constitution. That is one redeeming feature.—Omaha Bee.

Dave Mercer can console himself with the thought that he has forced Bro. Rosewater to utter one truth about the south, anyhow. It may be mighty poor consolation. But every little helps a fellow when he's sorely pressed.

It adds nothing to the credit of their cause or the success of their candidate for the subsidized press of this district to lay stress upon the fact that he "served the people of this district for fourteen years on the judicial bench." It only emphasizes the assertion of the HERALD that Moses P. Kinkaid's greed for office is insatiable. There's a limit to all things. No man has a right to "corner" public office, and only blind, bitter partisans would sanction it.

MERELY to vary the monotony, Union Pacific strikers have caused the arrest of President Burt, upon the charge of false imprisonment. Were he a thousand times guilty they know full well he would not be adjudged censurable.
