The City of Alliance.

Alliance is a thriving, pushing, growing little city of 3500 souls, with a future full of promise—indeed, so bright is the outlook, it is freely predicted that within five years it will have a population of from 5000 to 8000. In all of Northwest Nebraska there is no town, in point of population and volume of business, that can approach it. Its railroad facilities are the best, being located on the main line of the great Burlington and Missouri River railroad system; and its schools and churches are not surpassed anywhere. Its people are hospitable, enterprising and intelligent. Its climate is healthful, invigorating and inspiring. In short, no town in Nebraska presents superior inducements for men of capital, enterprise and push to locate within her borders. Letters of inquiry addressed to the ALLIANCE HERALD will be answered promptly and in detail.

CONGRESSIONAL.

- For Congressman, Sixth District—GEN. P. H. BARRY, Of Greeley County.

Good morning, Uncle Moses P. Kinkaid! Are you too cowardly to state your position on the Fowler currency bill?

MR. ROSEWATER says Governor Savage is a "white-livered falsifier," and Governor Savage says Mr. Rosewater is a "confirmed and despicable hypocrite." As yet neither has undertaken to impeach the other's testimony.

THE siren voice of Senator Charles H. Deitrich has not yet been heard in the land. If Deitrich will take the stump for the republican ticket and agree to meet some democrat or populist the fusion committee will cheerfully pay the senator's campaign expenses and something "on the side."

Andrew M. Morrissey.

No man in this senatorial district could have been nominated for senator who is more able or deserving than Andrew M. Morrissey the choice of the convention held at Valentine. Mr. Morrissey resided at Chadron for several years and his friends in Dawes county are legion. The Newport Eagle, commenting on his nomination says:

A. M. Morrissey, the democratic candidate for senator, is a young man who possesses every requisite necessary for a good legislator, and one who if elected will be a credit to the district and give it a reputation which it is in need of for energy and ability. He is a lawyer of ability, now serving his second term as county attorney, having been elected the last time by a greatly increased majority, though the county is strongly republican. True to his principles, he refused a nomination for a third term, though such nomination was equivalent to election, and expected to devote his entire time to his private practice, which is large; but on pressure from his friends he at last consented to accept the nomination for senator, and we believe he will be elected. The people of Valentine, where he has lived for more than four years, can testify to the truth of the above, regardless of their political affiliations. Politically patriotic, legally bright, and morally an honest man, he will make an ideal senator.

ERRA P. SAVAGE, the republican governor of Nebraska, says that "arbitration is the crutch upon which anarchy leans when lawlessness has proven of no effect." How do the railroad men, the printers, and other organized labor men like that? Remember, those are the words of a republican governor.

THE Iowa democrats have tucked their tails between their legs, staggered into the republican ditch and afforded great merriment to those alleged democrats who are always free with advice to the democratic party and give their votes to their republican candidates. The democracy of Iowa deserves to be defeated by such an overwhelming majority that the re-organizers will never dare to show up again with their cowardly make-shift platforms.

MR. ROOSEVELT expresses himself as grieved beyond measure by the difficulties in the coal-producing states. If Congress could take on a little of his feelings it might do something to protect the country from great coal combines and other unrighteous conspiracies against consumers.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A NEWSPAPER up north run by an amateur kid, who isn't old enough to know anything and who won't know anything when he is old enough, sagely remarks that the true newspaper man is the man who only puts in his paper what the people want to read. "The people" indeed! Who are the people? Every long-eared human jackass we ever saw thought he was "the people" and the longer his ears the more of "the people" he thought he was. In the newspaper world there are no "people." There is only the truth. Better a thousand times tell the truth, whether "the people" like it or not, than to lie to suit "the people." It is an even proposition with the writer whether "Tell the truth," or "The people be d—ought to be the motto of the successful newspaper."—Exeter Enterprise.

Some Laugh, Some Wonder, More Sleep.

THE truth is that those who are enjoying monopolies are every day laughing at the inertness of the people and wondering how long the reign of inactivity will continue.—Gov. Cummins of Iowa.

And the monopolies are not the only ones wondering how long the magic of a name will be used as a spell to keep former adherents still bound while they go on amassing princely fortunes at the expense of those who by their blindness make it possible for them to do so. That a man of sound mind can vote for a party favoring a policy that makes it possible for a manufacturer to sell goods to his countrymen at from one-fourth to one-third more than to foreign buyers, seems incredible, when by voting to place all articles controlled by trusts on the free list he could do himself an incalculable favor. Yet for the sake of the g. o. p. that "saved the nation" he votes for a policy that further enriches the rich and impoverishes the poor, that makes wealthy the few at the expense of the multitude. And the "inactivity" on the one hand and the "laughter" on the other will continue until the majority of voters care more for principle than for party name, until they refuse to longer shut their eyes to the fact that American infant industries are sufficiently grown to need no further protection.

A YEAR ago the democrats of Ohio repudiated the Kansas City platform. This year they reaffirm it in emphatic terms. Ohio democrats learn by experience, and there is yet hope for the democrats of Iowa and Wisconsin.

WHEN organized workingmen prevent men from working at cut wages they are called "anarchists." When corporations starve wageworkers into submission the corporation managers are called "captains of industry." See?

THE voters should vote against the proposition to patch up the state constitution. Nebraska needs a new constitution—one built for it, and built by honest hands.

IT indicates a lack of honor to an alarming degree when the officials of a city bind themselves by a pledge into a combine which has for its object the making of money by the sale of their votes, as is the case with nine of the eighteen city officials of St. Louis. And these did not have even the honor one is told exists among thieves, either as to keeping promises or secrecy.

IT does one's soul good to hear of men of such staunch adherence to principle as Governor Cummins of Iowa and Governor La Follette of Wisconsin. If Nebraska boasted enough such republicans to fill out a state and congressional ticket the fusion candidates would have to "go some" to get there. But somehow that kind of republicans fails perennially and eternally to get nominated for anything in Nebraska.

Do you want a financial system adopted that will give the noteholder absolutely no security except the money of depositors that may be in the bank? Do you want your deposit to be liable for seizure at any time to make good the notes of a dishonest bank cashier? That's the security the Fowler bill offers you. If that suits you, vote to elect the republican candidates to congress. If it does not, vote for the fusion nominees for congress, who will vote to kill the bill when it comes up for passage in the next congress.

THE judges of many of the courts are tightening up on divorce decrees. The tendency is a good one. Judge Cavanaugh of Chicago says that a man who marries takes upon himself certain obligations and wives are not to be cast aside like shoes. Not even when the matrimonial shoes pinches? No. If the shoe pinches, wear it until it becomes more comfortable. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred it is a matter of time and adjustment. Judge Spring of New York says: "A man takes a wife for better or worse, and because she does not conform her expenditures to his notions of economy there is no ground for casting her from him." "For better, for worse, for weal or for woe." There is a need of revival of those old words of the marriage ceremony. In most cases men and women who cast away the matrimonial shoe do not desire to go bare-footed. They want to try another shoe.—Omaha News.

IN comparing the ideas of the republican party of 1890, when "Gene Webb assumes to have left it, and now, when he returns to it, the Kearney New Era Standard naturally desires to know on what grounds he ever was a populist, and says: "When Mr. Webb left it, it had many principles that were good enough for populists. It has none now. Then it advocated bimetalism, and now it is wedded to the single gold standard: then it boasted of having been the author of the greenbacks, now it is their destroyer; then it claimed to be the true friend of the silver dollar, now it is pledged to its extermination; then it was labor's helper, now the trust promoter; then it guaranteed civil rights to all, white and black; now it denies these to the Filipinos; then it policies were measured by patriotism, now by dollars and cents; then it had a voice for struggling liberty, now it speaks against liberty with shot and shell; then it was a power for peace, now an armed force for plunder; then its platforms extolled the teachings of its Lincolns, Garfields and Blaines, now it boasts of its ill-gotten gains; then it passed a national anti-trust law, now it refuses to enforce it."

Will You Tell Us, Moses?

THE Fowler currency bill is on the house calendar. It has been recommended for passage by the republican majority of the house committee on banking and currency. The Fowler bill provides for the following:

- Bank currency based on bank assets. Branch banks. Redeemable silver dollars. Retirement of the greenbacks. Moses P. Kinkaid, you are asking men to vote for you for congress. Before going any further, will you tell the voters of your district how you stand on the Fowler bill? Are you for it, or are you opposed to it. Don't dodge the question, Moses. State your position like a man. Jump, Moses; JUMP!
