PUBLIC SALE! Saturday, January 30, all my goods, consisting of hardware, tinware, leather findings, glassware, clothing, buggy, harness and spring wagon. Other things too numerous to mention. C. Donaghue, W. M. Fosket, auctioneer.

At the telephone meeting Saturday considerable progress toward the complete organization of the Hemingford Telephone Co. was made. An adjourned meeting will occur Saturday, January 30 to finish up all the details, award the keeping of the central office, elect officers, etc. The switchboard is expected in a short time.

The statute relating to cruelty to animals says that any one who exposes his team in a cold or stormy day for more than four hours is subject to a fine and that it is the duty of the marshal, constable or sheriff to whom the knowledge of such exposure shall come, to arrest the person so offending without warrant or process of law. Let's enforce this law.

The surprise birthday dinner on the 22d at the home of Mr. Fred Abley was a success owing to the good management of Mr. Kidwell who kept Mr. Abley in the dark as to the goings on at his home until his friends had assembled to the number of fifty with full dinner pails to celebrate his sixty-fourth birthday. Mrs. Abley is a royal entertainer as the table bore ample testimony. May the anniversary of another birthday find us all at the home of Mr. Abley. Mr. Abley received as a present from his guests a fine lap robe and a twenty dollar gold piece from his son Amos.
