THE HERALD readers—both democratic and republican—were no doubt in last weeks issue on the life and character of the late senator, Marcus A. Hanna. This paper has reached that high plane in journalism where it can give honor where honor is due, regardless of party views. "To kick a man when he is down" is little, but to kick a man when he is dead is disgusting in the extreme.

Near Marsland, February 22, of organic heart disease, Emma M., beloved wife of Edward A. Tollman died, aged 65 years, 7 months and 2 days. Emma M. Jacobson was born at Hamburg, Germany, July 1, 1839, and when but 7 years old came with her parents to New York City, coming from there to eastern Iowa, settling in Jackson county. She was united in marriage to Edward A. Tollman May 13, 1868, and for many years they resided near Hamburg, Iowa. To this union were born three sons and three daughters, all of whom were present at her death and burial. Within the last five years, the children, with the exception of one who still resides near Hamburg, Iowa, came west and settled near Marsland. The parents came west and again settled in the midst of their children. During the few months of their residence here, Mrs. Tollman had endeared herself to all who made her acquaintance, and while the conditions of this country were a great change from those to which she had been accustomed, still she took up western life with great cheerfulness and made every effort to assist in the betterment of conditions. The funeral service was held at the home Wednesday, conducted by Rev. C. H. Burleigh, pastor of the Methodist church, assisted by Rev. W. M. Shriver, of the Presbyterian church, after which the remains were laid to rest in the Marsland cemetery.

LAKESIDE.
W. A. Thomas, state veterinary from Lincoln arrived at Murphy Bros. ranch Thursday, February 18, to examine calves effected with what is commonly known as alkali. In the presence of Messrs. Hult, Morgan, Platt and residents of the ranch he made a vigorous post mortem examination. However, he did not name the disease but was inclined to believe the cause was chemical as he could not detect any parasites with the instruments he had. The affected parts were taken to Lincoln for laboratory examination. The loss with the marcid malady has not been exceedingly heavy but stockmen hope through the assistance of Mr. Thomas to secure a remedy that will prove effectual before any new cases develop. Mr. Thomas spoke freely on the itch problem. He highly endorsed lime and sulphur dip. It is believed that everybody present awoke to their folly in using other dips after Mr. Thomas had explained matters. He urges stockmen to prepare their own dip according to the government formula.
