Every farmer who puts in a crop dreads hail as much as he does drouth. No companies insure against drouth but I have a reliable company who write a hail insurance contract. No one can afford to be uninsured as hail is so common west of the sand hills. You may call or if inconvenient write me and I will fully explain everything connected with hail insurance.—K. L. PIERCE.

The village board of Hemingford requests all persons who have friends buried in the Hemingford cemetery to be sure to be present on Decoration Day for the purpose of identifying or locating the graves of such friends and to receive the deed for such lots, if same has not already been received. Members of the board will be on the ground to confer with such persons.
