Should Include the Platte Valley.

The following dispatch from Washing regarding a bill as introduced by Congressman Mondell of Wyoming is of vital interest to those who have filed on similiar homesteads along the North Platte river, and the proposition should also include in Nebraska project, where settlers are subject to similar conditions. Those in touch with the powers that control the actions of this legislation should interest themselves in having the bill so arranged as to include the Platte counts at once, as the firm wants to Valley. The dispatch reads as follows:

Washington, Dec. 9. - Congressman Mondell yesterday introduced a bill to give entrymen under the proposed Shohone irrigation enterprise in Big Horn county, Wyoming. leave of absence from their entries until May 1, 1906, upon showing that water is not available for irrigation of their lands. In explanation of this bill Representative Mondell says that lands in the Shoshone region cannot be cultivated without irrigation and it is impracticable for settlers to reside upon the ands in their present state. He thinks it advisable to pass a general law giving settlers the right to one year's leave of absence and thinks it but fair to extend to settlers under the irrigation projects the same privilege of leave of absence that is allowed settlers under the homestead act.
