Wedding Bells.
BRAMAN-HANCOCK.
Judge Spacht celebrated Washington's birthday by performing the ceremony that made Oscar F. Braman and Leora Hancock of Lakeside man and wife. The young couple returned to their home this morning.

SAXTON-ROACH.
A pleasant wedding occurred at the Methodist parsonage last night at 8 o'clock when Rev. Ray pronounced the words that made Joseph S. Saxton and Nettie May Roach man and wife. Only near relatives of the contracting parties witnessed the ceremony. The groom is the popular salesman at the Palace meat market, the bride is a well known and popular Box Butte Co. girl. The groom has a nicely furnished home near the M. E. church to which the new couple repaired and commenced housekeeping at once. Congratulations.

MARQUARDT-HUNZICKER.
Today at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. William Marquardt and Miss Elizabeth Hunzicker were married. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Ray at three o'clock. Only the immediate relatives were present. Mr. Marquardt is a popular employe of the Burlington shops here and the young couple will make their future home.

OLAUS-ABEGAIL.
On the afternoon of Feb. 22nd, 1905. at the home of Mrs. C. O. Aspinwall 618 Cheyenne Ave., occurred one of the social features of the season. A handkerchief shower given in honor of Miss Ada Schupp who will soon depart for a new home in St. Joseph, Mo. As the hour hand pointed at 3 by the wondrous light of candles, a bridal party descended the winding stairs to the music of one of Sousa's marches rendered by Edison's invention, to a corner of the parlor draped with laces and love's emblems, cupid's hearts, above which hung a beautiful wedding bell of pure white lillies under which the ceremony was performed. The bride and groom responded to the following solemn vows:

Dearly beloved you have presented yourselves here for the purpose of being united in the awful bonds of matrimony. Have either of you anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced upon you? You acknowledge that your souls are stung and that way down in your hearts you have a feeling, each for the other? Is there anyone in this vast assemblage who has aught to say why these deluded mortals should not be convicted to endure each other's society during the rest of their natural lives? If not let us proceed with the solemn rites.

George Washington Olaus do you take this woman for worse or not quite so bad to be your joyful companion both when summers warmth makes living cheap and when the coal pile runs low? Do you promise to let her love, honor and obey you, to give her of your earthly means when ever you do not need the money yourself, to refrain from eating onions when she has not eaten, to go calling with her Sunday afternoon providing your funds hold out? Do you solemnly promise to treat her kindly and never use force so long as there is grape-nuts in the house? Do you promise to assist her in kindling the fires, to lend your presence in the kitchen while she prepares the evening meal? Do you solemnly promise to bring in the coal, saw the wood, wash the dishes, mow the lawn, run the washing machine and any other slight duties which she may suggest, before entering upon official responsibilities of the day? Do you promise to be home by 12 every night, to never bring home unexpected company, to join no lodge or club without her consent, to keep the housekeeping accounts, to grant her an allowance of at least $1 a week for living expenses? Do you humbly promise to admire all her bargains, to approve of any hat she may select regardless of price, to buy her at least one new gown a year without inquiring if she had worn out or made over the old ones? Do you faithfully promise to accompany her to all the entertainments she may desire to attend, to remember your wedding anniversaries with suitable gifts, to travel whenever and wherever she desires and to keep yourself in readiness to carry out her slightest wish, in fact all that lies in your power toward making her life one long anthem?

Mary Jane Abigail are you aware of what is standing by you? Will you take it to be your lawfully wedded man to keep, care for and cuddle so long as it is no worse than it is now? Do you promise to feed it all the time on home-made bread, to write all the letters, except when a check is needed? To let him buy his own neckties? Do you promise to be present to grace his table and to attend to all your wifely duties, unless hindered by numerous missions of charity or social obligations in the forms of receptions, tea parties, theater parties, dances, mother meetings, clubs? Do you promise to faithfully sample all teas and coffees and such of like material as this may so desire you to do? Do you humbly promise to agree with him on all questions unless he gives you permission to do otherwise? To laugh at least two minutes at all his jokes, to wear his juvenile colors, to not appropriate to your own use his neckties, his scarfpins, his socks, his handkerchiefs for fancy work or his razor? Do you conscientiously swear to arise and prepare a palatable breakfast of pre-digested grape-nuts, to abstain from all use of curl papers, remover slippers and calico wrappers, and conduct yourself as though you were really happy when he is around.
Dearly beloved, you have heard the questions and response. Have you anything now to say why these two should not be hooked up?
Who giveth Mary Jane Abigail to be married to George Washington Olaus?
(The father) I do.
Ring ceremony was then performed.
(Minister) With this ring you now are wed and I pronounce you Mr. and Mrs. George Washington Olaus.
Congratulations followed.
As Miss Schuppe was congratulating the bride and groom the handkerchiefs from the wedding bell were showered upon her, attached to each a love quotation, which were read by her.

The party with guests retired to the dining room which was brilliantly illuminated with candles and electricity, and were seated at the table over which was a canopy of cupid's hearts, where a delicious dinner was served. After which they returned to the parlor and listened to music rendered by Mrs. Hillebrand, Miss Jack Rohn and Miss Letisha Ragan.

Those participating in the wedding ceremony were Mrs. L. B. Stoner, Mrs. Hildebrand, Mrs. J. M. McCracken, Mrs. Will Johnson, Mrs. C. C. Smith, Mrs. John Akers, and Miss Florence Sherley.
County Teachers Meet.
Tomorrow the union meeting of the county teachers association meet here and every teacher in the county will be here. The meeting will be held at the high school building under the general supervision of County Superintendent Leroa Rustin, and matters of interest to every patron of the schools in the city will be discussed. Go and see them. See what they are doing to educate your children. Help them, cooperate with them, let them know that you are interested in the work of educating your own children. They will be glad to see you and you may know better how to appreciate what they are doing for you. The meeting will be called at 1:30 p. m.
Laid to Rest.
The funeral of Grandma O'Keefe, whose death occurred last Thursday, took place Sunday forenoon from Holy Rosary church, at 10:30 o'clock. A large number of friends of the good old lady gathered at the house to pay their last respects to one whom they loved for her kindness and Christian virtues, and the tears shed over the frail shell that held the Godlike soul were many. When the funeral cortege arrived at the church, the edifice was already crowded with people and many were unable to gain entrance. Rev. Father Galvin officiated and after the prayers for the dead, spoke most touchingly of the life of the deceased, which he compared as to an open book and a life we should all strive to imitate. The remains were then conveyed to the Catholic cemetery and laid to rest until the day when all mankind will respond to the call of the angel's trumpet and soul and body will again be united.
Goodwin Returns.
"Uncle Zed" Goodwin who went to California a week ago Monday to spend the winter and regain his health is home again, having arrived in time to celebrate Washington's birthday. He only stayed two days at Los Angeles and says the climate there did not agree with him and he is glad to be back. He is now past 83 years of age and such a trip alone was too much for him. He tells of how a Pullman porter took a ten dollar bill from his pocket while he slept, and also how, when he discovered his loss, induced the porter to put it back. A letter from William Watkins tells how Uncle Zed was entirely exhausted when he met him at the station. Watkins also tells how happy Dick and his new bride are "just like 16 year olds."
Annual Meeting of County Doctors.
The annual meeting of the county medical association was held in the offices of Dr. Moore last night and was well attended. The officers elected for the ensuing year are Dr. Bowman, president, Dr. Battleheim, vice president, Dr. Moore, secretary-treasurer. A committee was appointed consisting of the executive officers Dr. Clough and Dr. Mitchell, to devise ways and means to establish a city hospital. A charity ball is being projected as a means to procure funds to commence a hospital fund. A mass meeting is called for next Wednesday night at the city hall to take further action in the matter, at which time every one interested is expected to be present.
Arrested for Cattle Stealing.
Bill Cline went over to Sidney the first of the week and had scarcely arrived there until he was arrested for cattle stealing. He will have his preliminary hearing to-day. Among the Alliance people who go down to the trial to-day as witnesses are Neil Boone, Frank Boone, Councilman Charles Snow, R. M. Hampton, and John Eckman. Attorney Mitchell will appear for defendant.
The case is the one in which H. M. Anderson was implicated last fall and who is now in jail at Sidney awaiting trial having waived a preliminary and failed to secure a bail bond.
Both Anderson and Cline are charged with stealing seven head of cattle of Abbott & Co., ranchmen about twelve miles south of here. Six head of the cattle were recovered and one had been butchered when the others were found.
Geo. Darling, the furniture man returned from Chicago yesterday where he has been the last two weeks buying goods and visiting relatives. George says he has the finest stock ever bought for this market; watch his announcements in the HERALD.

HOW ABOUT YOUR INSURANCE?
Did you ever stop to think how important it is to have your property insurance written in a correct manner? Do you not know that very frequently claims are turned down by insurance companies because the location or description is incorrect, or because a gasoline, an electric light or some other permit was not incorporated in the insurance contract?
We want to impress upon you the importance of these details. The writing of your insurance ought only to be entrusted to men of experience, men who are conscientious and who take the same care in writing a $200 insurance contract as in writing a $2,000 contract. A judicious selection of the insuring company is also of prime importance.
We write all kinds of insurance, and we respectfully solicit your patronage. If you give us the privilege of writing your insurance, you may rest assured that it will be as nearly right as great care and years of experience can make it. We represent only the best of the companies and guarantee prompt and equitable settlements of all claims.
