James Sullenberger Exhonorated.

Last week James Sullenberger of Marsland received a letter from Florence Mitchell, now of Zion City, Ill., John Alexander Dowie's town, in which she makes a full confession and exhonorates young Sullenberger. Some years ago, while the girl was living at the home of C. D. Tyler, she became enceinte and preferred charges of criminal bastardy against Jas. Sullenberger, but suspicion was so strong against Tyler at the time that the case was dismissed against Sullenberger on motion of the prosecuting attorney. The girl went east, joined Dowie's church, and now to make her peace with God and man, makes the following confession:

"I wish to acknowledge before God and man that C. D. Tyler, formerly of Marsland, Nebraska, is the father of my child, born three years ago, April 1, 1902, and that I was influenced by him and others to lay the charge to the door of an innocent party, to-wit: James Sullenberger. I am convinced that God requires this confession of me."

FLORENCE MITCHELL, 2207 Gabrielle Ave., Zion City, Ill.

She adds in her letter, that at the time she was compelled to make the charge at the instigation of Tyler, and it is due the Sullenberger family and all who have knowledge of the affair to give the facts publicity.
