LIVELY TIME AT MASS MEETING

Citizens' Meeting Held Monday Night Largely Attended and Financial Condition Discussed.

What to do about raising funds was the all-important question that called a large crowd of Alliance citizens to the city hall last Monday evening. In fact the assembly room on the second the voice of the people is heard. Raise floor was not adequate for the attend- the lid of governmental affairs every ance and even the hallway was jammed to its extreme capacity. Mayor Smith and the city council had announced through the columns of The Herald last week the purpose of this meeting, namely, the desire of the citizens of Alliance in regard to the council's procedure for the coming year and the best way to raise funds since the saloon license had been cut off.

Mayor Smith rapped for attention promptly at eight o'clock and explained tersely the call and then started the ball rolling by calling on Ira Tash for an expression as to what, in his judgment, was best to do. Mr. Tash responded by stating that the present condition of affairs in the municipal treasury was such that the city's progress would not be hampered in the least and called for a careful, judicious government of the same. The taxable valuation of town property has increased fully 15 per cent and this with the amount on hand would see the way clear for future necessity. Mr. Tash stated that he would cite the increased own holdings, which was from $1500 to $2500 in the past year, and he was fully satisfied with the same. The First National Bank property was also cited at an increase in valuation from $10,000 to $16,000.

Louis Buechsenstein, who has served the city as mayor for two terms and councilman one term, took exception to Mr. Tash's views of increased valuation and boldly asserted that while he was not an auctioneer, he then and there would offer his real estate in the city to any one present at 75 cents on the dollar, and asked if there were any takers. These remarks caused a great deal of cheering and hand-clapping.

Mayor Smith next invited expression from R. M. Hampton, who spoke at length of the city's growth from infancy and the many years of trials and struggles it underwent only to find itself one of the foremost cities of the state. He eulogized Mr. Buechsenstein on his administration of city affairs while he was mayor and then entered into the financial condition of the discussion. He stated that before a definite conclusion of taxation could be arrived at it would be necessary to investigate the city's expenses and funds on hand, also those of the school district, and thought that this meeting was rather premature for the same. All of which was apparent before the meeting had progressed much further. The fact that there was held by the county treasurer $3,-421.22 belonging to the city was announced and this was news to many present. In the same treasury there is a water fund amounting to $2,832.41 and city hall fund of $915.92, both of which are not available for current expenses of the city. On request, Clerk Barnes announced that the city's fund on hand is $285.34, making a total of $3,706.56. The outstanding indebtedness in unpaid registered warrants amounts to $3,219, leaving a net balance in the treasury of $486.77. With about $3,000 uncollected back taxes due the city of Alliance, which it it is said will be available, Mr. Hampton thought there was little cause for alarm on account of financial stringency. However, there was much information lacking to get to the basis of running

S. K. Warrick was next called upon to give his views on matters pertaining to the future condition of governmental affairs. Mr. Warrick was subjected to much cross-firing, but he was calm and self-possessed throughout his talk. Like the financier that he is, he waded into financial detail that soon showed that a committee would have to be appointed to investigate the city's condition during the past three years in order to arrive at a basis on which to proceed. Mr. Warrick was of the J. A. Mallery, groceries, pest house 13 20 The bonds of C. W. expenses of the city.

On motion of Judge Bullock, a committee of three, to be appointed by the chair, was carried, to make the necessary investigation and report the same to the city papers for publication. On this committee Mayor Smith appointed Messrs. F. W. Harris, F. J. Brennan Inquire at Herald office.

and Frank A. Pierson. This committee will go over the city and school fund TRAILWAY NOTES AND PERSONALS for that period of time, also investigate the expenses incurred during the three years. When this body is prepared to report a clearer understanding as to what is needed will be had.

In the meantime it may be said that as far getting results, the meeting was not a complete success. However, the discussion was wholesome and in the right direction and it is just such gatherings of citizens that make good government. Mayor Smith was levelheaded when he made the call. It speaks of a democratic spirit in which once in awhile and invite each taxpayer to take a look into the affairs of state. Keep nothing under cover, and this seems to be Mayor Smith's motto. As he said at the meeting Monday night, "The people want a dry town, and they will get what they voted for during my administration."

Since completing the report of the Monday night meeting, we are pleased few days, to be able to give the readers of The Herald the complete resume of the committee appointed to make a report of the receipts and disbursements of the city of Alliance covering a period of three years, which is as follows:

Prof. A. P. Garnett, Hypnotist

There is an excellent attraction at the Phelan opera house this week, Prof. Garnett, the eminent and well known hypnotist, opened a week's engagement in the opera house Tuesday night. The house was crowded and the audience convinced that the entertainment given is well worth the price of admission. It is a strictly moral, clean and educational one, to which everyone, including adies and children, can attend with the assurance that nothing is presented that will in any way offend the most sensitive person. The interest being taken by the large crowds attending each performance is proof of the genuineness of the professions of Prof. Garnett. The engagement closes Saturday night. Admission 10 and 25 cents to all parts of

LINCOLN'S JOKE.

Fixing the Responsibility For the Loss of Harpers Ferry.

President Lincoln's jokes, especially when perpetrated in connection with grave matters, usually had a purpose in them. After Lee had taken Harpers Ferry the president, realizing how great a calamity it was to the northern arms, determined if possible to fix the responsibility for the loss of the important position.

Halleck was summoned, but did not know where the blame lay. "Very well," said Lincoln, "I'll ask General Schenck." The latter could throw no light upon the question, further than to say that he was not to blame. Milroy was the next to be called to the presence of the commander in chief and to enter a plea of "not guilty." Hooker was next given a hearing, and "Fighting Joe" made a very emphatic disclaimer of all responsibility.

Then the president assembled the four generals in his room and said to them: "Gentlemen, Harpers Ferry was surrendered and none of you, it seems, is responsible. I am very anxious to discover the man who is." After striding across the room several times the president suddenly threw up his bowed head and exclaimed: "I have it! I know who is responsible!"

"Who, Mr. President; who is it?" asked the distinguished quartet as they looked anxious, if not troubled. "Gentlemen," said the president, with a meaning twinkle in his eye,

"General Lee is the man." There was a lack of mirth in the laugh created, and the four generals took their departure with a determination that they would not again be placed under suspicion.

Thus in India there are punka coolies, men who turn a fan all night long in the hot weather while their English masters rest, and it is not uncommon for a punka cooly to acquire the knack of sleeping at his task. On and on he sleeps through the hot, perfumed hours of the Indian night, but his hand mechanically and steadily turns the punka pulley.

"Men have composed great literary works in their sleep. Coleridge's Kubla Khan' is the most famous example of this; but, then, Coleridge was a morphinomaniac, and his sleep was scarcely natural. But R. L. Stevenson, Corelli and Longfellow have also done good work while sleeping.

"Divers sometimes fall asleep deep down in the sea, but some unknown part of their brain keeps watch, and at the proper moment, though asleep. they give the order to be hauled up.
