NEW "CUCKOOS" OF CONGRESS.

Term Applied to Members Who Recently Stood by Roosevelt.

THE LATE SENATOR MORGAN.

It Was He Who Originally Used Title, Giving It to Those Who Ranged Themselves With President Cleveland in His Controversies With Congress—Now Revived on Secret Service Question—Panama Problems.

By CHARLES W. ARTHUR. Washington, Jan. 23. — [Special.]—Five million or more barrels of cement will be required in the construction of the dams in connection with the Panama canal. Most of this supply has been contracted for, and shipments in very large quantities are being made to the isthmus. The worrying part of the enterprise is in the character of the soil along the route of the canal. Contrary to the general belief, there are comparatively few quicksands encountered. Experts who return from Panama and tell of their investigations after reaching Washington say that the soil is what is called muck. It swags and changes so that a party of government officials down there may start out in the morning over the Panama railroad, and on the return trip the same day it has often happened that 150 yards of the road—rails, ties and everything—have positively disappeared in spite of the fact that the line has been in operation for years. But the information is that eventually the difficulties will be overcome, though it is admitted that the cost will be frightful. Thirty thousand laborers are now employed in the work of excavation, or about 5,000 more than were utilized by the French company when operations were commenced years ago under the famous De Lesseps. The invention of the steam shovel, the use of steel dump cars and the powerful spreaders used when the dumping grounds are reached enable the Americans to do four times as much work in a month as the French accomplished.

Unskillful Riders in Inaugural Parade.

Just now there is much scurrying around to engage horses for officials from many states to ride in the inauguration parade on March 4. Quite a number of the finest horses which are ridden are brought here by their owners from their respective homes. These, as a rule, are well trained animals and are also showy beasts. But more than half of the nags that will be seen on Pennsylvania avenue at Judge Taft's inauguration will be secured in this city and in the neighboring counties of Maryland and Virginia. Some of the country animals are not used to city sights, and they cut up all sorts of capers on account of the noisy bands, gay decorations and the shouts of the multitude as the pageant winds its way along. And any number of colonels on the staffs of governors are poor riders, having difficulty in sticking to the saddles. General Harries, head of the District of Columbia national guard, was a young man out in the far west when the Grand Duke Alexis visited this country. He says that one of the native guides out there had an idea that all the foreigners were of royal blood, and a European having been unhorsed, the fellow shouted loudly, "Come back here, every body; one of them kings has fell off."

Chinese Minister vs. American Custom.

On account of the recent death of the emperor of his country Dr. Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese minister, is compelled to observe a three months' period of mourning. He has declined this season all social invitations. Dr. Wu uses in the stationery line our style of mourning paper. He adopts more of our customs than any Chinese who ever belonged to the diplomatic circle here. Former Chinese ministers used mourning paper and cards that had unusually heavy borders. But for the taking off of the Chinese emperor Dr. Wu would have had a gay time in Washington this year.

Called White House Cuckoos.

The thirty-five members of the house—all Republicans—who voted to sustain President Roosevelt in his position with regard to the secret service question are being referred to as "cuckoos." The late Senator Morgan of Alabama originally applied that word to congressmen who stood by President Cleveland through thick and thin and regardless of his whacks at the legislative bodies. Nick Longworth, the president's son-in-law, was paired with a Democrat and did not vote.

Will Be a Notable Affair.

On the last Saturday in this month President Roosevelt is to be the star guest of the Gridiron club at the annual dinner of this famous organization. This will be Mr. Roosevelt's farewell to his newspaper friends before going to Africa, where he will remain for, perhaps a year. The Gridiron men expect to have a great deal of fun at the expense of the head of the nation, but Mr. Roosevelt is always on his mettle and enjoys such things immensely. The Gridiron autograph book is one of the most valuable and interesting in the world. As the club is a dining organization solely and has no house of its own, this autograph collection is going to be placed in the library of congress, together with a number of souvenirs and menus in a case specially arranged therefor.
