

HEMINGFORD HERALD.

HEMINGFORD, BOX BUTTE COUNTY, NEB., NOV. 11, 1909.

Hemingford Happenings.

C. A. Borleigh came up from Lakeside Sunday.

Mrs. H. L. Bushnell left for Scottsbluff Thursday on 44.

John Anderson has purchased the hotel of Dan O'Keefe.

Pete Sprackling and wife went to Sheridan, Wyo., on a brief visit.

Ora Phillips and a party autoed up from Alliance Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Thorpe left Wednesday for Florida to spend the winter.

Sam Blythe was taken suddenly ill Monday. Lifting too heavily was the cause.

Mr. Wilson, who has been night operator at the depot, left Wednesday for his home.

Mrs. Belle Brown, who was owner of the hotel, moved to her property here in town.

Frank Eastburn had the misfortune of a horse falling on his foot, breaking some of the bones.

Mr. Waddell, who recently came here from Bridgeport, is going to take charge of the hotel.

Clarence Canfield came the latter part of last week to be assistant cashier in the People's Bank.

George Carrell returned the first of the week from a visit in Iowa, Mr. Westlake returning with him.

Mrs. Dick Kenner, who was up from Alliance visiting with her parents, returned to her home Thursday.

Mrs. J. Osborn's father, mother and sister stopped off for a visit with her on their way home from California.

Mrs. B. E. Johnson returned Monday from her trip to Sheridan, Wyo., where she has been visiting her daughter.

Dr. McEnen, who has bought Dr. W. T. Eikner's practice, is moving here. He will live in the Eikner property.

Jerry Wells has purchased the H. E. Jones property here in Hemingford. Mr. Jones will move to the Blackfoot country.

Mr. Lathy came with a car load of goods Sunday and is moving to the Schlaman farm, which he purchased some time ago.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Millett went to Casper, Wyo., to make it their future home. Their many friends will miss them very much.

Mr. Wells, who has been living on the George Hedgecock place one mile west of town, is moving to the Renswold place in the east part of town.

Mrs. John Grommet returned from her trip to Chadron, Nebr. Her sister, Mrs. Frank Olds, accompanied her home for a short visit with relatives and friends.

MALINDA ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Eddy of Omaha spent Sunday and Monday with H. B. Shepherd and wife.

There will be a stereopticon lecture given Monday, Nov. 15th, by W. H. Kimberly in the Malinda school house.

The patrons of the Malinda school feel very good over the erection of the new stable for the horses. This means a much more regular attendance of pupils, as many of the storms are too severe for a horse to be exposed to all day long.

Curly Notes

Ben Curtis was a Hemingford visitor last week.

C. J. Ward has just finished a well on his place.

C. J. Ward called on A. E. Han Sunday afternoon.

G. O. Howard made a flying trip to Mitchell Thursday.

Mrs. Ida Morrison called on Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Hann Thursday evening.

J. A. Wood hauled a load of Sioux county spuds to Hemingford Wednesday, returning Thursday.

The stork visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Zimmerman Sunday night and left a fine baby boy.

A. E. Hann, who is working for the Tri-State Co., at Scottsbluff, came home Saturday, returning to his work Monday.

D. E. Wallage came home from Scottsbluff Tuesday, bringing two tons of cabbage which he sold to Chas. Lockwood.

Mr. Ryan, in company with Mr. Miller from Missouri, called on S. L. Wagner Thursday. Mr. Miller is looking for a homestead.

Mesdames Hickey and Grant of Canton made a business call on M. L. Whitaker Thursday, stopping on their way to visit Mrs. Ida Morrison.

Mr. Clayton had his threshing done the first of the week and was agreeably surprised in the yield of his grain, it being almost double what he had expected.

Miss Edith Broshar entertained a number of her friends Friday evening. The merry party repaired to the new barn and played parlor games until supper was served. All who were present report a very pleasant time.

Hashman Notes

Miss Jessie Key made a call at Mr. and Mrs. Turner's last Tuesday.

There was a large crowd and the things sold high at Mr. Key's sale on Nov. 8th.

There will be a box supper at Unity church on the evening of Nov. 24th. All are invited to come.

Misses Ethel Tallada, Elsie Calame and Fay Hembry were callers of Miss Jessie Key on Tuesday of last week.

Miss Eunice Calame and James Calame called at Mr. Skinner's on Friday of last week to see their sister, Miss Elsie, who is teaching school in this district.

Rev. Noltie of the Alliance circuit was a caller at Mr. Skinner's on Sunday, where he passed the night, having had ill luck with his motor cycle. He was obliged to leave it and walk a part of the way to the Unity church.

32,000 Farmers and Their Families Read the Nebraska Farmer Every Week.

But that isn't half enough.

I am determined to put the Nebraska Farmer into every farm home in Nebraska.

This accounts for the marvelous offer which I make, herewith.

Read every word of what I say below.

S. R. McKelvie
PUBLISHER NEBRASKA FARMER.

A Few Plain Words About Farm Papers

That class of farm papers which treat reliably of farm topics, including social and political problems as they affect the farmer, are doing more in behalf of the reliable, progressive farmer than any other one educational factor.

These papers deserve the support of the farmer and should be read without stint in every rural home.

On the other hand it must be admitted that the farm newspaper field is flooded with a lot of so-called publications that are published with an eye single to the procuring of advertising.

Those papers come unbidden into your home, you cannot get rid of them, they carry all kinds of unclean and unreliable advertising and they pollute the minds and thoughts of your children.

On behalf of the NEBRASKA FARMER, I may say as its publisher that we accept no unclean or unreliable advertising whatsoever.

I personally guarantee the reliability of every advertiser who uses the NEBRASKA FARMER.

We carry no patent medicine advertising whatsoever.

The NEBRASKA FARMER is a real farm paper. It was established in 1859. It has been doing good ever since. It is owned and published by real farmers, and should be read in every farm home in Nebraska. Sam McKelvie, president of the company, is a Nebraska pioneer and now owns and operates 3,500 acres of Nebraska land. For the last three years he has been called to do instructing in the live stock judging department of the University of Nebraska. Leonard S. Herron, editor of the NEBRASKA FARMER, was reared upon a Nebraska farm and completed a course in the Nebraska School of Agriculture as well as the Iowa Agricultural College. Professors and instructors in the Nebraska School of Agriculture are regular contributors. Dozens of letters every week by our readers constitute one of the most interesting features of the NEBRASKA FARMER.

The Nebraska Farmer Always Stops When the Time is Out Without a Word From the Subscriber.

A Great Series Of Nebraska Articles

Every true Nebraskan will want to read the series of articles on Nebraska farming being published in the NEBRASKA FARMER. As will be noted below this series of articles embraces all the important phases of agriculture, stock growing, horticulture, and kindred topics as related to Nebraska conditions. Each article is written by an eminent authority. When the articles will have been completed they will constitute the most comprehensive, complete, and authoritative work on the subject ever published. A book containing such a compendium of faultless information would sell readily at $2.00. Through the NEBRASKA FARMER you procure these articles at a very low cost, indeed.

Following is a list of the proposed articles and authors:

- "Geography, Climate and Mineral Resources," Prof. E. R. Condra, University of Nebraska.
- "Growing Alfalfa in the Platte Valley," N. C. Dunlap (farmer), Kearney.
- "Growing Alfalfa on Irrigated Soils," F. L. Young (farmer), Morrill.
- "Alfalfa on Dry Lands," Louis Brott (farmer), Sextorp.
- "Forestry for Windbreaks and Timber," C. S. Harrison, York.
- "Dry Farming on the High Plains," Erwin Hopt, North Platte Experiment Sub-Station.
- "Corn Growing in Eastern Nebraska," Lee Smith, Desoto.
- "Nebraska Crop Statistics," W. M. Maupin, State Industrial Statistician.
- "Growing and Feeding Sheep in Nebraska," Prof. H. R. Smith, Animal Husbandry Department University of Nebraska.
- "Soils," Prof. C. W. Pugsley, Department of Farm Management, University of Nebraska.
- "Horticulture in North and Western Nebraska," E. F. Stephens, Crete.
- "Horticulture in Eastern Nebraska," C. G. Marshall, Secretary Nebraska Horticultural Society.
- "Corn Growing in Western Nebraska," "Grasses for Sand Hills and Dry Plains," "Beef Cattle on Sand Hills and Dry Lands," H. D. Lute, farmer and correspondent, Paxton.
- "Wheat Growing on Dry Lands," "Growing Hogs in Western Nebraska," Prof. W. P. Snyder, Manager Experimental Station at North Platte.
- "Alfalfa on Eastern Uplands," C. Y. Thompson (farmer), West Point.
- "Tame Grasses in Eastern Nebraska," Hon. Wm. Ernst, Tecumseh.
- "Tame Grasses in Central Nebraska," "Nebraska's Swine Industry," Sam McKelvie, farmer and president Nebraska Farmer Company.
- "Beef Cattle Production," Hon. A. C. Shallenberger, Governor of Nebraska.
- "Dairying in Eastern Nebraska," Merle Little, Benson.
- "Dairying in Western Nebraska," E. R. Harnly, Beaver City.
- "What the Nebraska Men Do," Mrs. W. L. McKenney, poultry editor Nebraska Farmer.
- "Agricultural Education," Prof. E. A. Burnett, Dean of Agriculture, University of Nebraska.
- "Spuds," Val Keyser, manager Nebraska farmers' institutes.
- "Nebraska's Wheat Industry," "May," L. S. Herron, editor Nebraska Farmer.
- "Pure Bred Stock," S. R. McKelvie, publisher Nebraska Farmer.

The NEBRASKA FARMER Belongs to the Farmers of Nebraska

← This Is My Remarkable Offer:

The regular subscription price of the NEBRASKA FARMER is $1.00 per year in advance. But in order to introduce it into the many hundred Nebraska homes where it is not now read, I will make a trial offer of TEN WEEKS FOR 10 CENTS, AND I GUARANTEE TO STOP THE PAPER AT THE END OF THAT TIME UNLESS IT IS RENEWED. Furthermore, I have on hand, several hundred sets of "Language of Flowers" post cards. There are ten cards in a set, all printed in vividly beautiful natural colors on a gold background, and each card contains a verse of the language of the flower shown on the card. You know what post cards cost you when you buy them at your local store—usually two for five cents. Then figure the value of these on that same basis, and you will know what a remarkably wonderful offer I really am making when I say that I will send the NEBRASKA FARMER TEN WEEKS, AND GIVE A SET OF THESE BEAUTIFUL FLOWER POST CARDS ALL for 10c (stamps or silver). I want to emphasize right here that this set of post cards is different from any you ever saw. They are absolutely the latest and best. Accept this offer today by clipping the attached coupon and sending to me together with 10 cents in silver or stamps. I will be glad to send you a sample copy of the NEBRASKA FARMER if you will write and ask for it.

The Club Price of the ALLIANCE HERALD
and the NEBRASKA FARMER is $2.25

S. R. McKelvie, Publisher Nebraska Farmer, Lincoln, Neb. I enclose herewith 10 cents in (stamps) (silver), for which you may send the Nebraska Farmer ten weeks and the "Language of Flowers" post cards (10 in the set). Send to
