Opportunity for a Most Profitable Investment

Stock of the United Wireless Telegraph Company

Offers one of the best opportunities for profitable investment that have been placed before the American public in many years. Wireless telegraphy is not only a most wonderful invention, but it is one of the most useful. Wireless telegraphy of America is now practically controlled by the above named company. For two years past the company's stock has increased in value by "leaps and bounds," and will continue to do so. The amount that may be held by one person is limited. Persons who wish to invest a hundred dollars or more where it will prove a bonanza, should investigate this proposition. Full particulars cannot be given in the limited space of a newspaper advertisement, but will be furnished upon application to the agent

From Rushville Standard: M. O. New came over from Alliance Tuesday evening and is visiting in Rushville with his parents and acquaintances. Floyd Counts has returned home from Alliance, having gone there to replenish his stock of medicines and other necessary commodities.

From Arden American: Martin Wold went back to Alliance, Neb., where he is working in a tailor shop.

Manager S. I. Williams will take his basket ball team to Alliance, Neb., today to play the high school team. The local team has been working very hard this week under the direction of Mr. Schaldach and have rounded up in good form. Although Alliance has a fast team, claiming the championship of western Nebraska, the local team expects to win. Those who went down are Sid Williams, Hugo Schaldach, Carl Joughblood, Carl Gruenther, Dave Crist, Frank Downey and Zeno Herz. Alliance will probably play a return game at Arden, Saturday, Feb. 19.

From Bayard Transcript: Don Cupid getting busy the first of the week, a few stray darts entered the "palpatitors" of Ray Roberts and Mabel Shetler. Old opportunity presenting himself, the youngsters hopped aboard their ponies and attempted a Cheyenne elopement, but an irate guardian, a stubborn license clerk and blue coated policeman frustrating their designs, they were returned to their homes to lament with Maad Muller "that of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest of these it might have been." The young folks met at a previously arranged point on Brush creek. From there they went to Bridgeport, where they applied for the necessary license to marry. The judge, firm in the belief that they were a few suns short in the number of years necessary, refused to issue the required paper. Not to be foiled by a license clerk, they boarded the train for Alliance, hoping in that place to attain their hearts' desire. In the meantime, the guardian of Miss Shetler, Mr. Martin King, had missed his fair ward and suspecting the cause of her disappearance he did a pony "stunt" of his own, making the distance from his place to Bayard in record breaking time. Not finding the girl, but discovering the absence of Mr. Roberts, his fears were confirmed and he called to his assistance the telegraph wires to locate the missing swain and his fair companion, which he successfully did in Alliance. Notifying the police, he succeeded in having them arrested before they attained their desired state of matrimony. Miss Shetler was placed under the watchful care of relatives and Mr. Roberts was notified by the authorities to keep his distance, which he did, returning home a loner, sadder, if not a wiser man.

Executive in New York Speech Says Policy Toward Corporations is "Live and Let Live"—Business Methods Not Consistent With Enforcement of Law Must Be Changed—Tariff Law is Defended

New York, Feb. 14.—President Taft, speaking at the Lincoln day celebration of the New York Republican club, made defense in detail of the policies of his administration. He declared business "hysteria," due to agitation and fear of drastic action against corporations in general, to be unjustified, and throughout his talk pleaded for the sinking of factional differences toward the future of the Republican party and the carrying out of its pledges.

"If the enforcement of the law is not consistent with the present methods of carrying on business, then it does not speak well for the present methods of conducting business, and they must be changed to conform to the law," declared the president, and his audience at the banquet tables in the Waldorf-Astoria cheered the utterance. Gov. Hughes, who shared the honors of the evening with the president, joined in the applause.

Mr. Taft adhered to his purpose of discussing platform pledges and how they should be kept. It was at the conclusion of a detailed argument as to how the Republican party is redeeming its pledges that he came to a discussion of the anti-trust law and Wall street, on which his utterances had been awaited with the greatest interest. The president declared that the administration would not "foolishly run amuck in business and destroy values and confidence just for the pleasure of doing so." Its policy was "Live and let live."

Must Strengthen Confidence. "No one," he continued, "has a motive as strong as the administration in power to cultivate and strengthen business confidence and prosperity.

"But there was no promise on the part of the Republican party to change the anti-trust law except to strengthen it. Of course the government at Washington can be counted on to enforce the law in the way best calculated to prevent a destruction of public confidence in business, but it must enforce the law."

The president declared there were signs which many construed to indicate that the Republican majority in congress might be replaced by a Democratic majority. The cause he asserted to be dissensions in the Republican party arising out of differences of opinion in regard to the rules in the house and to the personnel of the leadership in the senate.

He declared there existed a growing tendency to the assertion of individual opinion and purpose at the expense of party discipline. The movement was toward factionalism and small groups.

All this, Mr. Taft said, should be forgotten in furtherance of the one great aim—party success. To this end, he asserted, a campaign of education was required.

"I am far from saying the Republican party is perfect," declared the president, and then he gave a warning that party insurgency should be punished.

The high cost of living, Mr. Taft asserted, primarily was due to the "increase in the measure of value of gold and, in some measure, to combinations in restraint of trade."

Defends Tariff Bill. Mr. Taft again came to the defense of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill. He did not hesitate, he said, to repeat that it substantially complied with the party pledge for tariff revision, and that through the bill the party had "set itself strongly in the right direction towards lower tariffs."

The president brought statistics into his argument to show that there has been a revision downward on nearly all of the articles considered. Time and a wider knowledge, he thought, would remedy the conditions to a certain extent and give the people a greater realization of the conditions and of the remedial measures that must be taken.

New York, Feb. 15.—Andrew Carnegie has written Mayor Gaynor in simplified spelling, commending the mayor's recommendation that the personal tax be abolished, and relating his own experience as a taxpayer of $5,000,000. CALLS PEARY "BRAGGART"

Secretary of Arctic Club Takes Slay at Explorer.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Denouncing Robert E. Peary, the explorer as a "selfish egotist" and a "braggart," Capt. B. S. Osborn, secretary of the Arctic Club of America, has written a letter to the subcommittee of the house naval committee approving the latter's action in voting down the proposition to make Peary a rear admiral. The committee has received a large number of letters some condemning and some approving its action. Captain Osborn says in his letter:

"The action of the subcommittee on naval affairs in the matter of Civil Engineer Robert E. Peary—not Peary, for that is his assumed name—deserves the heartiest commendation of every American citizen who values justice and respects the United States navy.

"To have given this selfish egotist this braggart, the rank of rear admiral, would be a foul blot on the records of congress and an insult to the navy of the United States. It would have disgraced millions of our citizens who have no confidence in this alleged pole hunter and arctic fur trader and story teller, who for nearly a quarter of a century has been living off the people and sailing under a naval rank to which he had no legal right and for which he should have been severely reprimanded by the navy department long ago."

SENATE REMOVES INJUNCTION

Will Publish Tillman's Eloquent Condemning Roosevelt's Action.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Senator Tillman's "pitchfork" eloquence in condemnation of former President Roosevelt's appointment of a collector of customs at Charleston, S. C., which has lain in the senate closet for executive secrets for more than two years, will be given to the public. The senate ordered the injunction of secrecy removed from all of its records in the case of Dr. Wm. D. Crum, who failed of confirmation.

The speeches by Mr. Tillman in opposition to the nomination were never put down by the senate stenographers. Mr. Tillman, however, has copies and he desires to use them in forthcoming public utterances of the race question. The senate's action gives him this right.
