Wealth in Land

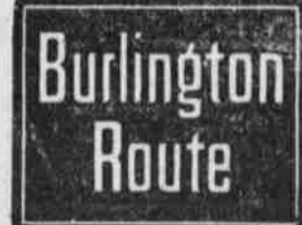

The Big Horn Basin, the Yellowstone Valley and the large Dry Farming valleys in Wyoming along the Burlington, offer exceptional opportunities for farmers, merchants, mechanics and professional men to locate near and in the new towns now springing up along the

Burlington's Main Lines to the Northwest

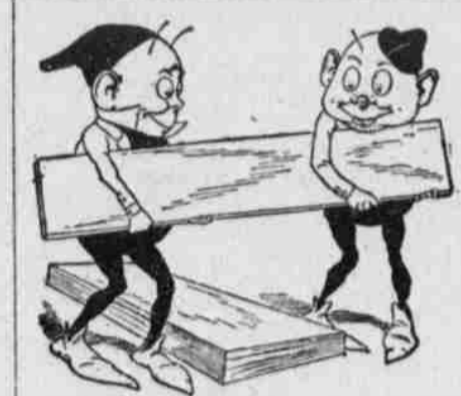

All of these rich farming valleys are surrounded by valuable pasture lands containing timber for the settlers and in most cases, coal and valuable building stone.

County Industrial Contest.

The Box Butte County Industrial contest for boys and girls will be held in the high school building at Alliance, April 16, 1910. It was thought for a while that this contest would be held at a somewhat earlier date, and the Herald has deferred making this announcement until the date was definitely decided upon as above.

The following bulletin issued by City Superintendent D. W. Hayes and County Superintendent Della Reed, gives interesting information that should be read by all persons interested in education:

EVERY BOY AND GIRL

In Box Butte County should have some part in this contest. It is conducted under the auspices of the schools of the county, by and for the boys and girls of the county. Its object is to stimulate a greater interest in home life and to make more practical the work of the schools. It will be a day for an educational rally, a day for comparing the work of the various schools, and also will afford an opportunity for seeing the best that is being done in the various schools of the county.

WHO MAY ENTER THE CONTEST.

Any boy or girl who has been enrolled in the public schools of Box Butte county during the present school year, providing the work in the individual exhibits shall be done by the pupil, unassisted by parents or others. The work exhibited by schools must be mounted on card board, each school being allowed four mounting boards, each 22x28 inches. Sufficient wall space will be provided where these mounting boards may be placed so as to show the work to the best advantage. Work must be so mounted that the mounting boards may be placed on the wall, the long way up and down. Work of the industrial type is to be especially encouraged.

SPACE AWARDED EACH SCHOOL.

In addition to the wall space, (enough for the four mounting boards as described above), sufficient shelving and table room will be provided for the forms of industrial work that can not be mounted. Also space for all individual exhibits.

All exhibits must be entered not later than Friday noon, April 15, excepting that the bread, cookies, doughnuts and chocolate cakes may be entered on Saturday morning before 9 a. m.

Name, age and address of exhibitor, teachers name, No. of school district, must accompany every separate item of exhibit. Blanks will be furnished.

JUDGES.

Competent judges from outside the county will be selected. Pupils who find it impossible to come should send their work anyway. It will receive the same recognition and will be judged with the same fairness and impartiality as if the pupil was present.

Other features of the program will be an address at 2.30 p. m. by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction E. C. Bishop. Also a musical and literary program will be furnished by the pupils and teachers of the Alliance city schools.

PRIZES AWARDED

As will be noted in the premium lists a number of valuable prizes are being offered. At least four prizes are offered in each class of exhibits.

BEGIN AT ONCE

Every school and every pupil who expects to enter this contest should begin at once on the work you expect to enter. Let every effort be along the line of improvements from now on looking toward the best that you can do by persistent and faithful effort.
