Acting on the principle that the best is none too good for the class of '10 the "classiest" announcements that we have seen issued by any high school in western Nebraska were ordered by this class through The Herald office. They consist of a four-page folder, vellum paper, with a three-letter monogram "A. H. S." elegantly embossed in gold at top of first page, following which is the following neatly printed in script:

"The class of Nineteen Hundred and Ten of the Alliance High School announce their Graduating Exercises Friday night, May Twenty-seventh, Phelan Opera House, Alliance, Nebraska." On an inside page are printed the class roll, the names of the faculty and the board of education.

Business Continues to Increase

The editor has been particularly interested in the business of the Alliance Creamery ever since coming to this city to take charge of The Herald. There are two or three reasons why. First, we are interested in seeing the city prosper, and we believe that any institution that increases the amount of business to be transacted is of great importance. More than this, we have believed right along that dairying is destined to become a leading industry in this part of the west, and we have felt like trying to encourage the growth of an industry that we are confident would be profitable to those who engage in it.

We are pleased to learn from W. E. Spencer, manager of the Alliance Creamery Co., that their business continues to increase. Last month they churned 3,700 pounds more butter than they did in April of last year and the increase for the balance of this season will be still greater than that, as they now have more than sixty cream stations in different towns in western Nebraska besides receiving cream from individual shippers, some of whom are in Wyoming, Colorado and South Dakota.

This company now has three traveling salesmen. Sam Albro, who is well known to many Herald readers, takes orders for butter as well as being traveling salesman for the Woodward Candy Co. O. J. Deen and V. W. Binderup represent the company on the road in the sale of separators and also in soliciting cream. Mr. Binderup recently removed to Alliance with his family from Minden, and we are pleased to welcome them to our city.

Song of the Editor

How dear to my heart is the steady subscriber,
Who pays in advance without skipping a year,
Who lays down his dollar and offers it gladly
And casts 'round the office a halo of cheer.
Who never says "stop it, I cannot afford it,"
Or "getting more papers each day than I read,"
But always says "send it, the whole outfit likes it—
In fact we regard it a business need."
—Exchange.

Even metropolitan newspapers sometimes contain typographical errors. An error in the composing room of the Omaha World-Herald recently made an editorial in that paper say "the first time the Labor Bureau has complied with the labor laws of Nebraska," when the editor intended to say, "the first time the Labor Bureau has complied the labor laws of Nebraska."

ATTENTION Farmers and Ranchmen

Here is something that you are interested in.

The time has come when stockmen must do more winter feeding, and when better feeding pays.

Two facts have been proven in regard to the use of the silo:

- 1st—Stock can be fed cheaper on ensilage,
- 2nd—They do better on it than on other feed.

We want to see Silos come into general use in western

Nebraska because that will mean more cream.

Now is the Time to Investigate
