Successful Fruit Grower

One of The Herald's Sheridan county ubscribera, Jules Sandoz, who is well known as a successful fruit grower. was in Alliance last week and gave the editor some interesting information about his twenty acre orchard and his experiments. The trees in his orchard consist principally of apple, plum and cherry, all of which do well. He has a large amount of small fruit, also, such as currants, gooseberries, raspperries, etc. The trees have been bearing well for a number of years, until this year the crop will be small on account of the late freeze which killed most of the tree fruit, although there will be a prolific crop of small fruit as usual,

Mr. Saudoz does not regret the loss of fruit by freezing this year, as it will give the trees a much needed rest, which they have earned by bearing heavily for a long time.

He gave us some information that we think will be interesting to many of our readers and that may be of value to some of them who wish to grow fruit in this country. We had always before supposed that the Sandoz orchard was on low bottom land, but he informs us that it is situated on a hillside varying from twenty to sixty feet to water. Another tact that surprised us is that the trees on the higher ground do better than those in the lowest part of the orchard. He believes that fruit trees in this country will do better on sloping ground than on the level. Any kind of slope will do, but a northwest slope is preferred.

A very important fact, and one that should be remembered by persons who contemplate starting an orchard, is that while many kinds of fruit do well, some varieties that thrive in other countries will not grow here successfully. As an illustration. Mr. Sandoz tried six different kinds of raspberries; five of them proved to be a failure, while the sixth grows and bears splendidiy.

That is the question that is asked so many times by doubting ones who would like to carry insurance but they allow their doubts and suspicions to cheat them out of one of the greatest blessings bestowed upon man or woman.

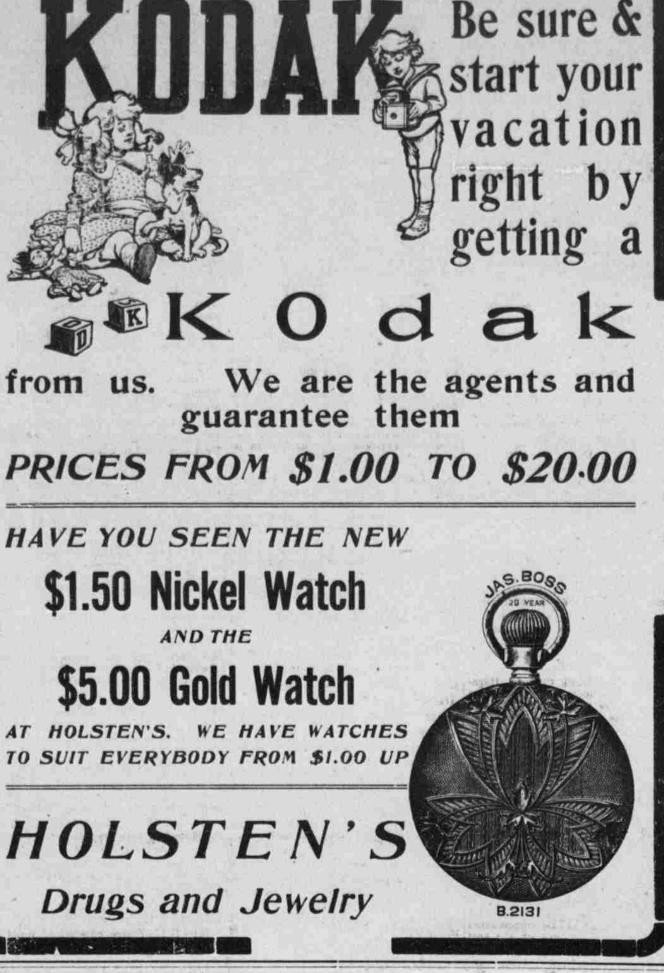

The following testimonials will set at rest all doubts in the mind of any sensible person:
