She came to Alliance to attend the teachers' institute, being the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Thomas, both of whom were her teachers when she was a school girl. Miss Parkyn has been a teacher in this county for several years and last year made the county her permanent home by taking up a homestead near Canton, on which she has since been residing. Although holding a claim, she still continues to teach school. Her school last winter was several miles distant from her homestead but she drove the distance morning and evening during the entire school year, except for a short time during the most severe winter weather, when she remained over night at the school house, having a suitable place nearby to keep her horse. Surely, if any one is entitled to a section of Uncle Sam's land by reason of making it an actual place of residence and improving it as well as trying to help develop the country, Miss Parkyn is doing her part to entitle her to the same.
