Celebrates Advent of Railroad

The heretofore "inland" town of Thermopolis, Wyo., is now reached by the Big Horn extension of the Burlington railroad. Of course the people of that town and surrounding country were greatly delighted upon the advent of railroad trains, and recently held a rousing celebration in honor of the event. Bishop Keane of the Cheyenne diocese was one of the speakers. The following extract from his address will be interesting to persons who want to see the great west developed:

"The question was not what it might cost, but is it at all possible, with barren mountain ranges, defiant barriers, and abysmal canons standing out challenging every resource? The apparently impossible is accomplished, and we are here to celebrate the triumph. The Railroad has been the civilizer of Western America. I was a young man when central Minnesota was the frontier of civilization to the North and West; now thousands of the happiest homes in the world deck the productive claims through the entire Northwest. Economical conditions may need reform, but this cannot be brought about by encouraging misapprehension regarding fundamental truths or principles and by ignoring the facts of life. Private property is as necessary to the full ideal of human personality and to development as is individual liberty. We have actual pressing needs. We want the Burlington, the Northwestern, and the Union Pacific to build on, and open the way. Let us be honest; let us realize that this building of the Burlington, like those we have hope for, are great ventures, entailing much risk. The promoters of such enterprises should be regarded with popular sympathy and encouraged by an assurance their rights will be respected."

Sidney Has Rest Room

Sidney has come forward with a rest room which is proving very popular. A lady is in charge every day from nine o'clock to six. The room is nicely furnished with rockers, dresser, table, baby cab, couch, and matting on the waxed floor. The room is made absolutely free to ladies from the country.

Our Lincoln Letter

Lincoln, Nebr., June 27.—(Special Correspondence.) Governor Shallenberger has decided not to call a special session of the legislature for the purpose of submitting an initiative and referendum amendment to the constitution to the voters of Nebraska. The Governor is actuated by several reasons. First, the failure of those who promised to have enough pledges from members of the legislature to insure the passage of the bill. Second, it would be impossible now to call the legislature into special session and have the bill passed in time to have it printed on the primary ballots and in this wise get it on the regular ballot so as to secure for it the votes of all those who vote a "straight ticket." Without this it has been demonstrated that it is impossible to secure the adoption of an amendment. Third, it would be necessary to call special elections in four legislative districts to fill vacancies, thus entailing heavy expense. Lastly the expense of an extra session would be enormous, and while Governor Shallenberger would very much like to secure the initiative and referendum during his administration, he does not feel that the situation warrants the expense and the turmoil of an extra session at this time.

Victor Wilson of Polk is being prominently mentioned in connection with the democratic nomination for state treasurer. Mr. Wilson has not yet decided to be a candidate, but he has many friends who are urging him to do so.

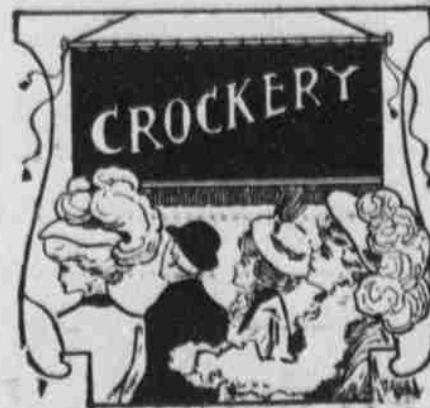

Superintendent Arnot of the Schuyler schools and formerly county superintendent of Dodge county, is said to be preparing to file for the democratic nomination as state superintendent.

Prof. J. W. Crabtree, formerly superintendent of the Peru Normal, has announced that he will be a republican candidate for the nomination as state superintendent.
