Junior Normal Notes

Miss Bertha Huston is enrolled again in Normal.

Tuesday morning Mr. Jones favored the students with some excellent piano solos.

Mrs. Leishman and her niece, Miss Hemby, come to school each day in the former's auto.

About 25 students took the examinations last Friday and Saturday for the teacher's certificate.

Mr. McLaughlin, agent of D. C. Heath & Co., interviewed most of the faculty last Saturday.

Frank Beers was a pleasant caller at the Normal last Friday. His wife is a student at the Normal.

Harold Jones and his niece, Adeline Hickey, entered school Monday. They are both former students.

"Uncle Everett" was hardly able to move around last week owing to a very severe attack of a Normal disease called "Battle."

One of the Wilsons gave a speech in chapel last Friday on the subject, "Boy and His Environment." It provoked much discussion.

In the rhetoric class two descriptions were written so well by Miss Katherine Rihn that Mr. Wilson has taken great pleasure in showing them.

E. P. Wilson, known by the appellation of the Good Looking Wilson, has won the hearts of his classes by his pleasant and genteel manners and his thorough teaching.

Norman McCorkle frequently plays for chapel exercises. Norman never puts himself forward but yet never needs coaxing. That is an excellent trait of character.

Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of the city schools of Chicago, will get more salary the coming year than all of the Alliance Junior Normal faculty. And yet they say women are inferior to men.

Supt. Pate recently gave a fine address to the teachers on the subject of reading. He gave many fine illustrations from memory. Sometimes the tears were in prominence, at others there was much mirth.

Rev. Huston of the Baptist church gave a lecture to the students on the subject, "There are Others." It was a splendid speech and while it caused much applause for its funniness at first it afterward gave much room for deep thinking.

Last week Prof. Gardner took about forty Normal students to the Creamery to learn something of the various processes of butter-making and incidentally to imbibe some of that unferrousing, bacteria abounding, bi-product known as buttermilk.

Earl M. Cline made a speech in chapel Monday and in behalf of a pledge he had taken years before presented Mr. Pate, our worthy Principal, a very beautiful knife and instructed him to keep it until he found a man more deserving of it.

Prof. Gardner will have a horse judging contest soon. Tuesday his class judged corn. Mr. Gardner certainly has a fund of knowledge of agriculture and his experience covering 39 years aid him largely in presenting his subjects in a very attractive and instructive manner. He is very popular at the Normal.

As soon as Normal is over, Prof. and Mrs. Philpott will go to their ranch and stay until the middle of September when their school work starts in Lincoln; Prof. E. P. Wilson will immediately teach an institute at Chadron; I. G. Wilson will go to Albion to move later to Pawnee City; Miss Chase will teach an institute at Chadron; Prof. Gardner will go to Rock county to look after some farm interests before going home to University Place.

The great excitement which has prevailed at the Normal for the past week culminated Monday in the most exciting ball game that perhaps has ever been played in the city of Alliance. Two of the instructors who take quite an interest in "clean athletics," one known as "Chanticleer" and the other as "bantam," had previously had two games. Chanticleer's side being victorious each time. This third game was for blood and by the looks of Chanticleer the Bantam must have gaffed him, for his gay feathers were drooping, his crow was not so lusty, and he limped from several different directions at the same time. The Bantam had previously gotten by worms, or otherwise, all the White Leg Hens, a few game hens and a few light Braams to cackle for him. Chanticleer seemed to be unpopular and with a bait of delicacies and grubs was only able to get a few young chickens, a few Plymouth Rocks and Buff Cochins. Such crowing and cackling was never heard before. It was as if a big hawk or an eagle had swooped down and pounced upon the most beautiful hen. It was so still at first; and then immediately after, such a bedlam of noises, of crowing, of cackling, of fluttering and squawking indicated that a golden egg must have been laid—but no it was only a "goose egg." In the ninth inning Chanticleer's crow feathers became prominent and when it was certain that he had enough the fight was over. The Bantam's side had 14 eggs to the Chanticleer's 11. The crowing by the Bantam will long be remembered. In the evening the Chanticleer furnished a beautiful repast of worms, grubs, ants and other delicious morsels of food which he had collected by hard scratching, to Bantam and his loyal hens.
