CAMPAIGN PLANS

National Suffrage Association Takes Up Political Tactics.

START IN FEELING THEIR WAY

Numerous Questions Propounded in Circulars Sent to Candidates for Congress, Some of Whom Make Reply—Headquarters Are Established in Washington—Make Gains in West.

Washington, Sept. 20.—Candidates for political offices and their followers are not the only persons busily campaigning during the dog days. Not to be outdone by the politicians of the unfair sex, the sleepless enthusiasts of "votes for women" have taken the warpath on their own account, and adopted campaign tactics. Candidates for congress, as fast as nominated, are being sent printed circulars asking what their attitude is toward woman suffrage.

The circulars are being sent by the congressional committee of the National Women's Suffrage association. Up to date few candidates have failed to respond. The chairman of the committee, Miss Emma M. Gillett, is gratified at the large number of responses received.

The middle west shows a surprising gain in suffrage sentiment. In Kansas, which has partial suffrage, the candidates, with few exceptions, ex-themselves in favor of full suffrage for women. The "show me" would be representatives are behind their Kansas brethren in using the view that the women should vote.

Questions Propounded.

Among the questions asked are: "Are you in favor of the full suffrage for women?"

"Are you for municipal suffrage for women?"

"Are you in favor of suffrage in any form for tax-paying women?"

"Are you opposed to any form of suffrage for woman?"

"If in favor of full suffrage for woman, do you approve of an amendment to the United States constitution in effect as follows: 'The right of the citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States nor by any state thereof on account of sex.'"

"If you do not favor an amendment to the national constitution would you support a woman suffrage amendment to your state constitution or to city charters in your state?"

Candidates Make Reply.

Several candidates have amplified their answers by going into detail in their views of woman's sphere.

Others state that women of their districts are satisfied without the vote. Representative Adamson of Georgia, who announced himself "a worshiper of the women," says their domination in matters political, social and domestic throughout Georgia is now unquestioned.

"Whenever they make up their minds to vote there is no doubt they will do so," he adds, after announcing himself not in favor of full suffrage for those whom he idolizes.

The headquarters of the woman's congressional committee is a busy place these days. Its chairman, Miss Gillett, is a practicing lawyer, and two of its five members are the daughters of former congressmen. Mrs. Katherine Reed Ballentine is the daughter of the late Thomas B. Reed of Maine, who was several times speaker of the house of representatives. The father of Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, Judge Taylor of Ohio, was chairman of the house judiciary committee to which woman suffrage petitions are considered.

Taft's Vacation is Over

Social Season at White House Promises to Be Unusually Active.

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 19.—When President Taft started for Cincinnati, via New Haven, at midnight, his vacation was practically at an end. He will spend the first two weeks of October at Beverly, but his days are likely to be filled with official business.

The president will return to Washington in the best of condition. He has lived an outdoor life for nearly three months and is as bronzed as an Indian. Mrs. Taft's health also has steadily improved and the White House social season promises to be an unusually active one.

ROOSEVELT-TAFT

Former President and President Meet in New Haven.

NOTHING SAID ABOUT 1912.

President Satisfied to Leave Indorsement of Administration to American People—Colonel Intimates Something Will Be Done After Elections—Truce on State Situation.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 20.—President Taft and Theodore Roosevelt met at New Haven, Conn., for the second time since the former president's return from Africa. Colonel Roosevelt sought the conference with the president. It was plain from what transpired before and after the meeting that the colonel and his political advisers are not a little worried over the situation in New York state, and came to the president for further evidence of his moral support. This the president was glad to give. He declared his position in the New York state fight had been clear from the very first. He said he sympathized heartily with the fight against "bossism" being waged by the people of the state.

Mr. Taft reiterated the statements he made in his letter to Lloyd C. Griscom, president of the New York county Republican committee, at the time of the Sherman-Roosevelt controversy over the temporary chairmanship.

President Taft announced to his callers anew what he had said in the Griscom letter—that he favored direct primaries for the nomination of congressmen and state legislators.

President Taft is not ready as yet to admit the advisability of doing away with conventions for the nomination of state officers. Mr. Taft understands that both Governor Hughes and Colonel Roosevelt are now practically in accord with his own position, although the governor fought at first for direct primaries for all offices.

Nothing About 1912.

President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt did not discuss the question of the presidency in 1912. The president has not been advised as to what Mr. Roosevelt's attitude is toward that convention. From sources close to the president it was said there was no occasion to discuss this subject.

Mr. Taft's position is this: He is willing to run if nominated. If his friends think there is a good chance for him to be re-elected, Mr. Taft feels that they will see to his nomination. Mr. Taft's political friends say if the American people vote him for a second term that not even Colonel Roosevelt can prevent his nomination. If the people do not appear to want him, Mr. Taft will be only too glad to submit to their decision. It can be stated that at the meeting at New Haven, while it may have been successful in its "tonic" effect and of moral advantage to the Roosevelt leaders in New York state, it was absolutely barren of results as to any understanding between the president and Colonel Roosevelt as to national issues or their personal relations in view of many recent events.

Something in the nature of a truce seems to have been arranged regarding the New York state situation. After that is over, events will shape themselves. Colonel Roosevelt himself is said to have let drop a hint as to his side of the matter—"something would be doing after the elections." Mr. Taft is letting just look out for itself. He declares he has other matters of concern at the moment.

It came out at the conference, which in addition to the president and Colonel Roosevelt, included Lloyd C. Griscom, Otto Bannard and Secretary Norton, that the Taft administration is to be indorsed at Saratoga. No mention of Mr. Taft as a candidate in 1912 will be made.

FIND CLOTHES ON RIVER BANK

Nebraska City Dentist Supposed to Have Ended Life in Missouri.

Nebraska City, Neb., Sept. 19.—A pile of clothes and naked foot prints leading to the Missouri's bank are the last traces of Dr. H. S. Ganson, who is feared to have committed suicide.

Dr. Ganson, one of the city's most prominent men, left his home at 2:30 a. m., mounted his bicycle, rode away toward the river and has not been seen since. The clothes were found neatly folded by the bank and the print of bare feet led down to the water.

Dr. Ganson's household knew of his departure, but thought little of it because he had been troubled with insomnia and it was supposed that, unable to sleep, he was merely taking a ride. When he did not return during the day search was instituted.

Dr. Ganson, who was a dentist by profession, belonged to the Ancient Order of United Workmen, the Knights and Ladies of Security and the Modern Woodmen. These societies have offered $150 for the recovery of the body and the river is being dragged. Dr. Ganson was married and there are four children.

The hammer struck the tongue of the wagon and the full charge of shot was received in the upper part of the leg. Owing to his age it is not expected that he will recover, he being over seventy years old.
