We are having fine autumn weather. Joseph Farley is having his home plastered.

Our new school house is ready for the carpenter work, as the sod is all laid ready for the roof. Edwin Owen and Isaac Shoffner will go to Alliance Wednesday to get a load of lumber to finish it.

On last Thursday we took a drive of eight or ten miles south across the country. The morning was rather cool and cloudy, but grew warmer toward noon. The first place we passed was that of C. H. Farley's, who had just completed a cattle shed and was putting up a wind mill. A mile farther on we found Rex Haworth building a cattle shed and hen house. We went over some rough, sandy road before reaching J. Bjornstahl, where the land was good again. He has a very good claim with good, substantial buildings, and has put up a new Eclipse wind mill to water the 75 head of horses. He is pasturing on his section at 35c a head per month. A mile or more from here, to the left of us, we see the buildings on the claim belonging to Miss Hulda Peterson. She is having a new barn built. A short distance from this we came to the Peterson ranch. Mr. Peterson has lived in this country for more than twenty years. We stopped here on our return home and found Mrs. Peterson a very sociable and entertaining lady. They have a nice, comfortable home with very neat and pleasant surroundings. Mr. Peterson's son-in-law is building him a new house a little south of the home place. We saw Ed Peterson's home in the distance to the right of us. We arrived at Guy Mart's about eleven o'clock and took dinner with them. We enjoyed the good things Mrs. Mart prepared for dinner, especially the light, snowy biscuits and the peaches and cream. On our return home we passed by the new house of Marshal Houser. They have just moved into their new home and have a fine location. As we neared the home of Augustus Lebeck we saw a chicken thief stealthily creeping through the garden until he reached the flock of chickens that were busy eating their evening meal. He grabbed one and started for the hills. We will venture to say that Gus will give a dollar or two for his arrest; his scalp is worth $1.50 and his coat he wore four or five dollars more. If anyone wants the job come around. Of all the improvements we saw as we passed through the country none can excel this young man's for neatness and arrangement and being well built. As we were "passing Pike's" the sun sinking in the distant horizon lingered to touch the low hung clouds with that beautiful gold and red, encircling the peak as to make it a thing of beauty. It seemed a burst of glory. If earth lends such enchanting views to our vision here, what will heaven be in all its glory? Worth seeking after, surely.
