"Dr. Miles' Nervine Raised Me From the Grave"—Mrs. Taylor

This is a strong statement to make, but it is exactly what Mrs. Thomas Taylor, of Blum, Texas, said in expressing her opinion of this remedy.

"Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine raised me from the grave and I have much confidence in it. I can never say enough for your grand medicines. If anyone had offered me $1000 for the second bottle of Nervine that I used I would have said 'no indeed.'" MRS. THOMAS TAYLOR, Blum, Tex.

SPRING BRINGS SORE FEET

HERE IS A POSITIVE CURE

With the advent of warm weather comes foot troubles to thousands of people. The increased temperature and heaviness of the atmosphere causes swelling and excess perspiration. This brings on a series of foot troubles. The treatment given below will be welcomed with joy by an army of sufferers. It acts like magic. "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of hot water; soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes gently massaging the sore parts. Less time will not give the desired results.) Repeat this each night until the cure is permanent." All soreness disappears immediately. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. Bunions are reduced to normal and the inflammation drawn out. Sweaty and smelly feet, tender and swollen feet need but a few treatments. This Calocide is a remarkable drug. Formerly used only by doctors but any druggist now has it in stock or will quickly get it from his wholesale house. A twenty-five cent package is claimed to cure the worst feet.

NEBRASKA STATE FAIR

An Educational Institution for the Masses.

Frank G. Odell, popularly known as "The Bee Wizard," from his remarkable success in public demonstrations with the hot-footed pets, is a visitor in his professional capacity at the biggest state fairs in the country. He declares that the Nebraska State Fair is the best of them all and voices his opinion of the coming fair of 1911 as follows:

"When the Nebraska State Fair is declared to be the best in America the statement must be accepted with reference to its entirety. Other fairs in older states, where the importance of building up a great agricultural interest is better appreciated by the legislatures, may have finer buildings and larger attendance; some of them may excel in individual lines of exhibit, but none of them can present for public approval a more perfectly balanced display of the fruits of the land and of industry, a finer organized machinery of management, or a greater educational value to offer its patrons." It has been his good fortune to know this great fair of ours intimately for many years, as well as to be a visitor professionally at many other of the greatest fairs on this continent; under such conditions one becomes to some degree a naturally fitted critic of fair displays and management. It is a source of no small gratification to find in visiting these other expositions that their managing officers have all heard of Nebraska and its State Fair, and that they frequently express the hope that some time they may reach the perfection of fair management to be found in our good state. He says:

"I think the people of Nebraska should know of this flattering state of facts, particularly because the management of our fair are not personally vainglorious, being chiefly intent on making each succeeding fair bigger and better than the one before, in which laudable purpose they are succeeding admirably. We should be proud of our State Fair because it is one of the substantial assets of the state, presenting to the people annually for a single week the concrete exhibition of our untiring industry, the fruits of our wonderful soil and the multiplying prosperity and intelligence of our people. It is a great educational institution, none the less educational because its days are few and its glory fleeting. The lessons of thrift it teaches are enduring and the ambitions it awakens in many a heart to excel in some line of practical endeavor are beyond computation. Every time a boy or girl, a man or woman, goes home from the State Fair to prepare a better exhibit for the next year the products of the state are increased and those influences set in motion which make for permanent prosperity. Who shall say that this is not an educational institution which accomplishes these things?"

"The casual visitor, seeking a holiday, will find in the 1911 fair a surfeit of good things. Time was when a single running race and two harness races made up a good daily program, but now those who delight in 'the sport of kings' will find double that number, the day being filled and the night being spent in exciting races under the daylight glare of great calcium lights illuminating the track like the blaze of the sun at noonday. The new steel frame grandstand, with its seating capacity of over 6,000, will provide room and comfort for the thronging thousands who flock to the races. Nor is this by any means the feature par excellence of entertainment; for to the more aesthetic there is the grand musical festival, which alone is worth more than the small price of admission to the fair. The ever popular Liberati, with his great military band of forty-one pieces, and a grand opera troupe of twenty of the finest singers, will delight the crowds with four grand concerts daily. Three of these will be given during the day in the spacious Auditorium, containing 5,000 comfortable seats, which will be free to all. The fourth daily concert will open the evening performance at the racetrack. Beside Liberati and his premier musicians, four other of the finest bands in the state will give daily concerts in the new stock judging pavilion, at the various band stands and at the races, furnishing a musical festival unsurpassed in exposition history.

"The young and festive will find jollity supreme on the big white way, where the great Patterson shows will be in full swing, with fifteen of their finest productions, for the entertainment of the people. Free moving picture shows which have proven so popular in past years will continue to delight the multitudes. At the quarter street will be given the great free vaudeville acts, seven in number, such as are regularly booked as headliners on the Orpheum circuit. These are: "Rollo the Limit," in his death defying slide for life; the Cretos, in the greatest trick house novelty act of the season; Eary & Landore, comedy parodist bar artists; four performing elephants; head balancers and ladder and trapeze experts, presenting a great circus of entertainment. Each night in addition to the Liberati concert and vaudeville there will be two running races, a Roman chariot race and hippodrome race on the brilliantly lighted track, followed with a forty minutes' display of the finest fireworks obtainable. By far the most sensational and popular of free attractions will be the aeroplane flights.
