William G. Stamm, a merchant of Lincoln who is well known in that city, has filed for the democratic nomination for the office of Nebraska railway commissioner. We note that he is well recommended by other business men of the capital city.

Judging by the reception given by the press of western Nebraska to the candidacy of W. L. Minor of Morrill, for the office of land commissioner of Nebraska, if his nomination and election were left to this part of the state he would be chosen to that office by an overwhelming majority.

A certain Missouri editor declines to publish obituary notices of men who, while living, failed to subscribe for their home paper. He claims that a man who does not take his home paper is a dead one before his departure from this life and consequently notice of his death would not be news.

For some reason which we are not fully able to account for, the editor of the Bridgeport News-Blade takes a pronounced standpat position on the political issues of the day. Says the Scotsbluff Herald: "The Bridgeport News-Blade seems determined to prevent Mr. La Follette from becoming president. Now, we don't care a whoop whether it's La Follette or Bryan or Wilson or any other good man. But Bill Taft, with his overfed smile—take him away."

We invite the attention of our farmer readers to the article in this issue of The Herald in regard to sugar beet culture in Box Butte and adjoining counties. We would like to see this matter investigated thoroughly. If it can be made a success, as some think, it will mean a great deal in the development of northwestern Nebraska. We shall be pleased to hear from our readers in regard to what they think of the proposition, and also receive information they may have as to experiments that have already been made.

When announcing himself as a candidate for delegate from the 3rd Nebraska Congressional district to the National Democratic Convention, Will H. Greene presents a platform which contains the following: "The situation requires every candidate to come out into the open and say where he stands. If elected as a delegate to the democratic national convention my aim will be to do everything in my power to aid the progressive cause. My experience in Washington has taught me that Mr. Bryan is hated by those who wish to serve the special interests under cover. Therefore, if elected as a delegate I intend to uphold Mr. Bryan's hands in his determination that the national democracy shall not take a step backward, nor bid for the favor of trusts and combinations."

According to the New York board of health, three drinks a day is the limit if one expects to keep in good health. It is declared that more drinks mean an untimely death from liver trouble and kindred diseases. The information was given in a report of the increase in the death rate the last few years. The board declares that cancer, liver and heart diseases are largely due to a lack of exercise, and over-eating and drinking. As the amount of alcohol differs so much in different kinds of liquors, it seems to us the New York board of health ought to be more specific. There is more alcoholic poison in one drink of some kinds of liquor than in three of other kinds. If three drinks per day of the milder beverages is the limit, one drink, and a small one at that, would be the limit for some of the stronger.

The Wyoming State Fair has been located at Douglas for a number of years but it seems that the people of Cheyenne are trying to have it removed from there. This leads a gentleman who is familiar with the names of the towns of that state to say, "If Cheyenne should beat Douglas out of the state fair, would Casper lander?"

LOCAL PARAGRAPHS

Lester & Son shipped a car load of horses last Saturday night to the St. Joe market.

Ben Swanson left last night for a two or three weeks' visit with a brother and other friends in Iowa.

We are pleased to add the name of G. H. Trospen, chief engineer at the Alliance creamery, to our list of subscribers to The Herald this week.

A. B. Hosman of Hyannis, landlord of the Commercial hotel of that place, was in Alliance Tuesday attending to business and shaking hands with friends.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Simpson, January 16, 1912, a girl, making four children in the home, three girls and a boy. Mother and child are getting along nicely.

Surveyor and Mrs. F. E. Hamblin are living temporarily in the house formerly occupied in South Alliance by Mr. and Mrs. Mollick, just west of Mr. Hamblin's house that burned.

E. G. Laing wants the people to know, and accordingly takes a part of our first page this week to tell them about it. We do not need to tell you to see his ad as you have already seen it before reading this item.

Mrs. Ida M. Ross has been quite indisposed for the past few weeks and scarcely able to attend to her piano business but The Herald is pleased to learn that she is feeling much better.

Mrs. G. J. Trospen and baby boy, who have been visiting in Kansas since Thanksgiving, are expected home about the 1st of February. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Trospen will begin housekeeping in Alliance.

One of the Broken Bow newspapers says that the High school basket ball team of that place won the game recently played there with the Alliance boys. The Herald begs to correct the B. B. reporter. Alliance won, 53 to 19.

After our "Track and Train" news had been put into type this week and the type (linotype slugs) had been placed in the third page form, our railroad correspondent kindly furnished a second installment of railroad news, which appears on another page.

The members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church are packing a box with clothing and bedding for distribution among needy persons in the sand hill country. Persons who wish to contribute anything for this purpose are requested to do so before next Monday, leaving the same with Mrs. Wm. Bignell, 618 Box Butte avenue.

Harvey Myers is one of The Herald readers who does a good part in giving the paper an extensive circulation. Besides taking the paper himself, he has been sending it for some time past to his brother, Milo Myers, East Akron, Ohio, and this week called and subscribed for his friend, W. M. Lichte, Mt. Angel, Oregon.

The time of year has arrived when the horse business takes on new life, especially in blooded stock for breeding purposes. Edgar W. Wilson received a car load of imported and home bred stallions today for his trade the coming season. The Herald is pleased to note the disposition on the part of farmers and ranchmen in this country to improve the quality of their horse flesh.

Joe Orchowksi, who was formerly in the tailoring business in Alliance but is now holding a Kinkaid thirteen miles northeast of Ellsworth, was in town Saturday. He was on his way back to his place from Angora, having made a visit to Mrs. Orchowksi and the little daughter that was born December 27th, at the home of its grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Messick, four miles from Angora. While in town Joe ordered his name placed on The Herald subscription list, and of course we are pleased to place it, there.

Oliver Countryman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Countryman, was brought to Alliance from South Dakota recently on account of being sick. In order to be taken care of at the home of his parents. An attack of pneumonia, combined with his previous illness, made his condition critical, but we are pleased to learn just before going to press with this issue of The Herald that there is a turn for the better in his condition.

The grand jury now in session has added a good deal of interest to the present term of district court but just what it will amount to we will not be able to inform our readers until next issue.

Wishing to secure a cut of Father McNamara and give a writup of the services at Holy Rosary church, publication of this issue of The Herald is deferred from Thursday forenoon to Thursday afternoon.

Horace Bogue has been under the weather the past week. He came down to the store today, the first time for several days.

James Donovan left today on the special train going to Crawford to be gone a week or ten days on business.

Ed. Cooper, a prosperous old time rancher from north of Seneca, was in Alliance from Saturday till Monday. He had business to look after and also made his old friend, J. M. Donovan, a pleasant visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Blue, who came out from Omaha in the fall, are stopping with Mr. and Mrs. Charley Heath, northeast of Alliance. Mr. Blue is a violinist and Mrs. Blue a pianist and together they furnish music for all occasions as will be seen by the professional card in this issue of The Herald.

Supt. W. R. Pate attended a meeting of the principals of the eight State Junior Normals of Nebraska at Lincoln. He left Alliance Monday noon, returning last night. The date set for the Alliance Junior Normal to begin is June 3rd, the same to continue eight weeks. Full announcement will appear in The Herald in due time.

County Supt. Miss Della M. Reed attended a meeting of the county superintendents of the state at Lincoln Monday and Tuesday of this week. The meeting was called by State Supt. Delzell.

We are glad to report that Dr. Maxfield has recovered from his illness and is busily engaged in office duties this week.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

My health is not good, so I will have to go west as soon as I can sell my stuff and straighten up my business. Seventeen years ago, the 27th of September, I was married to Miss Daisy Eicher, on her seventeenth birthday. A case of sickness caused a separation a year and six months after our marriage. Mrs. Daisy Kauffold was a true and faithful wife to me but for about fifteen years she was only a cook and housekeeper. She cannot stay here on the farm alone, so I give her up and have no more to say. I must go and she can do as she pleases. She is a good woman, kind, true and a good worker. She can take care of her own business. As she is a woman with means and lots of money she won't need to work any more. She has been like a dear sister to me but we must part. So now, if any one has anything to say, say it now or hold your tongue forever more. I give her liberty and say good-bye.

FRED KAUFFOLD.

One of the many names added to The Herald subscription list recently is that of Guy Miller, 324 Touca avenue.

FEED FOR DAIRY COWS

One of the important conditions that cause the cow to give more milk during the early spring and summer is that she obtains succulent feed. To maintain a good flow of milk during the winter some form of succulent feed should be given.

By the term succulent feed is meant one having that property possessed by green grass. Such feed has a value outside of the actual nutrients it contains, on account of its favorable effect on the digestion of the animal. There are two methods in use for supplying this food during the winter season. One is the use of root crops and the other is the use of silage. In some parts of the world the use of root crops is almost universal, and is the solution of the problem. In this state the use of silage is far more practical, however, than the use of root crops, and for that reason it is recommended exclusively for this purpose.

There is no way in which the corn crop can be better used to advantage than by putting it into the silo. More feeding value can be obtained from an acre of corn kept in this way than in any other condition. Silage is palatable, and cattle relish it as part of the roughness.

In feeding silage it must not be expected that it will be sufficient as the only roughage. Hay should be fed in addition. The hay that goes well with silage to make a balanced ration is clover, alfalfa or cowpea hay. From 30 to 45 pounds per day is counted a reasonable feed of corn silage. It can be fed to almost any stock.

SHORT COURSE BEGINS

The winter course of the School of Agriculture opened as usual on Jan. 2 and furnishes the best of opportunities for farmers' boys and young farmers who can spare the time for a month or six weeks to study practical agricultural problems under expert teachers. The instruction includes a study of field crops, the judging of corn and other grains, a study of soil management, horticulture, etc. In the live stock department attention is given to the feeding of live stock, the judging of horses, cattle, and swine, and practical methods of maintaining a live stock farm. Instruction is given in dairying and in animal diseases. The operation and management of farm machinery is also studied, with a view of fitting the student to make a better selection of the machinery purchased, to take better care of that now on hand, and to operate farm machinery with the greatest economy and success.

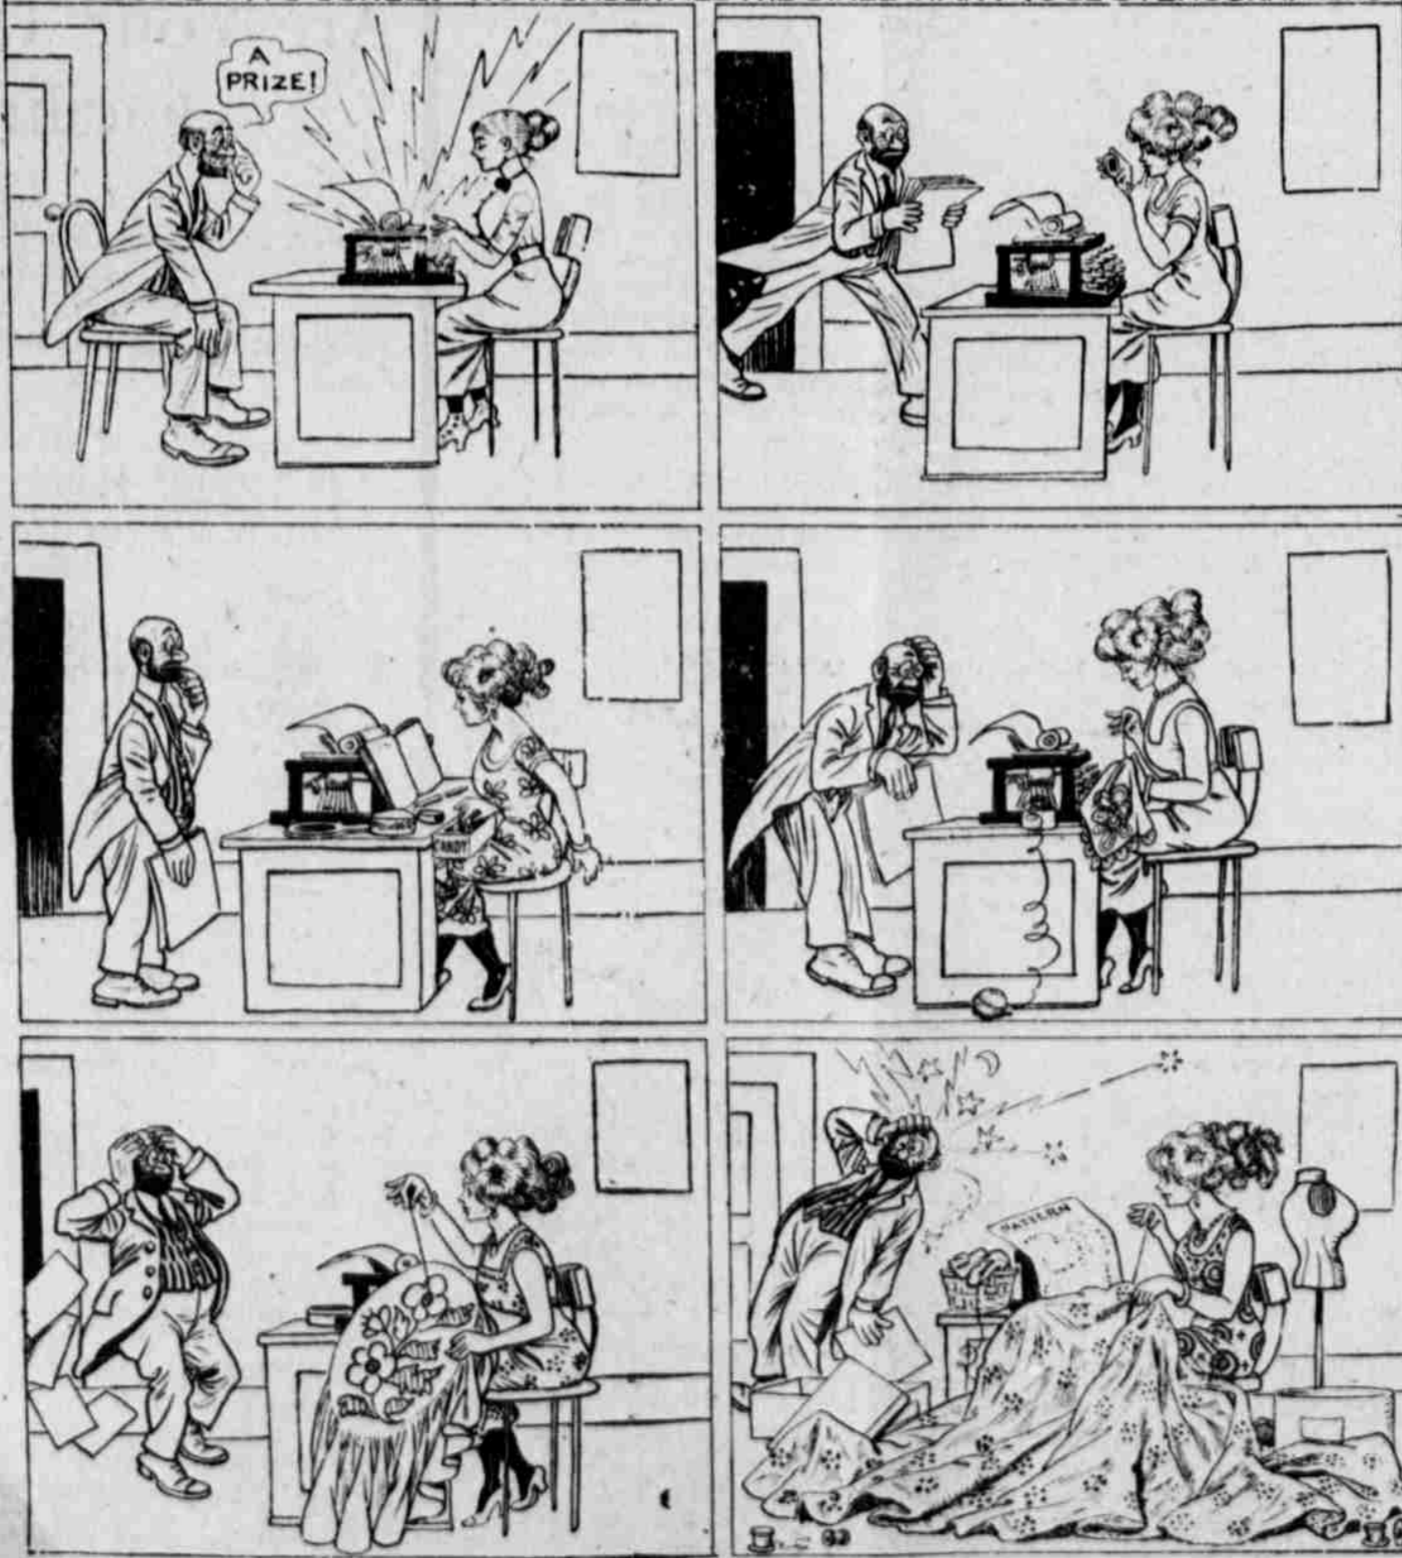

Lectures are given in farm management dealing with the organization of the business of the farm, the methods of conducting farm operations, and a study of profit and loss under different methods of farm management.

The winter course has always drawn a large number of young farmers who wish to practice the most up-to-date methods, and those who have been in attendance have greatly appreciated the advantages which were offered by this course.
