WOODROW WILSON IS THE NOMINEE

New Jersey's Governor Named by Democrats at Baltimore

46TH BALLOT TELLS THE TALE

We couldn't conceal our feelings if we would, and we wouldn't if we could. Hurrah for Woodrow Wilson, progressive democratic candidate for president of the United States!

Breaking one of the most prolonged deadlocks ever known in a national political convention, Woodrow Wilson, governor of New Jersey, Tuesday afternoon was nominated for the presidency by the democratic national convention at Baltimore. The nomination was made on the forty-sixth ballot. He received 990 out of a total of 1,088 votes. Clark received 84 and Harmon 12 on the last ballot. Later the nomination was made unanimous on motion of Senator Stone of Missouri.

The deadlock that has prevailed for nearly a week was broken when the name of Oscar W. Underwood was withdrawn by Senator Bankhead of Alabama.

The nomination of Governor Wilson came after an intensely exciting period during which the delegates pledged to Champ Clark, Governor Foss and Governor Harmon, as well as those to Representative Underwood had been formally released.

THOMAS R. MARSHALL FOR VICE PRESIDENT

At a little before two o'clock Wednesday morning, Governor Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana was nominated for vice president. Only three ballots were taken. Others whose names were presented to the convention for the vice presidential nomination were Governor Burke of North Dakota, Elmore W. Hurst of Illinois, Martin J. Wade of Iowa, James H. Preston of Maryland and Champ Clark. The name of Clark was withdrawn before the balloting began.

Governor Marshall is an able man, and without doubt will make a strong running mate for Governor Wilson. W. J. Bryan predicts that the ticket will be elected by two million majority of the popular vote, and it looks to us like a good guess.

AN UNTIMELY DEATH

While Bathing Glen W. Garrison Expires from Effects of Former Injury

BURIAL MAY BE AT LINCOLN

Great excitement was caused in Alliance Tuesday evening by the report that a man had been drowned in Judge Berry's swimming pool in the east part of town. Glen W. Garrison died while bathing, but investigation proved beyond a doubt that he was not drowned.

We get the following facts from his brother, Dallas Garrison, the plumber, with whom he had been boarding at the residence of J. C. Schafer: Glen was twenty years of age. Some five or six years ago he had his skull fractured in playing shinney, another boy striking him over the head with a stick. Apparently the injury healed. About two years ago he enlisted in the U. S. marine corps. He was then residing in Colorado. Upon going to a lower altitude he became ill. An X-ray examination showed that he was suffering from the old injury to his skull, and was told that an operation would be necessary to relieve him from the effects of it. Not wishing to submit to an operation in the climate where then located he was given a medical discharge.

After returning to his home he was examined and told by the physician that on account of his youth he might possibly outgrow the injury, but there was a probability that it would cause his instant death. About a week ago he leased the swimming pool of Judge Berry, and had charge of it at the time of his death.

His father, who lives at Deer Trail, Colo., is expected here this (Thursday) morning. Funeral arrangements will not be completed until after he arrives. It is probable that the young man will be buried by the side of his mother in the cemetery at Lincoln, Nebr.

William and Lillian Lunn, the little son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Lunn, left Saturday night for Omaha expecting to spend the summer with their grandmother, Mrs. C. B. Rodgers, and aunts.

TRAGICAL END OF SAD LIFE

Despondent Woman Ends Life Last Sunday

Last Sunday evening people of Alliance were horrified to learn that Mrs. Helen Ridgell had taken her own life by shooting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Robert E. Evans, 824 Big Horn avenue. It was so clearly a case of suicide that no inquest was considered necessary.

Mrs. Ridgell was the daughter of Henry Broich of Berwyn, Nebr., well known and esteemed in Alliance, having formerly resided here. She was brought up in the Catholic faith, but for some reasons was not entitled to the rights of the church at the time of her death. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Olin S. Baker, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, yesterday afternoon, and was attended by a large number of sympathetic friends.

Mrs. Ridgell was beset with more trouble than commonly falls to the lot of one woman. While deploring her rash act, many will drop a sympathetic tear and pity her for the ills of the past. Especially will they unite their sympathies for the bereaved relatives in the sudden and awful grief that has come to them.

Wm. Sulzbach of Marple was in Alliance on business yesterday and favored The Herald office with a call.

LOCAL PARAGRAPHS

Chas. Duke, who is well known in Alliance, came up from Ogalalla last Saturday for a visit with friends.

Mrs. J. W. Reed and daughter, Mrs. W. J. Tragesser, will leave Saturday noon for a visit at Brush, Colorado.

Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Wittman of Lingle, Wyo., passed thru Alliance Tuesday enroute east. Rev. Wittman is pastor of the Presbyterian church at Lingle. He will attend a summer school for ministers at Madison, Wis., during his vacation.

S. D. Ricketts has taken charge of the Simon Spry barn and as will be seen by the advertisement in this issue of The Herald, it will hereafter be open to customers day and night. See the ad if you have occasion to patronize a feed barn in Alliance.

J. E. Blair, who has a ranch some fifteen miles west of Sterling, Colo., was in Alliance the first of this week with a view to securing a ranch property in this part of Nebraska. He informed The Herald that they have been having plenty of rain in his part of the country so far this year.

E. D. Mallory of Alliance and Henry Wasmund, Sr., of Rushville, republican and democratic candidates for state representative from the district composed of Box Butte and of Sheridan counties, have made preparations for a good race, each having recently purchased a new automobile.

A. E. Cable, head salesman at the Horace Bogue store, will leave Alliance within a few days for a ten days' vacation, most of which he will spend in Omaha where he formerly resided and where his father is in business. Mr. Cable is a live wire and has made good in the position which he now holds. He is a hustler and has earned the vacation which he will enjoy all the more because of having worked hard and given strict attention to business.

If you want a reliable fountain pen, better get a Parker's "Lucky Curve" while you can get it at one-third off regular price at Brennan's. (30-2-1350)

L. M. Scott and J. Herman of Lakeside attended the funeral of John Leistriz in Alliance last Friday.

Dr. M. C. Haworth, of the Quaker Valley neighborhood south of Reno, drove up to Alliance last Friday on business.

Cawford Courier, June 29: L. A. Girton of Ardmore passed thru the city Tuesday with a string of running horses with which he won several races at the Stockmen's convention at Alliance.

Some much needed repairs are being made at the M. E. church, in the auditorium and also in the basement. Last week some painting was done, and this week the frescoers are at work. By the time they have finished the job the church will present a beautiful interior appearance.

It was to be expected that after Aviator Cooper had sailed around over Alliance and the surrounding country a few times the boys would at once get busy making flying machines. And they did. Schuyler Gilman was one of the first to complete an aeroplane. It is a biplane and attracts a good deal of attention on exhibition in the show window of Brennan's drug store.

Born, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Zehring in Alliance, to Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Otto, on Sunday, June 29, a girl. The parents are prominent ranch people north of Lakeside and their friends in that neighborhood as well as in Alliance will congratulate them upon the arrival of the little daughter.
