WINCHESTER

.401 Caliber
Self-Loading Rifle.

This new Winchester is reloaded by recoil, the repeating as well as the firing mechanism being under control of the trigger finger. A bullet fired from it strikes a blow of 2038 pounds—force enough to topple over the biggest game—penetration enough to reach the innermost vital spot. The wonderful in operation and powerful in execution, this rifle is neither complicated in construction nor cumbersome to handle.

It Hits Like The Hammer Of Thor.

Is the Liquor Business Indispensable to the Farmer?

By Prof. John A. Nicholls
The manufacturers of intoxicating liquors quite frequently represent themselves as indispensable to the farmers, on account of the market they afford him for his grain. But investigation shows that only a very small part of the farmer's total products are taken by the breweries and distilleries. For instance, during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911, 114,508,855 bushels of barley, wheat, rye, corn and oats were used in making alcoholic liquors. But the farmers raised, during the year 1910, a total of 5,143,187,000 bushels of these same grains, and this shows that the liquor traffic uses less than two and one-half per cent of the five leading grain crops of the land. For every bushel of grain used by the breweries and distilleries more than forty-four and three-fifths bushels are used for legitimate food purposes. Out of every one hundred dollars' worth of grain sold by the farmer the brewer and distiller buy about $2.25 1/2 worth.

The liquor interests have long tried to create the impression that the withdrawal of this wasted consumption would be a disaster. They cry out that if the liquor traffic is abolished one of the markets for grain will be destroyed and a terrible calamity will fall upon the farmers. But the closing of the distillery and brewery would set at liberty a large amount of capital and labor which would be diverted to other channels of business, including among other things the development of produce and its adaptation to the wants of the people. Many millions of dollars now expended in liquor would be expended in farm produce of various kinds. There is a large proportion of our people who do not consume as much of our farm produce as they need and desire, because of the waste of wealth in the consumption of intoxicants, and if this waste ceased, the demand for farm produce would at once increase. Experience has shown that the closing up of the saloons and the outlawing of the liquor traffic has always proved a net benefit to every legitimate industry. A chapter in the history of Ireland furnishes a graphic illustration. During the years 1800-10 and 1813-14 the distilleries of Ireland were stopped on account of the famine, on the ground that these distilleries wasted the grain that might otherwise be used by the people as food. The results were surprising. The consumption of spirits fell off nearly one-half. On the other hand there was a tremendous increase in the demand for dry goods, blankets, cotton goods, sugar, hardware, crockery, groceries and other necessities, thus showing that a year of scarcity with prohibition is better than a year of plenty without it. The falling off of the sale of intoxicants was followed by an increase in the demand for articles of comfort, thus marking not simply the absence of a great curse, but the presence of domestic and personal happiness, and of a thriving trade.

The suppression of the liquor traffic would be of great benefit to the farmers, who are now taxed heavily to pay their part of the enormous expense of taking care of the great army of orphans and paupers, drunkards and criminals produced by this destructive and degrading traffic. The liquor traffic now destroys the buying capacity of the men who put their money into whiskey and beer. For every one hundred dollars spent for liquor the farmer now receives $5.00. If the money were spent for other commodities the farmer's share would be very largely increased. It is manifest that the boasted value of the liquor traffic as a profitable aid to the farmer's market has not the slightest backing of actual facts, but that on the contrary, it is at war with the true interests of the farmer and is a monopolist of the worst and most enslaving character.

TRY ANGORA OR NORTHPORT
Bayard Transcript Objects to County High School at Bridgeport

The Bayard Transcript enters a vigorous protest against bonding Morrill county to build a county high school at Bridgeport, and gives its reasons for objecting to locating the school at that town. By way of compromise we suggest that they locate it at Angora or Northport. Following is the Transcript article in regard to the matter:

"From last week's Blade we learned that a petition was being circulated to induce the county commissioners to call a special election to vote bonds to build a county high school in Bridgeport. Great suffering snakes! Of course we will vote for something to benefit Bridgeport. Morrill county certainly ought to have a county high school to accommodate its yearly output of twelve or fifteen graduates and no better selection of a place could be made than Bridgeport with its three saloons and general reputation of being the toughest town in western Nebraska. The parents who are desirous of having their children attend high schools or colleges would prefer to send them to town big enough to have discipline outside of the educational boundaries. There is a moral as well as a mental training to be secured by students that would not be likely to exist in a town like Bridgeport. Some day, and we hope it is not far away, a county high school will be necessary in this county but it will probably be several years before that time arrives and in the meantime we hardly think that the voters of the county, if it comes to a vote will feel it their duty to hand anything to Bridgeport which would be about as useless to the county as well as some other things in Bridgeport."

Opportunity for Men Who Can Ride Anything That Has Hair

The cowboy who claims to be able to ride anything that has hair will be given the opportunity at Cheyenne's Frontier celebration which begins August 14.

C. B. Irwin and a number of cowboys from his ranch have already arrived at the Frontier grounds and are camping there previous to the opening of the celebration. They have with them two bucking buffalo, which have never been successfully ridden, an unusually vicious Shetland stallion which can scarcely be mounted much less ridden, and among the pets of the collection is a powerful half tamed elk, which so far has defied the best efforts of every rider to remain on his back. In addition the Frontier committee is bringing in a vast number of outlaw and wild horses and the ambitious broncho-buster "who can ride anything that has hair" will have his work cut out for him when he enters the Frontier lists.

THE BILLION DOLLAR WASTE

The Herald is in receipt of an article on silos, written by Prof. H. M. Cottrell, the noted agricultural authority. It is headed "The Billion Dollar Waste", and explains how that approximately that sum of money is lost to the farmers of America every year by failure to utilize to the full extent the feed value contained in the stalks and leaves of the great corn crop of this country. The article is too long to print in this issue of The Herald, but we understand that our readers can secure a copy by writing to E. H. Clark, secretary National Silo Manufacturers and Jobbers Association, Lincoln Hotel Bldg., Lincoln, Nebr. This notice is not an advertisement. We are publishing it because we are interested in the silo proposition for northwestern Nebraska.

A GREAT RECORD

Hard to Duplicate it in Alliance

Scores of representative citizens of Alliance are testifying for Doan's Kidney Pills. Such a record of local endorsement is unequalled in modern times. This public statement made by a citizen is but one of the many that have preceded it and the hundreds that will follow. Read it:

Mrs. Robert Bicknell, 504 Big Horn Ave., Alliance, Nebr., says: "I have known of the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills for over three years. I first used them in Pleasanton, Iowa, and after coming to Alliance about a year ago, I procured a supply at Holsten's Drug Store as they are the best remedy I have ever known for disordered kidneys. For a number of years I was afflicted with kidney complaint and was unable to find permanent relief until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They disposed of the pain in my loins and also strengthened my back. Since then I have felt like a different person. I cannot recommend Doan's Kidney Pills too highly in return for the benefit they brought."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Women!

If weak, you need Cardui, the woman's tonic. Cardui is made from gentle herbs, acts in a natural manner, and has no bad results, as some of the strong drugs sometimes used. As a medicine—a tonic—for weak, tired, worn-out women, Cardui has been a popular success for over 50 years.

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Lula Walden, of Gramlin, S. C., followed this advice. Read her letter: "I was so weak, when I first began to take Cardui, that it tired me to walk just a little. Now, I can do all the general housework, for a family of 9." Try Cardui for your troubles. It may be the very remedy you need.
