Lloyd's Column

Good luck is usually the result of right living and sound thinking.

Good news from England. Sir William Ramsay succeeded in transmutation of one element into another. Gold will soon be as cheap as lead. But wait—All is not gold that glitters.

Old Bill Dew, who holds forth with "Razzer Back Philosophy" in the semi-weekly, devoted a lot of valuable (?) space in last Friday's edition in an attempt to roast The Herald and all connected therewith. Charged at last Thursday's newsy edition of The Herald and the eight o'clock morning fire extra Friday, and unable to find anything for the semi that hadn't already been printed in The Herald, they betought themselves of the joyful expedient of landing on us with both feet, and taking space which otherwise should perhaps been used for the printing of legal notices the required number of times. We're pretty busy these days, boys, but come on in, the water's fine.

Bill Dew endeavors to cause the readers of the Times to believe that The Herald and its editor are against picture shows. For his information we wish to state that the writer of this column has written every word (except contributed articles) appearing in The Herald the last few months regarding picture shows. We believe that the picture show, when censored pictures are shown, to be one of the best forms of entertainments to be secured. We go ourselves, as often as we can get time to spare, and find them a form of entertainment very interesting. Just because a number of our good citizens disagree as to whether or not these shows should be open Sunday evenings (and they have a perfect right to object if they wish, for they are citizens of the city, which licenses these shows) and The Herald prints the facts without favor or prejudice, as a matter of news, and at times the facts are in favor of the Sunday shows and at other times against, it is no sign that The Herald is trying to run the shows out of town.

The Herald has not yet found it necessary to take water, get down on its knees, and accuse the linotype operator of putting an item in a highly sensational news article, in order to avoid taking what was coming for an incorrect statement in the article.

Some men can look opportunity right in the face and not recognize it.

One of the men released from the city jail at the fire in the city hall last Friday morning had been found earlier in the night by the marshal, dead drunk behind a bill board, and nearly frozen to death. On awakening and finding himself in a burning building, it is very probable that he began to think that "the way of the transgressor is hard".

Alliance has a fire department that stands high in the state organization. One has only to be present at a fire in Alliance to see the reason. The members are alert and willing, and the companies well organized. Quick team work saved the city a big loss when the city hall caught fire the other morning. Chief Romig happened to be passing within half a block on his way to work when the alarm sounded and was on the spot in thirty seconds. In spite of the fact that the first hydrant to which the hose was fastened was frozen and several valuable minutes were thus lost, the damage done was found to be much smaller than at first thought.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Put the knocker on your pay roll. If he hasn't enough business to keep him busy pay him for giving his attention to yours.

She Knew What Was Coming

A dapper little type salesman from Chicago one day dropped into a country office in southern Illinois and finding the boss out, approached the pretty type.
"Nice day, little one," he began.
"Yes, indeed," she answered, "and so was yesterday and the day before, and my name is Sadie, and I know I'm a peach, and have beautiful hair and pretty brown eyes, and I've worked here quite a while and like the place, and I don't think I'm too nice to be working in a printing office, and my wages suit me, and I don't want to go to a picture show tonight, and if I did I would not go with you; and my husband is editor of this paper and he weighs 200 pounds, and last week he landed on a fresh $50-a-month paper man who tried to make a date with me. Now what can I do for you?"
"Guess I'll have to hurry to catch this train. Just tell your husband I'll see him next trip," replied the dapper little type salesman. "Good-night!"—Exchange.

Bill Dew in the Times, unable to say anything against the editor of The Herald, who happens to be the father of this writer, attacks him on the ground of being a minister and editor of The Herald at the same time. I don't think either a very serious crime.

Alliance is getting to be a mighty interesting town. City birthday banquets, stockmen's conventions, firemen's tournaments, new Y. M. C. A. building, city school and court house bond elections, with spring city election just looming over the horizon, make things interesting.

Experience is often the best teacher but sometimes costly.

Procrastination frequently leads to failure.

Gossip has left many a good name in poor shape.

A certain Alliance man is a great lover of doughnuts. His wife says that he frequently calls up over the phone and asks for just one for supper.

A good way to respect some people is not to know them too well.

After the women secure the ballot we look to see bald heads and whiskered gents disappear forever from political life.—Exchange.

There is a man in Kansas who swore in the campaign of 1896 never to cut his hair until a democratic president was elected. He is now engaging barbers for a downward revision of the wool schedule.

President-elect Wilson will not announce who his cabinet will be. The newspaper men, who are credited with pretty good horse sense, as a rule, are convinced that William J. Bryan will be Secretary of State, A. Mitchell Palmer, of Pennsylvania, Secretary of Treasury, Congressman Henry, of Texas, Attorney General, and Josephus Daniels, of North Carolina, Postmaster General.

Those who didn't attend the meeting of Alliance business men at the court house Monday and Tuesday evenings now wish they had gone, and those who did attend are glad they were there. It does a business or professional man good to attend a meeting of this kind, where questions of public interest can be discussed and debated.

The other morning at the Baptist Sunday school a lady asked a class of small boys if they knew what the Missionary Board was. No one knew. She then said, "Well, that is a rather hard question. If I should ask you what the school board is you all could tell me, couldn't you?" One little chap help up his hand. "I know what it is," he said. "It's the blackboard."

THRESHER CAPTURED

George Thresher, who broke jail at Gering several months ago, while under a sentence of eight years to the penitentiary, has been captured at Stillwater, Minnesota. A reward of $500 had been offered for his arrest.

Thresher's attorney, who was working for a new trial when he escaped, was in Alliance a few weeks ago and secured affidavits from local parties who had formerly been at Morrill, where Thresher committed the crime of which he was convicted.

Mrs. M. E. Bernhardt, her daughter Anna, and son Webster expect to move to Los Angeles, California, in the coming April. Their many friends will be sorry to learn that they intend to leave Alliance, where they have resided so long, but the condition of Mrs. Bernhardt's health requires a change in climate.

Attorney B. F. Gilman made a business trip to Hemingford Monday on 3, returning the same afternoon via auto.

I. P. Gage, Grand Master of the I. O. O. F. of Nebraska, passed thru Alliance Monday noon on his way to Chadron. He was met at the depot by a delegation of local I. O. O. F. members.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Wright, of the Spade neighborhood, were in Alliance the last of the week on land office business. They were accompanied by Fred Hunsaker and M. McCumber, both of the same neighborhood. They favored The Herald office with a call when here and were shown through the printing plant.

C. C. Barker, member of the law firm of Boyd & Barker, left for Denver on Sunday. He has been in town for several days.

District manager L. B. Wilson, of Grand Island, of the Nebraska Telephone Company, was in our city for a short time last week. He left for Grand Island on Friday and is expected here again today or tomorrow on business connected with the opening of the new telephone exchange in the H. J. Ellis building.
