THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1913

In the death of Bishop John Joseph Hogan of the diocese of Western Missouri, which occurred at the episcopal residence in Kansas City last Friday, the Roman Catholic church of America loses its oldest prelate, both in years and point of service. He had been bishop for forty-four years, when he succumbed to an attack of pneumonia, February 21.

No, Bill, the editor of The Herald has not been writing editorials for other newspapers lately, and knew nothing of the contents of the article to which you refer until after it had been published in that paper. By the same token, no one but the editor has been writing editorials for The Herald lately. Can our esteemed contemporary up the street say as much?

The editor of The Herald never gambles for heavier stakes than doughnuts, hence does not wish to bet on subscription lists; but we have the following proposition to make to the esteemed editor of the Semi-Weekly: If he will show us in any recent issue of his paper any statement in which any one was named as having subscribed, but who had not, we will make him (the S. W. editor) a present of the price of a year's subscription to pay him for his trouble.

Sometimes a short serial story may be properly used as a "filler" in a local paper that has more space than news; but as between the ordinary "continued story" and a series of articles such as the Life of Woodrow Wilson, now being published in The Herald, there is no comparison. Such reading is interesting, besides giving the reader a fund of useful information, which cannot be said of the "boiler plate" stories published in cheap magazines and some newspapers. Another thing in favor of the biographical articles is that they cultivate a taste for wholesome reading, which is a matter of great importance, particularly with younger readers.

In the suit of the government against the Kellogg Cane Flake Co., on the ground of violating the Sherman anti-trust law, we are not familiar enough with the facts upon which the suit is based to express an opinion. We are, of course, in favor of breaking up the breakfast food monopoly, if one exists, which does not seem to have been proven yet; but we must confess there are two things that incline us favorably towards the Kellogg people, the merits of their goods and the fact that they have treated labor fair when other cereal food manufacturers have done the opposite.

CONVENTION OF WOMAN'S CLUBS

The Alliance Woman's Club will entertain the district convention of woman's clubs to be held in this city the third week in April. The woman's clubs of the Sixth congressional district of Nebraska will be entitled to representation. It is expected that there will be about forty or fifty out of town people in attendance. The sessions of the convention will be held in one of the churches, and will be continued two or three days. Besides the business sessions there will be public programs rendered. The program will be published in The Herald before the convention is held.

IMPORTANCE OF Y. M. C. A.

Proposed New Building for Alliance Should Have the Assistance of Every Loyal Citizen

LET EVERYBODY BOOST FOR IT

Perhaps the people of Alliance do not fully realize the importance of the movement now on foot to erect a suitable Y. M. C. A. building in this city. The early closing of saloons, the working man's club, is all right; and the surveillance of other places where young men, and older men, too, congregate to spend their evenings and Sundays, may be proper; but efforts to improve the social conditions of men that stop with the above fall far short of meeting the requirements for successful work along that line. You can't save men from evil ways by turning them out on the streets. Give them a place to go—a place to enjoy themselves without injury to themselves, a place where they can be entertained under wholesome influences.

Let everybody get interested in this matter; and it's a matter that will interest almost everybody, if properly presented. If we may venture a suggestion to the committees who have the work in hand: Give everybody a chance to help. Take for granted that all are interested. Give the man of small means the same opportunity to help that is extended to the man of wealth. The poor man's dollar contribution may not buy many bricks for the building, but it will mightily increase his interest in it, and is deserving of the same praise that the thousand dollar contribution receives. It may require as much sacrifice on the part of the giver. Don't pass up a man because his business may seem to not comport with Y. M. C. A. work. Give him a chance. It will do him good if he helps. Go to the saloonkeepers as well as all other business men with your subscription lists. We doubt if there is a saloonkeeper in the town who will not donate liberally. And the more he gives to help make young men sober and industrious, the less he will feel like making booze fighters out of them. Do not think that a member of one church will be less interested than the member of some other church. We supposed that most church people who engage in Y. M. C. A. work are members of Protestant churches, but not all. Down at North Platte they are engaged in a great campaign for the erection of a Y. M. C. A. building, and the chairman of their boosting committee is a wide-awake young man who is a member of the Catholic church. Some may not be in sympathy with this work because they do not understand it. Give them information about it. If you hear of some one who is opposed to Y. M. C. A. work, go to him and explain it to him. Nine times out of ten, we believe, you will find his opposition is due to lack of information.

The Y. M. C. A. building in Alliance is to be an accomplished fact within the next year. Every person who helps it along will be glad of it afterwards. Give them all a chance.

FOUND

When the boys arrived to build the fires yesterday morning and opened the back door to go for some coal, they discovered some strange animal anxiously waiting to get in. On being brought in and the snow brushed away, it proved to be a full sized Bill (dew) goat. It was carefully fed and watered, after which our staff artist made the drawing which appears herewith. Attached to the goat, before it was given its cleaning up, were various pieces of newspaper, which, on being investigated, proved to be copies of the Times. "Flooray," said the boys, "The Herald's got the Times' goat."

In spite of the many denials of the various editors of the Times that there is or was a Bill Dew, The Herald's photographer succeeded in getting a snap shot of that mysterious person Tuesday afternoon. A cut is being made from the picture and will appear in the next issue of The Herald. We will make no charge against Bill Dew for printing his picture but wish to help satisfy the curiosity of the readers of his own paper as well as of The Herald. We feel that we at least owe a little of our column to him, in return for the kind compliments given us through his department.

It is an Alliance barber shop. An Irishman enters to be shaved. He takes a seat and barber proceeds to lather him. Barber is suddenly called into an adjoining room, where he is detained some time. During his absence the barber's pet monkey jumps from his resting place, seizes the brush, and proceeds to finish lathering the Irishman's face. Then he takes a razor from its case, stops it, and turns to the Irishman to shave him. Irishman sits up suddenly. "Shut that!" he exclaims. "Ye kin tuck th' towel in me neck an' put th' soap on me face, but, ye gorrath! yer father's got to shave me!"—By one of the boys.

Some of my friends seem to have plenty of postage at least, from the valentine which I received through the mail a few days ago. The handwriting on the envelope was the same as on the brickbat printed in the last issue of The Herald. A beautiful hand painted (?) picture adorned the top of the valentine, underneath which were the following comforting words:

"You are all dress and show
And the people from you blow.
They see by that look on your face
The earth for you has no place."

It is indeed gratifying to me to learn that my overcoat of a couple of winters ago and my last summer's suit have made a hit with someone.

A sick man, giving the name of Wm. Young, who stated that he was going to Crawford from San Diego, California, stopped at The Herald office yesterday afternoon and asked that we thank Father Donnelly through the columns of The Herald for furnishing him with funds to continue his journey. Mr. Young stated that he had had twenty-three operations and appeared to be in a pitiable condition. We gladly thank Father Donnelly for this man, for his act of kindness which was certainly deserving in this case.

DR. PRICE'S BAKING POWDER

Purity in food, lower cost of living—these are the demands of the day.

Pure food is health, and health is economy itself. We cannot have health without healthful food.

The most healthful foods are the quickly raised flour foods—biscuit, cake, muffins, crusts and other pastry, when perfectly made from wholesome ingredients.

Dr. PRICE'S baking powder makes these foods in specially attractive, appetizing and wholesome form, and for both economic and hygienic reasons, such food should be more largely substituted for meat in the daily diet.

But bear in mind that alum, or unwholesome baking powder, can never make pure, wholesome food.
