CURRENCY BILL EXPLANATIONS INSUFFICIENT

Representative from Ohio Gives Interview to United Press

(By the United Press) WASHINGTON, June 26.—Representative Buckley, of Ohio, a veteran Democrat of the house banking committee, in an interview this morning with the United Press stated that the explanations given to the people of how the Wilson-Glass currency bill would effect them have not been simple enough to be widely understood.

He gave a birdseye view of the results which will be achieved by the measure, in which he said, "The Wilson-Glass measure will free the credits of the nation from the domination of any business group. It will place the bank reserves where they will do the most good. One of its most important effects will be that it will prevent the piling up of the country bank's resources in Wall street, to support the stock exchange operations and will enable the small business man to obtain credit as his business character will merit. The national board of control, provided for in the bill, will prevent artificial panics, caused by any group of financiers, for the purpose of enriching themselves at the expense of the laboring classes and small buyers of securities."

TRIED ON WHITE SLAVE CHARGE

San Francisco Men Tried for Abducting Sacramento Girls

(By the United Press) SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—Maury I. Diggs, and F. Drew Caminetti, son of United States Commissioner General of Immigration Anthony Caminetti, went to trial here today on charges of violating the Mann white slave law by inducing Martha Warrington and Lola Norris, two Sacramento society girls, to go with him to Reno. Diggs is a former state architect. Both men are married and have families.

EMBARRASSING ERROR

A Kansas editor says that the most embarrassing typographical mistake that ever occurred in his experience was in connection with a marriage notice. The bridegroom was a man by the name of Gunn. His father, Abraham Gunn, was a leading citizen. The editor wanted to give the young couple a good send-off, but turned in the copy and trusted a drunken printer and a drunken proof reader to get it into the paper all right. The next morning he read the announcement head, "Gunn Smith"—the girl's name was Smith. The notice went on to say that the blushing bride was tastefully arrayed in a dress of "white mule," instead of "white mull," and that she carried a large red nose. The copy said "rose." He had written in regard to the groom that he was the well-liked son of A. Gunn. The compositor set it up, "The groom is a well-eyed son of a gun." The editor fired both the compositor and the proof reader, but just the same he was never able to square it with either the bride or groom, or old man Gunn.—Exchange.

Don't miss the big T. P. A. parade Friday morning at eleven o'clock, on Box Butte avenue. Bring the whole family. It will be the finest ever seen in the west.

THE TARIFF

By Congressman Clyde H. Tavenner

Washington, June 26.—"The trusts and combinations—the communism of self—whose machinations have prevented us from reaching the success we deserved, should not be forgotten nor forgiven." These are the words of Grover Cleveland. He was referring to the tariff lobbies which prevented the Democratic party from living up to its campaign promises of 1892. President Wilson no doubt had in mind what the lobbyists did to the Wilson democratic tariff bill in the Senate in 1894 when he recently denounced the lobbies operating in Washington.

A review of what happened to the last democratic tariff bill as a result of the work of the lobbies while the measure was in the Senate, is especially interesting at this time when special privilege is trying to perform the same old trick of robbing the consumers of the fruits of their victory at the polls. On December 19, 1895, Chairman Wilson of the Democratic Ways and Means Committee reported his tariff revision downward bill to the House of Representatives. It was a fulfillment in nearly every particular of the promises made by the democrats in the campaign of 1892, which brought about their election. Although denounced by the more partisan republicans as a free trade measure it was in reality but a conservative step in the direction of freer trade, and was well received by the democratic party throughout the country. It made rather moderate reductions in the duties on wool, goods, cottons, linens, silks, pig-iron, steel billets, steel rails, chins, glassware, and earthenware. It removed entirely the taxes on wool, coal, iron ore, lumber, and on sugar both raw and refined.

Furious Water Fight

The streets were packed last evening to witness the water fight on Box Butte avenue between two town boys and two firemen. The town boys were P. Rolison and B. Trinkle, on the south side, and the firemen were Ward Hall and C. Schaefer. The fight lasted about thirty minutes. At the end of that time it was called a draw.

The fire department picnic Sunday was full of fun. About twenty-five of the boys went out to a grove a few miles southwest of town and spent the time in games and eating. Harold Snyder and Bert Rowland chose up sides for a ball game. When the paper finally gave out and the scorekeeper had to quit keeping scores, Snyder's team was ahead. Next time the boys will take along a bale of paper for those scores just rolled up and up like a million dollars. The boys returned late in the afternoon.
