Crop Conditions

dication points towards an abundance of fall feed. The alfalfa growing sections of Nebraska, as well as surrounding states, report the first and second cutting as excellent in both quality and quantity, and this fact, together with the enormous amount of prairie hay being made this year, and the prospects of a bumper crop, all indicate there will be the heaviest demand in many years for feeder cattle and feeder sheep. At this early date the encouraging prospects for more than an ample supply of feed on the farms of the corn growing states, coupled with a general scarcity of feeding stock in those sections, has created a general tendency towards an upward trend in prices on the South Omaha Market for feeder cattle and sheep. During the past week there has been a general increase in orders received by commission men and traders operating on the South Omaha Market over other years at this time, and it behooves to look as though there would not be enough feeder cattle and sheep to supply the demand at western markets this fall. While, at this early date, the marketing of range cattle and sheep has not yet begun in real earnest, when they do come along in as great numbers as the limited supply throughout the west will allow, it is very questionable if there will be enough to supply the demand, if the present inquiries at the South Omaha Market can be considered as any criterion. Feeder cattle and sheep have been selling on an even basis, and higher than Chicago and will continue to do so all fall. Speaking of the feeder cattle and sheep situation at South Omaha, various representatives of prominent feeder buying firms there stated their firms had, at this early date, received more bona fide orders for feeder cattle and sheep than ever before at one time and it was simply a question of getting the stock to fill the orders. While this demand will meet with better supply when the range movement to market really commences, the fact remains there is a general shortage in number of head upon the ranges to be marketed, which, taken together with the anxiety of the feeders throughout the Corn Belt states to fill their feed lots, will create a strong feeder market throughout the fall marketing season, with prevailing high prices. Furthermore, with the luxuriant crop of grass all over the range country, there will be no necessity for marketing stock in great bunches, as has been the case in some former years, uniformity in prices being maintained when the marketing is distributed over the entire range season. There is no question but that the ranchman with range stock for market this fall will reap an abundant harvest, and while the prices look high at present to the prospective feeder, at the same time when the limited number of feeder stock to be marketed this year, and the abundance of feed, together with prospective high prices for finished beef and mutton, is taken into consideration, it can be seen that the western ranchman and the corn belt feeder can turn their product with a good substantial profit. Union Stock Yards Co., Omaha, By W. H. Schellberg, Traffic Manager. J. K. Morrison, state agent for the Home fire insurance company, of New York, was in the city Monday, adjusting the fire loss on the Haper residence, in West Lawn, which burned Sunday night, June 22nd. The amount of insurance carried was $390.

Take a Hint! Get Wise!

Suppose some one offered to give you $10,000.00 in cash the day you completed an I. S. C. course. You would start to work right away, wouldn't you? But just think, the Course is really worth more than $10,000.00 in cash, for $10,000.00 in cash invested would bring you at 6 per cent interest only a net return of $600 a year, while statistics made up from many thousands of cases show that the average technically-trained man earns $950.00 a year more than the average man without Technical Training.
