Lloyd's Column

The most popular dance today is the "lame dog dance". Copies of the music can be secured at the Times office.

There's a certain stockman whose home is down near Holdrege or Hastings, who buys cattle in western Nebraska, that has a reputation all his own. He has invented the most pitiful tale that a buyer ever told. His favorite rendition is a whine, tears in his eyes, and the story that he is buying for butcher shops and must have the very closest prices. He is too tight to keep a horse or rent one, to go to look at stock, so he has a bicycle of the vintage of 1906, that he rides out to the different ranches. He is well off financially and by means of his pitiful tale he buys very close.

There seems to be a big difference of opinion as to the location of the Custer massacre. Carly the Crow, who claims to be the only survivor, and whose claim is not disputed, says that it is in Wyoming, just north of Sheridan. The Herald had it in South Dakota. And certain maps which we have seen place it in Montana, just across the state line north of Sheridan, Wyoming.

The Times made a blunder. Our natty Norfolk, which we wore when helping extinguish the fire in the car of oil, was not ruined, for we took it to the Alliance Cleaning Works and Mrs. Zehring and her efficient helpers restored it to its original newness. Even though it is rather hard on clothing, we always prefer to give what little assistance we can, in helping at fires, than to stand on the side lines and criticize the work of the fireboys. Yea, we would even help handle the hose in laying the dust on a windy summer evening.

Men who do the things that count for something in this world are often criticized. Quite frequently this criticism comes from those who, if placed in the same place, would sadly fail to measure up to the standard they set for the other man. It is quite true that many people who are incapable and inefficient try to do things for which they are not fitted, but we have never blamed a man or woman who had high aspirations and who tried to "do things" in this world. "It's better to have fought and lost than not to have fought at all."

It is said that the "lame dog dance" originated among the Sioux Indians who were survivors of the famous Custer massacre, in South Dakota—Wyoming—Montana.

To admire, to love, to regret, is to live, said a great writer. Do not let the regret be brought on by a cough or cold, which if treated when it first appeared would have easily been controlled. Allen's Cough Balsam brings welcomed relief in such cases. Contains no harmful ingredients. 25c., 50c. and $1.00 bottles at all dealers.

To ship game or fish from one point to another within or without the state unless accompanied by owner.

To sell game in any manner or to sell fish taken from public waters in this state.

National Game Law

It should be remembered that there is a new United States law forbidding the killing of migratory fowls at any time of year. Altho there is an open season under the state law for wild ducks, geese, etc., there is no open season under the new federal law that will permit killing them.

Sent Wanderer Home

People of Alliance and a few other towns had an opportunity to do a kindness in looking after a wandering boy who had met with misfortune, but it fell to some Alliancees to set the part of the Good Samaritan, in which we understand that Jake Bicknell took a leading part. The boy's name is Joan Hutchinson, he is seventeen or eighteen years old and is his home at Roy, Washington, about three years ago. He was headed for home when he arrived at Crawford the first of last week. While there he was struck on the head one night and robbed of $1.50, which seems to have been all the money he had. In an effort to leave Crawford and head for home he took the wrong train and landed in Alliance.

He was picked up at the fair grounds by the deputy sheriff and taken to a doctor, as the wound on his head had not yet been dressed. When turned loose he went back to the fair ground and slept there another night. The next evening Jake Bicknell gave him his supper and took him to the city hall to remain over night. The boy wanted to return home but seemed to be in a dazed condition. From Alliance he went his way to Hot Springs, S. D., and back again. Meanwhile Bicknell had communicated with his mother and stepfather. They wired a ticket and money for his return home. These were given to the first conductor with written instructions to be passed on to each succeeding conductor to look after the boy, transferring the ticket and the unexpended balance of the expense money from one conductor to another. In this way it was expected that the boy would reach home safely and make happy the mother who had for three years been making every effort possible to find him.

SEVEN BROTHERS COOKS

Chas. Wagner, proprietor of the Alliance Cafe, now called the Wagner Cafe, is one of six brothers all of whom are professional cooks. One of his brothers is proprietor of the Franklin Hotel at Deadwood. Mr. Wagner took charge of the Alliance Cafe and changed the name as above stated on Tuesday of this week. The Herald bespeaks a successful business for him and calls attention to his ad in this issue.
