WILL WINTER IN LONE STAR STATE

McFall, whose home is about fifty miles from that city. The Texas brother has been informed that his sister is coming to visit him, but the coming of his brother will be a surprise to him. Mr. McFall and Mrs. Ryan intend to spend the balance of the winter and the early spring in the Lone Star state returning north the latter part of May.

Rev. McFall, who is a successful ranchman, has been doing faithful work for some years as a minister. Recently he has been preaching at the Pawlet school house in Garden county. As the Sunday school at that place has been closed for the winter, thus interfering somewhat with the attendance at the preaching services, it is an opportune time for him to take a vacation for the southern trip.

BOX BUTTE WILL REPEAT

This County Will Follow in Foot-Steps of Eastern Section of State; Watch It

J. F. Walsh, for forty-two years a resident of Humboldt and a banker of that town, has a few things to say concerning his section of the state. Recently in the Humboldt Leader an article appeared from which the following is quoted: "Back in those early times," said Mr. Walsh to a group of friends in St. Joseph, Mo., "we frequently made guesses as to the future of the country. One could go out and buy the best farm land in Richardson county for $10 an acre. Some ventured to guess that some day, long after our days were over farm lands would be worth $50. A few years ago we raised to $100 and fixed it at the extreme limit. Recently several farmers sold out and when they began to look about they discovered that they had made a mistake when they had sold at what looked like high prices. Then they turned around and paid a bonus to get their farms back. In Richardson county we have any number of farms that could not be had for $200 an acre.

"In the county we have twelve banks. We have no cities or towns of any size so that the money on deposit in those banks practically belongs to the farmers. A careful estimate of the amount of money in those banks now places it at $1,349,000."
