SOUTH OMAHA BOOSTERS TRIP

Jolly Knights of the Stock Yards and Exchange Building Making Western Pilgrimage

Did you ever visit the South Omaha stock yards and Exchange building? If you did, you received a cordial greeting. The fellows who do business there are noted for their jolly, good will and pleasant manners. While courteous to every one they meet, the "boys" have an air of familiarity which is the product of genuine friendship. The greetings do not always have "Mr." prefixed to the name of the person addressed, but it's "Bill" and "Jack" and "Joe" and "Jim" and "Tom" and "Dick" and a lot of other familiar names.

The South Omaha men believe in getting in touch with the stockmen with whom they do business. Every year a bunch from there visit Alliance at the time of the annual convention of the Nebraska Stock Growers Association in June, and nobody who attends receives a more cordial welcome. A trip is now being made thru northern Nebraska, and portions of South Dakota, Montana and Wyoming.

The following account is taken from the World-Herald of Tuesday, April 14:

Bound for the northwest on the annual trade trip, twenty-five representatives of the live stock interests of South Omaha, left here yesterday. It was a happy, laughing, shouting crowd of boosters of the thoroughbred type. With western hats, a yard or more from brim to brim, the tourist throng looked ready to become a part of the distant sagebrush scenery.

Willing to wager anything from a broad smile to a broader hat, both priceless possessions and not to be considered trivial stakes, that there is only one real, thriving, hustling live stock market town on earth, these men from the cattle pens, banks and packing houses, waved farewell to Omaha as they glided away into the waiting west.

And if the urgent invitations, telling of royal welcomes, are to be given the slightest credence, it is a west that is waiting impatiently to greet old friends. They have a way with them, these live stock men, that makes folks glad to see them out in the wide country that makes a market town possible and worth while.

Start from Omaha
It was at 3:55 o'clock yesterday afternoon that the party left over the Northwestern, traveling in a special Pullman car. A large crowd of Omaha and South Omaha friends gathered at the Union station to express best wishes for a pleasant trip. The route leads through sections of the cattle country of South Dakota, Wyoming, Montana and Nebraska. Two weeks will be required to complete the trip. It is expected that the party will arrive home on April 26.

Among those prominent in the party are General Manager Buckingham of the Union Stock Yards, William Schellberg, traffic manager for the yard company; A. F. Stryker, secretary of the Live Stock Exchange and J. H. Neff of the Drovers Journal Stockman.

Frank Stryker is trip manager and is supposed to know what every member of the party is thinking about, be able to tell when to lay down three aces or tell the porter when the ice water tank is empty. The only thing that has been discovered that Frank does not have to do is fire the engine, though he is said to have power to fire anything else on the train.

Then there is Bill Schellberg. He is another modern comfort to booster excursions. Without Bill the journey would be a sad and cheerless pilgrimage. The efforts to make things generally pleasant for everyone, as put forth by Frank Stryker and Bill Schellberg, will be ably seconded by Manager E. Buckingham, more lovingly known to his friends as "Buck."

WIND BLOWS IN CHICAGO

George Stanton, of the C. A. Newberry company, has returned from a business trip to South Bend, Indiana, where he spent some time at the manufacturing plant and general offices of the South Bend Malleable Steel Range Manufacturing Company. The Newberry company has been retailing this line of stoves for some time and have completed arrangements by which they will wholesale the line thruout western Nebraska, shipping the stoves to Alliance in carload lots.

Mr. Stanton stopped in Chicago while on the trip and saw the wind blowing on Michigan avenue just as hard as it blows in Box Butte county on real windy days. The display of Easter millinery on Michigan avenue was rather roughly treated by the winds which tossed many beautiful hats to the street and in front of the many autos which are constantly moving up and down that busy thoroughfare.

Mr. Stanton also visited Mr. Aspinwall, formerly of Alliance, and went to a number of factories whose lines are handled by the Newberry company.

If the tango dancers knew what we think of them they would sue us for libel.

Can Make Them

A successful breeder increases his patronage by going after business instead of waiting for it, and knows where to go when he wants good printing work done. We want to make engravings suitable for the printer to use on your work. Send us your photograph and we will tell you the amount it will cost to produce the cut.

We have a first class photography department and could arrange to have a photographer come to your place and make your pictures of animals if you have sufficient work to justify such an expense. For further information write us.
