

TRIBUTE TO A POPULAR MAN

Obituary of Albert T. Davis, Prominent Member of the Nebraska Stock Growers Association

In the untimely demise of Albert T. Davis, vice president of the Nebraska Stock Growers Association, that organization loses one of its most active members and northwestern Nebraska one of its most prominent citizens.

Thru the courtesy of Chas. K. Bassett, editor of the Hyannis Tribune, the photograph of the deceased herewith is published. Wishing to also give more than a mere passing notice of the demise of Mr. Davis, The Herald reprints the following obituary, which appeared in The Tribune of March 11:

For three weeks A. T. Davis had lain in the Wise Memorial hospital in Omaha stricken with that generally incurable ailment, Bright's disease, and many times he was very nearly gone. Then he had appeared to rally and hopes were held out that he would soon be on his feet again. Last Thursday afternoon he was able to sit up in bed, and had just partaken of some slight nourishment, when the end came suddenly and without warning. About ten days before he was taken ill he had gone to Omaha to meet his wife and infant son and it was while he was in Omaha that he became ill and was taken to the hospital for treatment. Previous to that time he had not experienced poor health.

The wife, and his brother an sister, F. C. Davis and Mrs. H. A. Buck, both of Abbey, Sask., Canada, were with him at the time of his death and accompanied the remains here for burial. Another sister, Mrs. H. B. Cooley, from Idaho, had been summoned to the bedside, but believing her brother to be on a fair way toward recovery, she had departed for home the day before.

The funeral was held at the Congregational church here Saturday afternoon. Impressive services being conducted by the pastor, the Rev. William Richarda. The high esteem in which the deceased was held was attested by the fact that the people of Hyannis turned almost en masse to pay their tribute to the memory of one whose name had been linked with the growth and development of this section of the country for more than twenty-five years past. Many from a distance braved the storm to be present and the business houses of Hyannis were closed during the hour of the funeral. The floral offerings were rich and beautiful, fairly covering the casket at the church and being banked at the front and each end. One of the most beautiful wreaths was from the Elks lodge at Alliance, of which organization the deceased was a member. The choir rendered several selections. The remains were laid to rest in the local cemetery near the grave of the deceased's mother, who died here many years ago.

Albert T. Davis was born Dec. 29, 1858, in Meggs county, Ohio, and died March 4, 1915, in Omaha, Nebraska. He was the second child of a family of five children. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife and baby, one brother and two sisters.

He received a common school education and then attended the State University at Lincoln. He came to Hyannis in 1888 and since that time he has made his home on the splendid ranch in Cherry county twenty miles north of here. He was married June 11, 1913, to Miss Essie E. Buchanan at her home in Ogallala. To this union was born one son, Albert Thane Davis.

Those who were the associates of A. T. Davis were his greatest admirers and strongest friends. A man of splendid natural endowments, reinforced by exceptional educational acquirements, he was unusually well informed in many fields and was looked to as an authority in the community where he resided. As a ranchman and stock breeder he was a close student of scientific methods, and expended large sums in the improvement of his stock, both in cattle and horses. At the annual session of the Nebraska Stock Growers Association last June Mr. Davis was elected vice president of the association.

His ideas were large, but his capacity for accomplishment was equally large. He was a pioneer in the sand hills and the success he achieved was won by building from a small beginning by hard work, good management and foresight, sustained by a determination to win out. He was still planning for the future when death overtook him, for the mansion which he was building on the ranch was not yet completed, and he had undertaken many improvements which he had not yet had time to push to completion. It seems almost tragic that he should be stricken down when he was still in the prime of life, and was just coming into the realization of the success of years of toil and striving, and when his plans had been broadened and his purposes deepened by the association of his young wife and infant son.

The character of A. T. Davis is indelibly stamped upon the country in which he lived and his name will always hold a prominent place in the history of Cherry and Grant counties.

Constipation, if Neglected, Causes Serious Illness

Constipation, if neglected, leads to almost innumerable complications affecting the general health. Many cases of typhoid fever, appendicitis and other severe diseases are traceable to prolonged clogging of the bowels. Regarding the effects of constipation, C. E. Ayers, of Sabin St., Montpelier, Vt., says:

"I was afflicted with constipation and biliousness for years, and at times became so bad I would become unconscious. I have been found in that condition many times. Physicians did not seem to be able to do me any good. I would become weak and for days at a time could do no work. Not long ago I got a box of Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets, and after using them I found I had never tried anything that acted in such a mild and effective manner. I believe I have at last found the remedy that suits my case."

Thousands of people are sufferers from habitual constipation and while possibly realizing something of the danger of this condition, yet neglect too long to employ proper curative measures until serious illness often results. The advice of all physicians is, "keep your bowels clean," and it's good advice.

Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets are sold by all druggists, at 25 cents a box containing 25 doses. If not found satisfactory, your money is returned.

MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

In the probable necessity of contemplating the purchase of a costly and expensive railroad transportation to "Shekago", to undergo treatment for hydrophobia, the contingency arising from the aforesaid bite by the aforesaid Airdale when I was bit in the postoffice, five feet from the door, on a cold and bleary afternoon when said Airdale was warming itself on the sunny side of a radiator, unbeknownst to owner and guardians.

I am not an essayist and it is much beyond me to go into a technical definition or analysis of the word "smooch", but for the benefit of said try-weekly publikashun I will say that "smooch" is nothing but my own original definition for "bit"—I was bit when the dog attacked me in the postoffice five feet from the door; I was bit when I (not audaciously and arrogantly) politely asked said publikashun to publish said facts, which they failed to do, causing me to believe that my faith in human nature was about to be exploded, as with a charge of glonoin. My faith in human nature, especially in newspapermen with try-weekly papers, has been immemorial and now it is immedicable. I wish to say to the Times that in smooching me with your intimidatory methods you caused a feeling of intolerance not only in body but in mind. I do not feel that you should practice intrigue but that rather you should intitle my interview and remember that it is I to be pitied, for the Airdale was one of the famous Labyrinthodonta.

I realize that your mercantile nature might cause you to give me a Mephistophelian hue, but I assure you from the bottom of my heart, that the mangle-mangle which you published in answer to my statement was but a sample of your usual munificence in the news line.

While it has taken some space and time for me to prepare this article, I am a believer in necessitarianism. I am not suffering from the state of neuradynamia into which your article almost threw me, but assure you that I am alive and that the end of this case will not be nonprocuratur. Speaking parabolically, I wish to thank you for the passage in the which you placed on my feelings and say in closing that the pretermission which you made in your interesting paper was the "smooch" which resulted in me now being in a state of rejuvenescence. USERS OF GAS

Vice President of American Gas Construction Company tells of Prospective Users in Alliance

D. C. Tenney, vice president of the American Gas Construction Company of Newton, Iowa, before leaving for the east Tuesday noon, gave The Herald a list of the prospective users of gas in Alliance in case a plant was installed in Alliance.

Mr. Tenney stated that among those who would use gas would be the newspapers for their typesetting machines, the laundry, creamery, hotels, restaurants, drug stores, hospital, boarding school, domestic science department in high school, manual training department in high school, water heaters in barber shops, gas ranges, room heaters and water heaters in the homes.

He stated that the average gas bill in the home where gas is used for all cooking, baking, laundry purposes, etc., would be from $2.50 to $3.50 per month. Gas is as much more convenient over a gasoline or oil stove as they are over wood or coal. It is always ready and it is

Killing Prairie Dogs

Is your land infested with prairie dogs? Is your range damaged and your crops endangered with this pest? For thirty-five years I have been killing these pests with a method of my own that does the work quickly and surely. My outfit will operate in western Nebraska during the coming season.

Anyone desiring the prairie dogs on their land killed should communicate with me without delay. My contract price for the work is only thirty-five cents per acre and I charge only for the ground that is infested with the dogs. I will sell the rights for this business for this part of Nebraska to any reliable person or persons.

Call on or write me at the Nebraska Rooming House, in Alliance. If I am not there you can see my representative. Or call at The Herald office and they will locate me for you.

The mayor and city council will probably decide to ask for an expression of opinion regarding the installation of a gas plant in Alliance at the coming spring election.

Feeling Fine Since Operation
County Assessor John Jelinek came down from Hemingford on 44 last Saturday, and after hurriedly attending to some business returned on 43, which was an hour late that day. Mr. Jelinek is feeling fine again, notwithstanding his recent attack of appendicitis, making an operation necessary, which was performed at the Methodist Hospital in Omaha.

MY STATEMENT
Having allowed my name to be used as a candidate for councilman in the First ward, I feel it my duty to announce where I stand. I stand for economy and a clean city. I believe the city has a good superintendent of the electric light plant and that he should be re-appointed. I believe that the city should be run like a business, that none of the officials should have any raise in salaries, and I so pledge myself, that if elected, I will abide by the above pledge.

E. T. KIBBLE.

MY STATEMENT
As I am a candidate for councilman in the Third ward, I wish to announce where I stand on public questions. I believe in economy in administration of city affairs and in a clean city. I believe that the city has a good superintendent of the electric light plant and that he should be re-appointed. Our city should be run strictly on business principles. I am opposed to the raising of salaries of city officials. I hereby pledge myself that if elected, I will keep my pledges as above made.

Complimented Omaha Edition
The Omaha Trade Exhibit, in its issue of March 20, had the following to say about the special Omaha edition of The Herald on March 11:
The Alliance Herald got out another special edition recently and one of the sections was devoted to Omaha. There were many cuts and articles pertaining to the prestige and the service of this metropolis of Nebraska. That is the right spirit, a spirit that will make for better business and better trade relations generally. Trade Exhibit acknowledges with pleasure the mention of this magazine.
