ANOTHER PAVING PLAN

Would Make Fifteen Foot Parkage in Center of Street-Plan Used in Other Cities

A plan which seems to be meeting with the approval of many in regard to paving, is to leave a parkage fif teen feet wide in the center of the streets. As the streets are 72 feet wide, this plan, if carried out, would leave 28 1/2 feet on each side. There are several reasons for the consideration of this plan. One is the cutting in the cost of paving, another is the fine effect which would be produced, and another is that automobiles and other vehicles would be compelled to make their turns at the end of the streets, thus eliminating the probability of accidents when they make a turn half way between

The difference in cost between the parkage plan and paving the full 72 feet amounts to $50 a lot, or $1200 a block, which, it must be admitted, would be great saving when several

CONSUMPTION TAKES 350 PEOPLE DAILY

Over 350 people succumb to con-sumption every day in the United States.
