In a few days the city will offer for sale a fine assortment of electrical fixtures, including stoves, irons, toasters, and other articles. They are going to be sold cheap. Watch for further announcements.

The band concert by the Alliance organization at the Imperial theatre Tuesday evening was fine. The boys have been putting in their time faithfully for the past several weeks in practice work, and Conductor Whaley deserves special praise for his untiring efforts. Alliance has a band that she should be mighty proud of, and there is nothing that is of as much benefit and pleasure to a town as an organization of this nature. The proceeds of Tuesday evening's entertainment will go toward purchasing new music and supplies for the band.

Ward B. Norton has received several answers to his query, "What would you do if you had a car for a day?" and more are coming in every day. The prize for the best letter is a free day's ride in a Buick car, with a driver furnished. There is not much time left, so if you want to get in on the contest you should get your letter in at once.

Those who went to visit the local land office last Thursday found the door locked, with a notice on the door, "closed". Few people knew what occasioned closing the office, but Friday morning the explanation was made that it was because of the 50th anniversary of the death of Abraham Lincoln. Government operations over the United States were all closed in a degree during that day.

The Alliance land office being included.

H. L. Armogast came over from Bayard in his auto Sunday.

MUSICAL COMEDY SHOW COMING
The most important booking of the season, in the comedy line, which will appear at the Pheasant opera house, Saturday, April 24th, is undoubtedly that clever comedian John G. Rae in "Lend Me $200". The play is a bran-new farce with music, with Mr. Rae in his best comedy part. Always funny, he has his best opportunity for laughter making in his new vehicle. He has surrounded himself with a high-class company of comedians, singers and dancers and the show has a comedy punch. Mr. Rae's past offerings have always been highly meritorious and he insists "Lend Me $200" is his best.

THE FORD

"I will build," said Henry Ford, "a car for the multitudes." The Ford Motor Company has stood alone—a striking individuality in the great industry which it leads in financial strength and volume of output—in that it has confined all efforts to the making of one car. While other companies have been continually changing models, discarding the car they declared perfect one year to introduce a car of still more boasted merit the next year. These changes have become a veritable habit of the automobile industry, with the sole exception of the Ford Motor Company, which has concentrated all efforts of brain, and money and labor, to the making of one chassis—one car, making that car so thoroughly right, so reliably perfect, that changes have not been necessary. Little refinements, of course, present themselves from time to time, but your Ford of yesterday is your Ford of today, and will be your Ford of tomorrow.

Buyers will share in profits if we sell at retail 300,000 new Ford cars between August 1914 and August 1915.

Runabout, $490; Touring Car, $540; Sedan, $1025, in Alliance. Another carload unloaded Tuesday.
