SHOW US THE TREES

Says the Sioux City Live Stock Record: "How would you like to see a regular old fashioned February thaw? One that would make you think of getting ready to tap the trees and make a little real maple syrup, for instance? Show us the trees? We have the February thaw alright, but are a little short on maple trees suitable for sugar making purposes.

TRIBUTE TO THE NEWSPAPERS

Newspapers received an unusual and marked tribute the other day when the Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, pastor of one of the largest churches in New York city and one of the foremost clergymen in the country, resigned his charge in order to carry on his chosen work, not in another pulpit, but through the press.

It is Dr. Eaton's belief, shared by many others, that public opinion in this country must be awakened to its responsibilities in the readjustment which is bound to follow the great war. Dr. Eaton will preach this subject, but not from the pulpit. The newspaper will carry his message to the world in future. In relinquishing his post the eminent clergyman said:

"At present the newspapers are preaching better than the preachers, and it is through the press that I hope to work. In common with the rest of the world, America is entering upon a new age, and I feel it my duty to help in forming public opinion and in interpreting the vast and complicated problems which confront us."

The foregoing is but another proof of the growing influence and power for the spiritual as well as material good of the community exerted by the newspaper today. It is not so many years ago that any close connection between the clergy and the press was sufficient cause for a considerable raising of the eyebrows among the reverend gentlemen and their followers. Time and experience and, it must be admitted, a higher standard among newspapers have changed this attitude.

The press and clergy are today working hand in hand, as they should work, and preaching religious as well as civic righteousness through the newspapers is an accepted fact, for, while the pulpit addresses itself to hundreds, the newspaper speaks to thousands.—American Press.

STAND UP FOR ALLIANCE

This paper would be derelict to duty if it did not voice a protest against the wanton attack that has been made upon the city of Alliance and published in a local paper within the last week, which for unadulterated mendacity is seldom equalled. We have no intention of being drawn into a wrangle with a contemporary publication, which is degrading to newspapers that engage in it and demoralizing to the communities in which they are published; but we feel that The Herald would not be deserving of the confidence reposed in it by the people of Alliance and western Nebraska, if it did not at this juncture make a plain statement of facts relative to affairs in the leading city of this part of the state.

Neither the mayor nor city council need any defense from us before the people of Alliance, and if the slanderous statements that have been published did not go beyond the city limits, we would not waste space by referring to them thru The Herald; but already they are being repeated in neighboring towns to the detriment of our city. Only a few days ago the writer was asked by some one in a North Platte valley town regarding the matter, as to something terrible had happened here. We never have knowingly defended official corruption and never will do so. Whenever and wherever there may be need of cleaning up, we will bid Godspeed to the person or persons who undertake it, whether friend or foe. But the attempt to smirch public officials in this city was not made for the sake of cleaning up anything, but to clean out opposition to a few would-be dictators at the opening of a political campaign. It's a dirty bird that defouls its own nest, even if by so doing a little political advantage can be gained, which in this instance is very doubtful.

Here is the situation, stated without embellishment and as briefly as possible consistent with being comprehensive. We want readers of The Herald outside of Alliance to note this statement and remember it:

At the last city election in Alliance, which was the first election held as a city of the first class, two factions struggled for the election of their candidates for mayor, and to some extent for members of the city council. These two factions or parties were not designated as republican, democrat, socialist, prohibitionist, wet or dry; but they were commonly recognized as representing, on the one hand, a "wide open" regime, and on the other hand a "law and order" policy. The law and order faction won at the election, securing a majority for their candidate for mayor in each of the four wards of the city.

We dislike exceedingly to say anything that reflects upon the sincerity of a brother editor, but necessity compels to state facts plainly here, if we never refer to it again. The Alliance Times, which is now industriously trying to make it appear that Alliance is the worst city in the state of Nebraska, supported the "wide open" faction, the editor of that paper himself being their candidate for councilman, and being defeated by the "law and order" candidate in his ward by a vote of nearly two to one. It is not surprising, under the circumstances, that he has since felt sore and would try in some way to even up the score, but the nauseating way in which he exhibits his sores is unfair to the city as a whole and it is only because we wish to stand up for Alliance and do justice to the persons maligned that we take any cognizance whatever of the matter.

It was of less importance at the last city election in Alliance who chanced to be the candidates of the two factions above referred to than what they stood for. The Herald has no animosity for the defeated candidates whatever, and does not wish to print anything that will add to their anguish of spirit because of their defeat. Had the editor of our more or less esteemed contemporary been wise enough to let the dead past bury the past, there would be no occasion of opening old sores, and time, the healer of all ills, would have mollified them sooner or later. But while on this subject we want to say that the result of the city election last spring was everlastingly to Alliance's credit. Furthermore, we wish to add that since occupying the office of mayor, as well as while holding the office of councilman, Penrose E. Romig has proven himself to be a faithful and efficient public official and worthy of the confidence placed in him by the voters of this city.

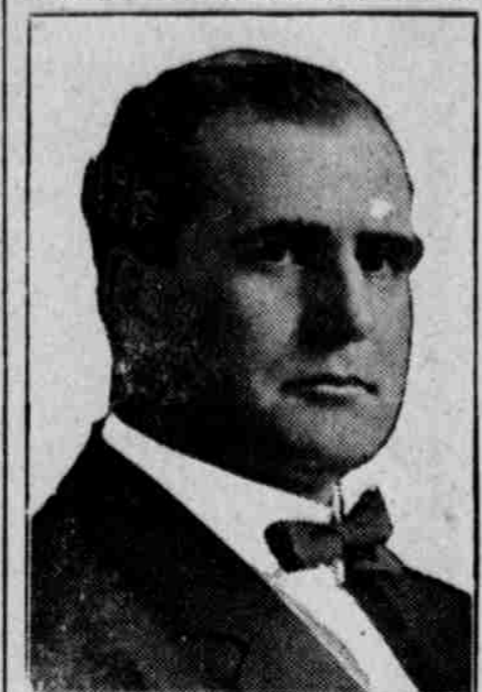

As for the attack upon Chief of Police Jeffers, no one who is well acquainted with him believes a word that reflects upon his integrity. That there are others who want his job is evident. Their ambitions are perfectly legitimate and The Herald would not for one moment, if it could, deny them the right to reach the goal, if they can do so in an honorable way. But they have no right to supplant the present official by the methods that are now being tried.

Here is the gist of the whole matter in a nutshell: In a square-toed contest between the "law and order" and the "wide open" factions at the city election of 1915, the former won. Despairing of winning in another contest of the same kind, the liberals, as they seem to prefer being called, are trying a new tact to stampede enough voters of the opposition, if possible, to give them a victory. Will it win? We shall see.

How Modern Newspaper Men Would Have Written the Bible Stories of Long Ago

Interlypt, issued by the International Typesetting Machine Company, in its January issue had the following interesting "variations". Said the magazine, "It has often been regretted that type and the printing presses were not part of the world's equipment in old testament times. Why not extend further, and include the composing machine?" The following articles, including 36 and 24 point heads, as printed in the magazine, were set by the Model B Interlypt:

BELLY OF WHALE HIS BILLOWY BUNGALOW
John B. Jonah, Globe Trotter, Accounts for Absence with Fish Story
John B. Jonah, famous preacher and evangelist, did not appear at the Chautauqua at Ninevah last week as advertised.

Instead, for reasons not yet fully understood, he took a ride in a whaling boat, and later in a whale, if his story is to be believed.

From all accounts given, it appears that during the excitement of a violent storm the second-mate mistook Mr. Jonah for a ballast bag and heaved him into the sea. Ordinarily, this would have ended the story, but this is only the beginning—

STRONG MAN
Pulls Down Two Pillars and Demolishes Church
No Warning for Victims of World's Greatest Disaster

A death list running into the thousands will be the result of a fit of anger developed by the strong man Samson, who this morning wrecked a church while it was crowded with worshippers.

Not one in attendance remains alive to tell the story, but it is learned from a member of the police force that Samson demolished the structure by pulling down the two middle pillars, one with each hand.

This is the same Samson who went into Lehi some time ago and killed a thousand Philistines with the jawbone of an ass. Later he became involved with Delilah, who undertook to learn the secret of his—

My persistence with the usher was rewarded with an introduction to Mr. Methuselah, who was seated at a table loaded with milk and honey, lamb and herbs, and other good things to eat and drink.

My prey regarded me with an expression which plainly registered annoyance, which was not lessened after my first question.

"You ask the stereotyped question, 'How contrive to live long and happily?' Tell your readers, especially the unmarried ones, that I waited one hundred and eighty-five years before taking my wife. Go, now, and allow me to continue eating."

The twinkle in his eyes was heightened by the glow of nine hundred and fifty candles as I backed out of the—

MORE MEN THAN WOMEN HAVE APPENDICITIS

Surgeons state men are slightly more subject to appendicitis than women. Alliance people should know that a few doses of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-ka, often relieve or prevent appendicitis. This mixture removes such surprising foul matter that ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas. The INSTANT, easy action of Adler-ka is surprising.

Pigs Paid $15.30

The average daily gain per pig of the state pig club members last season was 1.1 pounds. The average cost per pound of gain was 4.4 cents, and the average net profit per boy was $15.30. Membership in this club is open to any boy in the state between 10 and 18 years of age. A large number of awards is provided each year for the winners. Instruction sheets, rules for the contest, and other information may be had without cost from the Extension Service, College of Agriculture, Lincoln. Enrollment for the coming season is now open.

For Children's Cough

You cannot use anything better for your child's cough and cold than Dr. King's New Discovery. It is prepared from Pine Tar mixed with healing and soothing balsams. It does not contain anything harmful, and is slightly laxative, just enough to expel the poisons from the system. Dr. King's New Discovery is antiseptic, kills the cold germs—raises the phlegm—loosens the cough and soothes the irritation. Don't put off treatment. Coughs and Colds often lead to serious lung troubles. It is also good for adults and the aged. Get a bottle today. All druggists.

Meyer Making Success

Prof. E. L. Meyer, formerly a teacher in the Alliance high school, who has held the position of superintendent of schools at Geneva, Nebr., for the past year, has been appointed for another year in the same position. Prof. Meyer is making good at Geneva. He has a Sunday-school class of from twenty to thirty boys, and is now engaged in starting a boys' Bible club, similar to the one organized here. He is a member of the school faculty basket ball team, in which the four men besides himself belong to the school faculty. The team makes the high school basket ball team hump some to beat them.

Try it this week. Read every advertisement in the Herald and see if you don't think the information gained is well worth the short time it will take you. The news in the ad columns is every bit as interesting as the other news and is just as important, if not more so.
