Ford and the Standard May Enter into Competition on Low-Priced Cars

Manufacturer's News prints a story that indicates that automobiles will be made to sell as low as $100 each. The gist of the story is that the Standard Oil Company has a carburetor that will burn kerosene as efficiently as gasoline that they sought to have Henry Ford utilize in his plant. The Standard has more kerosene than it knows what to do with.

It wants some of the demand of gasoline switched over to kerosene. But Ford laughed at the idea.

However, the Standard is not greatly dismayed by Ford's refusal to respond to their proposition.

They can equip factories of their own, and consumption of kerosene is the object. They will make kerosene-burning cars and distribute them at cost to manufacture and distribute.

Ford will come back at them, and threatens that he can make Fords for $200 each. So there you are. Competitors such as the Standard and Ford get into the game. $100 motor cars may be a reality. Burning kerosene or gasoline would not make a whit of difference to anyone if the cars run all right.

Many in Alliance Try Simple Mixture

This simple remedy acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels, removing such surprising matter that ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas. A few doses often relieve or prevent appendicitis. A short treatment helps chronic stomach trouble. The INSTANT, easy action of Adler-I-ka is astonishing.
