MEMORIAL DAY WELL OBSERVED

land. Our nation rapidly grew and prospered. African slavery in our land dates back to 1620 when a Dutch vessel anchored in James river with a cargo of slaves. The vessel was ordered off. Afterward the British opened up the slave trade and that same year the Puritans landed on Plymouth Rock. Thus slavery had its planting in the south. The agitation, abolition of the north under the Lovejoys and Wendell Phillips. The slave owners of the south with their cotton gin finally clashed—the south preached secession. Lincoln sent committees of such men as John A. Logan to plead with them in the following sentiment:

Greene drew his blade at Entaw,
And bleeding southern feet
Trode the march across the Delaware
Amid the snow and sleet.

And lo! upon the parchment
Where our natal record shines
The burning page of Jefferson
Bears Franklin's calmer lines.

Will ye divide that record bright,
Or tear those names apart,
That once were planted nobly there
With pledge of hand and heart?

Can ye divide with equal hands
A heritage of graves,
Or rend in twain the starry flag
That o'er them proudly waves?

Ye should not, shall not, cannot, 'tis
The Atlantic's loud decree,
'Tis echoed where Nevada guards
The blue and tranquil sea.

But all was in vain. Deadly was inaugurated, for what. Hear the vice president of the confederacy: "The foundations of the new government are laid upon the truth that slavery, the subordination of an inferior race, is the negro's natural and normal condition. . . . In this edifice this truth becomes the chief stone of the corner." Firing on Ft. Sumpter started the war. Lincoln called out an army of 267,500 Union soldiers. You old boys in blue will remember those scenes of terror. The young man is walking arm in arm with his lover, they renew their vows and lingeringly part forever. The father stoops and kisses the little one in the cradle, then the children and last his wife and is gone forever. Son leaves home of plenty amidst heart sobs to return never. They part to meet no more. The war is over—no north, south, east or west. The boys, blue and gray, together went across to Cuba and settled the Weyler trouble. These should be days of patriotic gatherings.

Senator Owens of Oklahoma on April 25 last announced in the U. S. senate that a secret treaty of monarchial rulers was made at Vazona 96 years ago. Caused Thos. Jefferson and others to announce the Monroe doctrine. Since this monarchial rulers agreed to extinguish republicanism in Europe and would keep their agents informed in foreign countries.—They made short work of Ireland.

(The speaker requested the old soldiers to stand up. Sixteen arose to their feet.) Nearly a generation has passed since those fierce and awful days. Nearly all that great host, that mighty army, has passed over to the great majority—you must soon march over the pontoon. Be a good soldier for Jesus and you can go up and pitch your tent on "Fame's eternal camping ground."

(The speaker picked up a small flag showing it to his hearers and tugging it in his arms.) He said our flag is on the sea and our hearts are with the flag and we demand that it be respected. We love peace, yet we will fight for it if we must. God bless the old soldiers of our country.

Mrs. A. A. Layton held the attention of the audience for half an hour with a well delivered and interesting speech on "The Women's Relief Corps." Her talk is too long to be reproduced here at this time, although it will be published in The Herald at a later date.

The closing prayer was delivered by Rev. A. A. Layton, following which the procession passed to the different graves of veterans, which were decorated by the Boy Scouts. The benediction by Rev. McIntyre was followed by a salute from the brass band, followed by taps. The Catholic cemetery was then visited and the graves of veterans there were decorated.

The members of the Alliance fire department decorated the graves of deceased members with appropriate ceremonies in both cemeteries.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Kibble, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Hulen and Miss Blanche Kibble left early Tuesday morning by auto for Denver, where they will probably remain about a week, taking a number of side trips while there to other Colorado points. Messrs. Logan, Palmer and Gilbert have also gone to Denver on business connected with the Nebraska Potash Company, in which they are interested.

Installs Hoffman Machine
Roy B. Burns, proprietor of the Keep-U-Neat tailoring shop, on Wednesday installed a new Hoffman Sanitary Steam Clothes Pressing machine to care for his rapidly increasing business. The press is designed to press into any kind of garment the natural body shape. The application of steam renders a thoroughly uniform finish, brings out the color, raises the nap, sets and dries the fabric, and gives the entire garment an appearance of newness.
