Miss Edith Broahas returned to her home at Scotts Bluff last week after a week's visit with her friend Mrs. Sadie Hopkins.

Several car loads from Alliance went through here to Crawford Tuesday night to the fight on account of the heavy rains they did not return until Wednesday afternoon.

G. F. Hedgecock has been exhibiting a fine new Chalmers Six on the streets this week. Mr. Hedgecock has the agency for the Chalmers cars for this section of the country.

The Rebekahs initiated several candidates into their lodge Monday evening after the work was done a dainty luncheon was served and a general good time was had by all present.

Mrs. B. U. Shepherd entertained at a miscellaneous shower at her home Friday evening, June 16, in honor of Miss Esther Kinsley. There were forty present and a very pleasant time was had by all. Mrs. Shepherd was assisted in serving by Mrs. McClung. Miss Kinsley was the recipient of many useful and valuable presents.

Mrs. Joe Tucheck passed from this life Monday, June 19th, at her home northeast of this place after an illness lasting two years. The funeral was held from the Catholic church at this place Wednesday morning, conducted by the Rev. Father Keyser, interment in the Hemingford cemetery. To the bereaved husband and friends we extend our condolence.

At eight o'clock Tuesday morning June 20th, 1916, at the home of the bride's mother in this city occurred the marriage of Miss Esther Kinsley to Mr. Frank Wolverson formerly of Alliance. The young couple departed on the eleven o'clock train for Omaha where they will make their future home. The hearty congratulations and best wishes of their friends goes with them through life.

EDITORS WILL VISIT US

Special Train of Pullmans to Visit Alliance on August 8th With Editors of State

Nebraska editors, or at least a many of them who can leave their busy printshops, are going to take a week off this fall and see western Nebraska. Through the efforts of the executive committee of the Nebraska Press Association, a special train of Pullmans will leave Grand Island on August 7th, and will, during the week, cover the greater portion of western and northwestern Nebraska. The train will be made up exclusively of editors and their families.

Stops will be made at Alliance and other towns en route and the principal sessions of the association will be held at Scottsbluff and Gering on August 10th. This "Seeing Nebraska First" excursion will set a pace for other state organizations to follow and the editor who takes in this trip will never regret it.

For grandeur and beauty, the rolling hills, dark green fields, broad and beautiful canyons, imposing buttes, rippling streams, prosperous farms and enterprising cities and villages of progressive people, this section of Nebraska cannot be beaten. This home-seeing excursion of Ne-

Cattleman Salesman Over 15 Years

Mr. R. L. REYNOLDS, Head Cattle Salesman and President of The Inter-State Live Stock Commission Company, has been actively engaged in the cattle business at South Omaha for over fifteen years. He was born in Monona county, Iowa, thirty-seven years ago—starting in life as a farmer. At the present time, stands as one of the brightest and shrewdest cattle traders at the Omaha market.

R.L. REYNOLDS, PRES. HEAD CATTLE SALESMAN

Hangs On With Ease

Our artist has vividly portrayed the ease with which Mr. Reynolds hangs on when riding a bucking broncho. It's the same way when it comes to getting the highest possible price in selling cattle, at which he is an expert. In fact, he is in his element in doing either, and excels in both. "Efficiency" is his watchword, whether selling a load of cattle for a Nebraska ranchman or busting a bronk.

WYOMING SOLDIERS VISITED ALLIANCE

Alliance Band Led Parade on Tuesday While Train was Held for Reception Accorded the Boys

Company A, Wyoming national guard, consisting of nearly seventy men, stopped over in Alliance Tuesday noon, on their way to Cheyenne for mobilization. Alliance was red hot with patriotic fever during the stay of the boys in town and they were accorded a reception that they will remember for some time.

The Alliance brass band turned out in full force at 12:30 o'clock and led a parade in which the soldier boys joined, from the depot to the court house and back, led by John W. Guthrie carrying the United States flag.

Several hundred people turned out for the reception to the soldier boys and cheered them as they left in special coaches attached to the Casper train, which had been held ten minutes for them. They went over to Wendover Junction, Wyoming, going from there to Cheyenne, where they entered camp Wednesday morning.

Musical Column

Edited by Ralph R. Unacke, Violinist with the Alliance School of Music

Music as a Language—(Con)

Let us carry a little further our subject that sensations or emotions of pleasure and pain, which cause muscular action, result in the various characteristics of sound quality of the human voice in every day life, and let us observe the use of these characteristics in music.

Song is distinguished from ordinary speech by just these same peculiarities which indicate excited feeling. And these peculiarities, which are the direct result of a physiological mental excitement, are carried to the greatest extreme in vocal music. For instance, if we take the characteristics of loudness, which was a quality of vocal sound caused by increasing emotions, we find that loudness in music indicates raising emotion and the forte passages are those which mark the climax of the emotion. Then likewise timbre of sonorous quality is used more in music than in ordinary speech for the singing tone is the most resonant tone produced by the human voice. Then again in regard to pitch of which we find that the middle tones are used mostly in calm speech, and rise and fall to great extents during moments of great mental excitement; and here music is distinguished from speech in its neglect of the middle tones and the employment of the two extremes, at which the most passionate effects are produced. Then also, the slow or rapid departure from the middle tones to the extremities, and the slow or rapid return to the middle tones indicate in music the increase or decrease of mental excitement.

And so we see that the characteristics of ordinary speech, which must necessarily have come before music in the scheme of life, are employed by music in giving expression to the varying emotional states of mind whether pleasurable or painful, but with this difference that they are used in an exaggerated manner. Loudness, timbre, pitch, intervals, and rate of variation of tone or vocal sound are the natural language of the emotions or passions;—and so we may say that music employs and exaggerates the natural language of the emotions.

It would seem now that there was a very adequate collection of data for a theory of music, and this really is the case, for considering the fact that there would be no vocal sound without the agency of the muscles, and these muscles would have remained inactive had they not been stimulated into action by sensations of pleasure or pain; it therefore follows that intense feeling underlies all manner of personal expression of the vital things that go on in the inner being of man kind; and this intensity of feeling reaches its climax in music.

as this natural language of the emotions employed by music, but its scope and resources broadened by the exaggerated use of this language.

A few of the minor points which further illustrate the relation between mental and muscular excitement are the following. Due to the effect on the heart practically all the passions when pushed to the extremes cause a trembling in the voice and the tremolo is one of the commonest means of producing a vibrant tone in passionate passages.

When a person is in a state of exhilaration or resolution of confidence the voice employs a crisp clean cut manner which in relative passages in music the term staccato is used to designate the same musical state.

A drawl or sing-song manner of speech indicates less mental activity producing a small degree of muscular activity, and the slurring of intervals illustrates the same effect desired.

Likewise, the variances in time or tempo in music expresses the same emotional state that is expressed in ordinary speech when given in slow or rapid ways.

And so our daily lives being principally lives of emotions, music is only an educational development of the emotions.

LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMAHA

Cattle Market Steady to Stronger; Receipts Fair

HOGS FROM 10-15c HIGHER

Lamb Market About 15c Lower. Best Figure is $11.20, Bulk Moves at $11.15. Small Supply of Sheep, Bringing About Steady Prices. Real Good Idaho Ewes, $6.85.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, Nebr., June 27, 1916.—The week opened with a fair run of cattle, some 148 loads, or about 3,600 head. Although supplies were of moderate proportions, and the quality of the offerings about up to the recent average, there did not appear to be an urgent demand from any quarter, and the market was rather slow. Dressed beef meat got some of the more desirable yearlings and handy weight heaves at fully steady prices, in some cases a little more, the demand not being quite so strong for the heavy as well as the medium weight cattle. Strictly good to choice heaves sold at $10.00@10.50, and right good yearlings at $9.50@10.00. The fair to pretty good 1,000 to 1,300-pound heaves sold mostly around $9.40@9.90. Good to choice heifer stock brought around $7.25@8.00.

Quotations on cattle: Good to choice heaves, $10.25@10.75; fair to good heaves, $9.40@10.15; common to fair heaves, $8.25@9.25; good to choice yearlings, $9.50@10.30; fair to good yearlings, $8.60@9.40; common to fair yearlings, $7.25@8.50; good to choice heifers, $7.50@8.50; good to choice cows, $7.25@8.00; fair to good cows, $6.00@7.00; canners and cutters, $4.00@6.00; veal calves, $9.00@11.50; grass bulls, $5.50@6.50; beef bulls, $6.75@7.75.

The shippers had very heavy orders for hogs Monday, and started in early buying hogs from 10@15c higher. Most of the hogs sold at $9.50@9.60, $9.55 being a very popular price for strings and the top reaching $9.75. Lamb receipts for Monday were rather large, some thirty-three cars, or 8,500 head. Most of the offerings were from Idaho, and very few old sheep, and what ewes that did show up went readily at good steady prices, some very good Idahos bringing $6.85. Adverse reports from the eastern markets seemed to have a bearish influence on the local buyers, and owing to the large receipts of lambs, they were inclined to take their time about bidding on their early bids being around a quarter lower. Some of the off rings carried a good deal of water in their bids, and on the wettest of the stuff bids looked around 25c lower.

Quotations on sheep and lambs: Lambs, spring, fair to choice, $10.25@11.20; lambs, spring, choice, $8.50@9.25; lambs, fair to choice, handy, $9.25@9.80; lambs, fair to choice, heavy, $8.50@9.50; yearlings, fair to choice, handy, $7.25@7.75; yearlings, fair to choice, heavy, $7.00@7.25; ewes, fair to choice, $6.75@7.25; ewes, good to choice, $6.25@6.75; ewes, fair to good, $5.00@6.25.

Thomas-Davidson Marriage
On Saturday afternoon at the Methodist parsonage in Alliance was solemnized the marriage of Miss Gertrude Thomas and Mr. William Davidson, both of Upton, Wyoming. Rev. J. B. Carns performed the ceremony. The mother of the bride was present and witnessed the ceremony. The young people will make their home at Upton.

River Cities are Busy
The cities of Scottsbluff and Gering are making big preparations to entertain the Nebraska editors when the special train of the Nebraska Press Association reaches these cities during the week of August 7-11. The newspaper men will spend the greater part of two days in this famous valley and will be shown many sights of unusual interest. Other western cities are waking up to the fact that this special excursion will give them a great deal of favorable publicity in the way of newspaper write-ups and are going to see that the editors have a royal good time, while in their respective cities.
