BURK'S BIG
Uncle Tom's Cabin Company Under a Mammoth Canvas

will exhibit at Alliance, Saturday night, August 5.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" is the most beautiful play in the English language and justly deserves its popularity. The only play that is identified with American history. It has endured 50 years, and each succeeding year but serves to add laurels to its wreath of popularity. It breathes of loyalty and liberty; it will inculcate in the youthful mind a love of honesty, morality and Christianity; it boldly stands for all that is GOOD, and upholds to scorn and contempt all that is bad, and for these reasons it appeals to all Christian people as the ideal of a great and moral play.

Some practical suggestions to fathers and mothers: If you cannot afford to visit but one show this season, this is surely the one. We especially aim to amuse and instruct the children and present nothing inimical to youth and innocence. It will return you both instruction in American history and wholesome recreation, more than ten times the price of admission. It is just what it is advertised to be—moral and refined and instructive as well as amusing. Burk's Big Uncle Tom's Cabin Co. will exhibit at Alliance Saturday night, August 5, under canvas. Prepare for the coming event. A grand gala holiday for the rich and poor alike.

Carns Family Reunion
A family reunion is being held by Dr. Carns, pastor of the Alliance Methodist church, and his wife and children. Only one member of the family is not at home, a son who is in the employ of the government and who could not get away at this time from his work. Four daughters are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Carns—Mrs. Leo Brown of Spokane, Wash.; Mrs. William Cox of Rapid City, S. Dak.; Mrs. Rev. Chambers of University Place, Nebr.; and Miss Laura B. Carns of Billings, Mont.

Should Sloan's Liniment Go Along?
Of course it should! For after a strenuous day when your muscles have been exercised to the limit an application of Sloan's Liniment will take the soreness and stiffness away and get you in fine shape for the morning. You should also use it for a sudden attack of toothache, stiff neck, backache, stings, bites and the many accidents that are incidental to a vacation. "We should as soon leave our baggage as go on a vacation or camp out without Sloan's Liniment." Writes one vacationist: "We use it for everything from cramps to toothache." Put a bottle in your bag, be prepared and have no regrets.

The Eight Hour Day

Extract from an address delivered before the 27th convention of

B. of L. F. & E. by

HON. FRANK P. WALSH

As a result of the study I have been able to make, it is my belief that there is one other point which transcends these original rights of every man who toils. The Commission on Industrial Relations declared concisely what every Government Commission has declared, what every sub-division of government, state, municipality, etc., has declared, what every board of hygiene appointed by the government, what every educator has declared, for the last twenty years at least, namely that the physical well being, the mental development and the recreational needs of men and women demand that they should not be compelled to work more than eight hours a day. (Applause.)

I predict that the march for the eight-hour day is going to receive an impetus within the next three months that will carry it into countless industries in the United States, and no man or woman can successfully deny the fundamental truth of what I have uttered upon this subject.

Can any person truthfully assert that the demands of public or domestic necessity call for a man working a greater number of hours than are consistent with his health, and no man under our system of life has health and strength in any industry in which one must work without that full-intelligence that God has given us and that we hope to constantly extend? If there be truth in the great declaration that knowledge is power it would give the lie to every school building in the United States. It would be a charge of fraud against every university in this Republic, if we said that any industry demanded that a man should work so long that he could not have full play for his mental development; it would be a blow at the very foundation of the race. (Applause.)

Every constitution of free men says that we are entitled to pursue and practice a healthy clean pleasure in life. I do not understand how any man would be willing on account of any interest to place a curb upon the happiness of his brother man, and if recreational needs demand that the human being shall work not more than eight hours a day, then I say that that reason arises just as high as that of physical well-being and mental development because they run together, and it is found that a man cannot reach his highest degree of development unless he is free from care and feels a modicum of the voice which God has put into the hearts of all of His creatures.

THE EIGHT-HOUR MOVEMENT

Now then, my friends, with this proven basis, we reach the principles that animate us today. We have an exhibition here of four intelligent crafts, having first at heart, as they properly should have, the well-being of their own membership, but animated to do something higher and nobler than that, if I mistake you not, and that is to aid in the advancement of the whole race, the building up of the family life, the strengthening of the state that goes to make so strong a nation, of independent and free people.

Unless I am mistaken these ideals animate you, and we will not lose sight of the fact nor will the public lose sight of it that what you have done so far has been done by bitter struggle.

Since I came to this city yesterday, a gentleman for whom I have the highest regard, representing in his person and through organizations, a great deal of the wealth of this western country, said to me: "I am glad to see that you are going to speak before the organization up in the Auditorium tomorrow morning; I know that your conservative voice will be raised in such a way as to prevent the awful result of a strike in the great transportation industry of this country." I told him: "You are mistaken; I am not going to address a convention of the railroad managements of this country; I am going to address a great body, representing, as I understand it, some ninety thousand of the workers on the railroads of the continent, and I am going to say, upon my conscience, that they ought to use their economic power in bringing about the eight-hour day." (Applause.) I told him further that if he desired to have access to a body that might prevent a tie-up of the freight and passenger service on the railroads of the United States he should endeavor to attend a meeting of the railroad managers organization and ask them to give these men what they are entitled to as workers and American citizens, and keep the wheels of the railroads moving. (Applause.)

I need to make no argument here, as I have had the pleasure of doing many times in gatherings of a more public character. We understand exactly what this movement means. We understand this demand, made as it is by men who have risen to the door of freedom economically, and who propose that their crafts shall be emancipated from intolerable employment conditions. This is going to be, I hope, an illustration of the great advantage of cohesiveness in labor. It is going to be the greatest exhibition of solidarity of labor, I think, that has ever been given in these United States. And I might have said to this gentleman, as I have said many times in public gatherings, the thinking power that the worker has when expressed rightfully, and with a view to bringing about proper conditions, is neither a bad thing for himself nor a bad thing for the community of which he is an integral part.
