Mr. J. F. Tiller was host Tuesday evening at a delightful stag party held at the Tiller residence, 1011 Big Horn avenue. There were eight in attendance. Auction bridge occupied the attention of most of the guests during the greater part of the evening. A few of the number who did not play cards turned the affair into a Kensington and employed their time in trimming their Easter hats. Mr. Tiller having very thoughtfully supplied them with a paper of pins. Mr. Tiller states that A. G. Imaconson carried off the honors and the guests state that host Tiller was after him strong. A unique and appropriate idea was carried out in the decorations, which were composed for the most part of pretzels. The luncheon was served in courses, the courses being served now and then, but for some mostly now, and consisted of pimento cheese spread between squares of rye bread with a chaser of ginger pop. Salted peanuts were also served. The host wore a black suit, a handsome vest with real buttons. He wore shoes with real shoe-stings in them. His trousers were of handsome cut and of extra quality serge. His cravat was a dream. His shirt and collar were of linen while the handkerchief was of similar material. He wore no hat.

On Monday morning at 11 o'clock Judge Ira E. Tash pronounced the words that united in marriage Miss Mildred Hope Campbell and Mr. James Burlington, Jr. The bride was dressed in a gown of midnight blue crepe meteor with chiffon trimmings. Friends of the happy couple were greatly surprised when they learned of the wedding but all hastened to extend to them their hearty congratulations. The bride, who is a daughter of Dr. L. S. Campbell, is a member of the Alliance young set and is popular with all who know her. She is a graduate of the Alliance high school class of 1916. The groom, who is a traveling salesman, has made this city his headquarters for the past year. Mr. and Mrs. Burlington left Monday for Casper for a short honeymoon. They will be at home after today at the home of Mrs. M. E. Coleman, 624 Big Horn avenue.

The Hannibal (Missouri) Journal of the issue of March 3 contains an announcement of interest to Alliance people in that Ira Ellis is a former Alliance resident and a nephew of H. J. Ellis and Edgar Martin. The Journal says: "Mr. and Mrs. William Foster of 624 North Seventh street announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Enid Foster, to Ira Ellis of St. Louis. The announcement was made at a party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Foster last evening. About forty persons were present. The house was tastefully decorated for the occasion and the soft glow of the shaded candles lent an additional charm to the animated picture. Pretty streamers extended from the place cards to other cards, containing letters and the figures 'March 21'. The bride-elect is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Foster and is a cultured and refined young lady, who will make the man of her choice a charming helpmate. The groom-elect is a steady and industrious young man. He is a son of J. H. Ellis, storekeeper of the Hannibal division of the Burlington. He is a steady and reliable young man and holds a position of trust in St. Louis."

WHEN JAMES TOOK A HAND

His Story of How Wonderful Machine Worked First Caused Astonishment and Then Disgust.

While I was running a bolt cutter at the Rock Island shops in Chicago, writes a contributor to Railway and Locomotive Engineering, I boarded at a house which was frequented by locomotive engineers and firemen. These men talked a great deal about their tremendous feats in getting over certain hills without the help of a second locomotive.

My opposite neighbor at a table, a young fellow who ran a lathe in the shop, grew tired of this monotonous bragging; he thought he was entitled to do a little talking himself. One evening he called out to me:

"Well, I went over and saw that new machine today, and it's astonishing the fine work it does."

"How does it work?" I inquired.

"Well," said James, "by means of a pedal attachment, a fulcrumed lever converts a vertical reciprocating motion into a circular movement. The principal part of the machine is a huge disk that revolves in a vertical plane. Power is applied through the axis of the disk, and when the speed of the driving arbor is moderate, the periphery of the apparatus is traveling at a high velocity. Work is done on this periphery. Pieces of the hardest steel are by mere impact reduced to any shape the skillful operator desires."

"What in the name of sense is that machine, anyway?" demanded Tom Briggs.

"Oh, it's a new grindstone," replied James, and a silence that could be cut with a knife fell upon the crowd.

HOW TO LEARN TO WRITE

Road to Success in Literature is a Long One, and the Path Thickly Beset With Sorrows.

Putting words together is not writing; making fine sentences is not writing; elaborating striking plots is not writing. Of all the arts, literature is the most exacting mistress. To write you must have lived, you must have suffered and know joy, you must be able to analyze people, to understand their motives, to love them.

Granted that you have learned something of the motives, the passions, the sorrows that rack us humans, then you must also have your medium in control. Words are like little creatures that march and fight and sing. They are like extra hands and brains. All the passions wait on them. Until you get this sense of the choiceness, the fragility, the power of words, you are not ready to transcribe your thoughts.

You must support yourself, then study when you can. Write all the time, get facility with words, then tear up your manuscript. Don't try to sell things. Begin to watch people, get abreast of events. Read the papers and the magazines in the library. Read Shakespeare, Fielding, Dickens, Thackeray, Bunyan, Meredith, Barrie and Galsworthy. You might even try Shaw.—American Magazine.

Leg Is 2,000 Years Old.

There is preserved in the Royal College of Surgeons, London, what is probably the very earliest specimen extant of an artificial leg. This remarkable limb is considered over two thousand years old.

Yet for beauty of shape and carefulness of construction it might vie with many of those turned out today. It is made with pieces of thin bronze, fastened by bronze rivets to a hollow wooden core, and is modeled so as to accurately represent the form of a real leg.

The outside is believed to have been enameled flesh color, and the upper part of the artificial leg was connected with the living stump by means of a circlet of sheet bronze edged with small rivets, probably used to fasten a leather lining.

Port of Damariscotta.

One of the most-syllabied names of towns along the Maine coast is Damariscotta. Tested by standards of sight or sound, the name is unique. The gazetteer records nothing like it in other states or in other lands. When the name was coined the die was thrown away. Nor is its name the only unique feature of the town. It is better known in Haiti than Cambridge, Mass., or Mount Washington, in New Hampshire. Why? Because, year after year there arrive from the Damariscotta waters about 6,000 barrels of pickled alewives, which the Haitians consume. The case is interesting for the light it sheds on the specialized industry and market problem of the small town.—Christian Science Monthly.

Height of Trees.

When one is out for a walk, it is a very common thing to wish to know the height of a particular tree which happens to catch the eye. When the sun is shining, it is possible accurately to measure the height of the tree from the shadow it casts on the ground. In order to do so, a stick must be set upright in the ground, so that its shadow falls beside the shadow of the tree. Then, as the length of the stick's shadow to the stick's height, so is the length of the tree's shadow to the tree's height. For example, suppose a 2½-foot stick shows a shadow 8 feet long, and the tree's shadow is 18 feet long. Therefore the tree is six times as high as the stick, which shows that the height of the tree will be 15 feet.

Improbable. Sympathetic Stranger—"Hullo! old chap—fallen in?" Unfortunate Angler (sarcastically)—"Well, you don't suppose this is perspiration, do you?"—Passing Show.

OPEN NOSTRILS! END A COLD OR CATARRH

How To Get Relief When Head and Nose are Stuffed Up.

Count fifty! Your cold in head or catarrh disappears. Your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more snuffling, hawking, mucous discharge, dryness or headache, no struggling for breath at night.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable. Relief is sure.
