High School Notes

Friday morning Miss Alta Young entertained at assembly with a number of piano solos and selections.

The minstrel show given at the high school Friday evening by the stock judging class was a success as far as the show was concerned but not from the standpoint of attendance as the attendance was small.

Track work practice started last week and the boys are now busy getting in shape for the one and only track meet they will participate in this season, which will be with Scottsbluff at Scottsbluff. The meet will be held the early part of May. Floyd Lotspeich is captain of the track team. There are some eight boys in training now.

The Alliance public schools were dismissed this (Thursday) noon for the balance of the week as the faculty is scheduled to attend the teachers' meetings at Sidney today and tomorrow. Miss Georgia Canfield will give a talk on domestic science before the teachers and Miss Elizabeth Hiedik of the Emerson school will give a talk on language work. W. R. Pate, superintendent of the Alliance city schools, is to act as toastmaster at the teachers' banquet to be held at Sidney tonight.

Alliance will be represented at the Y. M. C. A. and high school boys' conference to be held at Scottsbluff the last of this week, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Those attending from here are Phil Grove, Oral Harvey, Otto Snyder, William Lunn and Prof. Crawford. Prof. Crawford will divide his time the last of this week between the teachers' meeting at Sidney and the boys' meeting at Scottsbluff.

HADDORFF CHOSEN

Omaha, Nebr.—After trying out various makes of high grade pianos for the Carmen and Il Trovatore grand operas at the auditorium, Monday, October 23, and Tuesday, October 24, Cleofonte Campanini, musical director, selected a Haddorff piano for use during their engagement here, which speaks mightily well for the instrument, considering the numerous other makes that were offered. The Haddorff Music House have also been advised by the other grand opera companies which have been engaged that what is good enough for Cleofonte Campanini is surely good enough for them and the Haddorff instruments will be used exclusively during the entire grand opera season in Omaha.

NATIONAL ADVERTISING DAY WILL BE APRIL THIRTEENTH

A day dedicated to publicity—to education by the printed word; on which to focus public attention to a vital factor in the nation's welfare; a day on which merchants shall set forth their wares and demonstrate through advertising, its strength. Such a day shall be called Advertising Day.

Newspapers shall carry special sections. Business men shall make extra appeals to buy advertised goods. Advertising men and public alike will contribute to the success of the day.

Advertising Day is needed. Advertising is the most powerful educational factor in our everyday life. Through it the cost of manufactures is lowered, standardized articles are made available for the people, and the lands of the seven seas are bound together by a common means of expression.

All cities must naturally rally to promote this day above all special days in the calendar. The governor shall proclaim the occasion.

California, in originating Advertising Day, will be copied by every state in the Union. What is more natural than that this most progressive state, or more suitable than that the newest metropolitan city in the United States should give birth to this idea of honoring Advertising—of paying homage to that universal medium to which the nation owes its prosperity?

Every dog has its day; Advertising has every day. But most particular of all these days let us make Advertising Day—April thirteenth.

POTATO BARONS TO HOLD THE SACK?

Press Dispatch Sent from Omaha Says Growers Are Holding on for Longer Price

Well, well. And after you and I and the other fellow have been thinking things about the manufacturers and dealers who are thought to be responsible for H. C. L., and saying anyway a part of what we think, here we have it thrown right back in our teeth. Yes, sir.

Daily papers all over the central west carried a news story Saturday under an Omaha date line that—but well, read it. The article as it appeared in many dailies the last of the week is as follows:

Do They Know? Omaha, Nebr., March 24—There is a growing feeling among commission men and local merchants that the potato barons of the north and west part of the state who have been holding the crop of last season for higher prices are going to be forced to hold the sack, figuratively speaking. In other words, it is not believed that they are going to be able to dispose of their holding at $3 and $4 per bushel as they expect.

The facts are, that notwithstanding ing the northern and western portions of Nebraska have potatoes and plenty of them to spare, they are not anxious to sell except at prices that are practically prohibitive. The result is that potatoes have been cut from the daily menu and people are not going to eat them as an article of general and every-day consumption until the new stock gets cheap enough to bring down the prices of the old.

In the vicinity of Hemingford, Box Butte county, it is asserted that there are 12,000 bushels of potatoes in storage. A week ago an Omaha commission man was up there and offered $2.40 per bushel for the entire lot, but the owners refused to sell for less than $3 f. o. b. From Hemingford the freight rate into Omaha is 35 cents per bushel. The commission man would not pay the price and the potatoes remain in the country, yet it is expected that a good many of them will be sold for seed, even at the high prices asked.

It is said that in the country along the Northwestern, from Valentine to Chadron, there are not less than 20,000 bushels of potatoes now held in pits and cellars. They are for sale, but owners are holding them at $3 per bushel. Commission men will not pay the price and the stocks remain where they went into storage last fall.

Railroad and commission men assert that unless these potatoes in the northern and western parts of the state are moved inside thirty days, prices will drop materially and that, except for seed, they will not bring much more than half the present prices, if that much.

A VAGRANT AND A PROSTITUTE BOTH?

One of the charges against Eula Workuff, who was arrested on the charge of being a prostitute and a vagrant was withdrawn by the county attorney and the woman plead guilty to being a vagrant and was fined $10 and costs, a total of $17.50. The fine and costs were paid. In view of the fact that the two complaints were somewhat conflicting according to the information secured at the actions of the said Eula, it was thought advisable to withdraw the charge of being a prostitute. Eula was released from the county jail Saturday. The hearing was held before Judge Tash.

Somewhat Bitter.

Two men were once talking over their respective sons' careers at college, and one remarked, "Well, I sometimes feel like saying as did Aaron in the wilderness, 'Behold, I poured in the gold and there came out this calf.'"—Christian Register.

The Important Point.

Last summer, while visiting, my little niece, four years old, had done a naughty little deed. Her mother seeing her said: "Catherine, what did you do?" She replied: "You didn't see me do it." Her mother then told her that God saw everything she did. The child thought a little and then said: "Well, mamma, will he come and tell you?"—Exchange.

Improbable.

Sympathetic Stranger—"Hallo! old chap—fallen in?" Unfortunate Angler (sarcastically)—"Well, you don't suppose this is perspiration, do you?"—Passing Show.

DREW CHECK BUT HAD NO MONEY IN THE BANK

William Kubes of Bayard paid a fine of $10 and costs assessed by Judge Tash in county court. He had written a check for the sum of $55 on a bank at Bayard in which he had no funds. The prosecution was called off when Kubes arranged for the payment of his check. The check was returned to the First National Bank with the notation that he had "no funds."

Easter Thoughts

SOMETIMES within our hearts the good lies dead. Blain by untoward circumstances or by our own free will, And through the world we walk with bowed head Or with our senses blinded to our choice. Thinking that "good is evil—evil good." Or with determined pride to still the voice That whispers of a "resurrection morn."

This is that morn—the resurrection hour Of all the good that has within us died. The hour to throw aside with passionate force The cruel bonds of wrong and blindness—pride— And rise into a level high of power, Of strength, of purity, while those we love rejoice With "clouds of angel witnessers" above And all the dear ones who before have gone.

And we ascend in the triumphant joy And peace and rapture of a changed self. That now transfigured stands—no more the toy Of circumstance—or pride, or sin, to blight— Until we reach sublimest heights And stand erect, eyes fixed upon the right. Strong in the strength that wills all wrong to still. Will, pointing upward to the ascended Lord. Bless, ay, thrice bless, this fair, sweet Easter dawn. —Isabel Scott Stone in Washington Star.

POSSIBILITIES of an EASTER HAT

By GERTRUDE M'KENZIE Copyright, 1917, by American Press Association.

MISS VAN VLECK had been reading some newspaper joke that suggested a sectional hat. But, thinking the plan might be feasible, she said: "I believe there is some sense in that. This man says, if bookcases thus can be bought And gradually paid for, a hat surely ought."

Now, Easter was coming, and new hats were high. Miss Van Vleck's stock of cash was quite low. But she found a sweet straw thing as blue as the sky. Crimmed with roses as white as the snow. So springlike it looked and so dainty and sweet And the price not beyond what her purse could well meet.

When the spring was well past and the summer had come Miss Van Vleck saw no good reason why She should not take a short trip away from her home To celebrate fourth of July. So she touched up her headgear with red roses new And looked patriotic in red, white and blue.

But the autumn came on, and election drew near. Miss Van Vleck thought it scarcely would pay her To add to her hat till sure news she could hear Of her father's election as mayor. When she heard it her straw hat received one more section— A fine rooster's tail, to show joy o'er election!
