Platte irrigation project in township 23, north, range 53 and 54 west, of the sixth principal meridian, Nebraska, together with the smallest legal subdivisions and lesser fractions of land adjoining the flow lines thereof, be and the same are hereby reserved, subject to the reclamation service uses under the provisions of the act approved June 17, 1902, and to any other valid existing rights, and set apart for the use of the department of agriculture as a preserve and breeding grounds for native birds.

It is unlawful for any person to hunt, trap, capture, willfully disturb or kill any bird of any kind whatever, or take the eggs of such birds within the limits of this reservation, except under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the secretary of agriculture. Warning is expressly given to all persons not to commit any of these acts herein enumerated, under the penalties prescribed by Section 84 of the United States Penal Code.

"This reserve to be known as North Platte reservation." There is considerable conjecture here as to the real reason for the issuance of such an order, some maintaining that it is because the government wishes to establish a game preserve, and others that it is a war measure. These lakes are vitally important to the crops in this valley, and hence are carefully guarded. The persons who look upon this order as a war measure assert that it would be an easy matter for an alien in the disguise of a hunter to do considerable damage to these lakes and in this way greatly injure the crops in this county.

Mr. Cleveland's "Backbone."
In the summer of 1884 James J. Hill had been stazing up the political situation in his part of the country. Mr. Cleveland's name was in the air. No body knew very much about him. Mr. Hill went to New York and talked with Mr. Tilden, whom he knew well. They had great esteem for each other. "What about this man Cleveland?" was the question Mr. Hill had to ask. "He is all right," said Mr. Tilden. "He is absolutely honest and is no afraid of anything."
"But has he backbone?"
"Backbone! He has so much that it makes his stomach stick out in front."

It is a curious but almost unnoticed fact that San Francisco is three degrees of longitude east of the geographical center of that portion of the United States located in North America. San Francisco is closer to the extreme eastern portion of the coast of Malaya than it is to the extreme western portion of the United States. It is about 7,000 miles from New York to the nearest Asiatic port; it is only twelve miles from the western end of the United States to the continent of Asia, for the western line of the United States must be measured north and south at the extreme western portion of Alaska.—Exchange.

$12,000 FIRE STATION FOR NORTH PLATTE

The North Platte Volunteer Fire Department is to be housed in a new $12,000 home. F. W. Dick, secretary of the department, advises us that the contract for the $12,000 fire station is to be let the last of this month. The North Platte department is a live one, and the boys will certainly have the finest home in the state when this building is finished.

G. R. Tighe, formerly secretary of the North Platte department, has joined the aviation corps of the United States army. Tighe was always, like the writer, rather light headed (he is a blonde, too) so he should make a good aviator.

SOME INTRODUCTION FROM HARRY HAUSER

Harry Hauser, state president, is a joker. The funny thing about it is that Harry always pulls off jokes that are funny—they always bring a laugh. The only time that Harry didn't see the joke was a few months ago when he, as chief of the Fremont fire department, was riding in the seat on the Fremont fire motor truck, going about forty miles per hour, when suddenly a freight train blocked the street. The truck driver, in order to avoid striking the train ran the truck into a street light pole. Harry suddenly left the street, described a curve through the air and landed on the pavement. The boys say that this was once that Harry didn't see any humor in the situation.

But at any rate, Harry is still up to his old tricks. A friend of his recently left Fremont to come to Alliance. Harry gave him an introduction to the writer and on the envelope gave the following directions: "Mr. Esty, get off the train at Alliance. Stop at the first and only big newspaper—The Alliance Herald. See Lloyd—fat, good looking, dandy fellow. Friend of all the firemen and a special friend of Hauser. Married." Mr. Esty found us by looking for the fat—not the good looks, for we haven't any of the latter, but plenty of the first and it's been dry in Nebraska since May first.

MANY FIREMEN IN THE ARMY

We wonder just how many of the volunteer firemen of Nebraska have joined the army or navy in recent months? There must several hundred of our boys in the eight thousand soldiers who have gone and who will go from Nebraska. We wish the different department secretaries would send us a list of the name of those who have gone from their departments. This will assist us in making up a complete state list for the information of all firemen.

PLUNGE IS NOW AN ARMORY

The Alliance volunteer fire department has donated the use of their large plunge and building to the Box Butte county Home Guards, a newly organized military company for home defense. The plunge has been covered over with a substantial floor and the building is now used twice each week for drilling purposes.

MARRIED MEN MAY ENLIST NOW

Alliance Recruiting Station Can Now Accept Married Men for Certain Branches of Service

The Alliance recruiting station has received authority to accept married men for enlistment in the army where the married man's wife or family is not dependent upon him for support. This applies to enlistment in the quartermaster corps, engineer corps, and ordnance corps. Married men are desired for enlistment in the signal corps, including aviation section, only when they possess qualifications of special value to that corps and can submit proper evidence of non-dependence of all members of their families together with waivers of dependency signed by their wives. There is no objection to the enlistment of married men in the enlisted force of the medical department, whose wives or families are not dependent upon them for support, provided no special consideration is claimed on account of their conjugal condition.

The local recruiting station is anxious to secure men for the cavalry. This is the first time in months that recruits could be accepted for this branch of the service. Heretofore, those who desired to join the cavalry could not do so, but this branch is now open for a limited number of enlistments.

REDUCES HUNTING GROUND

Sportsmen to Be Curtailed in Scope of Territory Out in North Platte Country

According to advices from the office of the reclamation service at Mitchell, there is to be no more hunting within the North Platte irrigation division of the Pathfinder unit. This will materially hamper hunters in the northeast section of the state and it includes all the territory north and northeast of Scottsbluff, and includes all laterals and ditches connected with the artificial lakes made and formed by reason of the government ditch.

The notice which appears over the signature of the president follows: Executive Order

"It is hereby ordered that four artificial reservoirs locally known as Lakes Alice, Minatare, Winter Creek and Reservoir No. 2, created by the reclamation service within the North
