President's Thanksgiving Proclamation

"By the President of the United States
 "A proclamation
 "It has long been the custom of our people to assemble themselves during the autumn of the year to give thanks to the Lord their God for the blessings and mercies which He has bestowed upon them in the midst of the year. In the midst of our national life, we are gathered about us, and we are reminded of the blessings that are ours."

"We have been blessed in the great struggle against a tyrannical and unchristian government, and we have been enabled to stand together with other peoples of the world, and to demand of our government that it should be divided or destroyed."

"In this day of our national life, as a nation, but we have been vouchsafed a common course of united action. We thank God that the spirits of men are elevated and practical, and associated with us, and of a day awake, and be divided or destroyed."

"And while we are in all humbleness, we be kept constant, and security, and vouchsafed all the blessings of a peaceful and prosperous life."

"Wherefore, I do hereby designate the day of Thanksgiving and prayer, and to be observed as a day from their duty to render thanks to the Lord their God."

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and the seal of the United States at Washington, this 28th day of October, 1917."

"Done in the City of Washington, this 28th day of October, 1917."

"By the President of the United States:
 "ROBERT L. HEWITT"
