

A MOTHER'S PROMISE TO HER SON

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

My Dear One—I'm writing this very, very small and on the thinnest of paper, so that tightly folded it may slip into one of the olive drab pockets of your new uniform without encroaching for the tiniest part of an inch upon all the new things that you must have there—the passports and identification slips and photograph, the knife and pen and writing pad, the lists and numbers and names and ciphers, the address book and the thin manual you have been studying so hard and the slim little Bible, for this letter is a part of your equipment, too, or at least I like to think that it is.

I'm going to tell you in it just one or two of the things we've been trying not to say in these last days. You've said to yourself, haven't you, that there were possibilities that I, thank God, hadn't seemed to think of. You've marvelled gratefully, haven't you, that I could say goodbye with dry eyes and talk about what we should do when the war is over. My dear, there is nothing—nothing—that can happen to you that I haven't foreseen in every detail since May, since the very beginning of it all. I know that some of our men are not going to come back. I know—as I write this in the room you love—that your fingers may fumble for this little piece of paper in some dreadful hour, a month or two months or six months from now, just to read it over once more for the last time, just to feel in your fingers out there in a shell lighted battlefield something that I have touched—for goodbye.

And thinking of all this for almost a year while you've been getting ready to go I've been getting ready to stay. Just as you planned I planned, and I said to myself: "When the time comes for us to part I shall make him a promise." Dear one, this is my promise, and I make it for the term of your own—for the duration of the present war.

I promise you that while you are away, whether it is months or years, nothing except what I can give you and give all the others shall fill my life. I promise you that I shall devote myself, here in safety, to the work of making what you do easier and stronger and safer for you. I promise you that I shall give—and give and give—for the Cause! Not the money I can spare, not the time I have left when everything else is done, but all the money, all the time, all the energy I have!

Your whole life has been altered, has been set to sterner and graver music. So shall mine be. You will know self denial, privation and fatigue while the war lasts. So shall I know them. Even if black news comes, even if the blackest comes, I shall remember that against your brave heart this promise is resting, and I shall go on. And while there is one man among our million and among the millions of our allies who needs clothing and nursing and comforts and solace for your sake I shall not fall him.

Perhaps in God's goodness this note will come safely back to me in the olive drab pocket, and we will smile over it together. But, remember, until that hour comes I shall be always busy filling my own small place in the great machine of mercy and as truly under the colors over here as you are over there. God bless you!

WHEN A CUP OF COFFEE TASTES LIKE A MILLION DOLLARS

He Got His Cup and Then Went on—to Death.

Through the establishment of the line of communication canteens in France the American Red Cross is setting records in serving hot coffee, cocoa and sandwiches to the troops. One of these refreshment units made another new record recently, serving more than 50,000 meals in one week. At another a cup of coffee was served every ten seconds for a period of two consecutive hours.

In a single week these lines of communication canteens often serve 80,000 American and French soldiers.

Soldiers in Box Cars.

Do our soldiers and their allies really want this form of Red Cross service? A letter from a young American aviator, a 1917 graduate of Princeton University, is probably typical. It might be added that this man has since been reported killed after bringing down a German Taube. "A 50 mile train ride over here," he said, "instead of taking a few hours may take days. When we stop at a Red Cross canteen you can bet that a cup of coffee tastes like a million dollars."

It is not always possible for a regiment to provide sufficient food and hot coffee on these long journeys, where the men must often be packed standing into unheated box cars ordinarily used for carrying horses. So imagine for yourself the warmth, the cheer, the comfort that piping hot coffee and good sandwiches bring to our boys after a night on such a journey! You can just bet that it stiffens a man's courage. Your Red Cross is handing out this renewed courage by the piping hot cupful.

A letter received from Ed Berry informs us that he is soon leaving for "over there." Ed recently passed an examination for a commission, of what rank, it is not yet certain. Over one thousand candidates took the examination with only four hundred passing.

Edwin Mollring, of New Castle,

Wyo., has joined his uncle, George Mollring, in Alliance and will take up the study of the mercantile business.

Graduation exercises for the senior class of the high school will be held in the opera house a week from this Friday.

Norman Newberry and Bradley Minor will motor down to Hemingford Friday evening.

Word received from Mrs. Minnie Wiker states that she joined the Canadian Kiddies at Butte, Montana. From there she will go to the larger towns in Idaho.

To Save the Wrecks of Humanity—To Fill the Hands Held Out to Us

Copyrighted by George Wright.

Quick Starting

A QUICK get away is sometimes of extreme importance and always a gratifying pleasure. For quick starting, speed, power and endurance, select Red Crown Gasoline—The Gasoline of Quality. It gives, "More miles per gallon and more comfort per mile." Red Crown enhances the pleasure of motoring because of its efficiency and dependability.

Polarine Oil puts life in your engine.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(Nebraska) OMAHA

LOOK FOR THIS SIGN

Red Crown Gasoline

HOOSIER

KITCHEN CABINET

How Delightful to Cook With The Hoosier to Help

How Easy to Keep My Pledge to Save Food

THE HOOSIER KITCHEN CABINET prevents waste in several ways. For one thing, it keeps flour, sugar, cereals and other foods, each its proper place—protected.

For another, it guards against waste in measuring and mixing. And it saves any woman who has it miles and miles of steps and hours of time and toil.

PERFECTED BY MANY EXPERTS

HOOSIER makers have tested all kitchen cabinet devices for the last thirty years. Important discoveries have been built right into this cabinet. It has 17 exclusive features that cannot be found in all others combined. There are places for 400 articles within arms' reach—all scientifically arranged.

The Over-size Base has 25 per cent more space for pots and pans than the average. The Hoosier Two-Sugar Bin holds twice the ordinary amount. In 40 ways this Cabinet saves you work.

Hoosier's Council of Kitchen Scientists pronounce it as efficient as can be made. And in the realm of household economics, there are no women more talented than they.

Glen Miller's