TAKE PRECAUTIONS IN STORING SOFT COAL

State Fire Commissioner Ridgell Warns Those Who Store Soft Coal in Basements to Be Careful.

(By W. S. Ridgell, State Fire Commissioner.)
Owing to the government's request that all citizens put in their supply of coal this summer, larger quantities of coal than ever before are now stored in all homes in the country. This coal is all subject to spontaneous combustion, and especially the lignite coal. We would advise all property owners who have stored their winter's supply of coal to watch this very carefully and whenever the coal commences to burn or even smoke, move it from where it is, and do not put water on it for the more water on it the more it burns; the only safe way to do is to move the coal outside and spread it out not to exceed 4 or 5 inches in thickness and cover it over with ashes or sand.

Do not store coal near wood partitions or posts and do not pile it up to the flooring joists above.
Insurance money will not reproduce food, or fuel and will not clothe or feed our boys in the trenches. We must, during these turbulent times, conserve every article of food and material that we produce and manufacture. We understand that every man has a personal interest in preserving his property from destruction by fire or from loss of any kind, and he will tell you so as he has often indignantly told us, but at the same time the fact that he is fully insured often makes the solicitation for the safety of his property only of ordinary or of luke-warm interest. We know that from experience. At this crisis of our history every citizen should feel a keen, active alert interest in preserving for humanity that which is their very existence and life-blood, and should take an extraordinary interest in reducing the enormous annual fire waste of this country.

Imagine what it means to this country's financial resources when something like $25,000,000, or the interest upon $6,250,000,000 worth of bonds is destroyed in a single year and goes up in the smoke of great, senseless, preventable fires. Imagine if you can the treasury department deciding upon a bond issue of such size and amount and gathering together a huge pile of securities and valuables to take care of the necessary interest, then imagine some citizen lighting a cigar and carelessly tossing the lighted match into this accumulation of securities while hundreds of indifferent citizens stand around and watch it burn.
Would you not imagine they were alien enemies? Surely they are helping the Kaiser with every dollar's worth of property that they destroy in this country. It is a fact, proven by statistics that over 1,500 fires per day occur throughout the country and every cloud of smoke from these fires leaves the country absolutely poorer by an appreciable degree and retards it that much in meeting the strain of war time finance.

"MR. TURKEY" GOT REPRIEVE

American Woman's Respect for Age Led Her to Forego the Prospective Thanksgiving Feast.

Miss H—, the matron of a girls' mission school on the island of Kulisle, one of the Carolines, relates this story:
She had often told her island charges about the customs of her own native land, and was highly pleased upon receiving in invitation to a Thanksgiving dinner, to be held on a neighboring island and given by one of her graduates, who had proudly specified that roast turkey would be on the bill of fare.

Miss H— was delighted, and told her pupils so. Whereupon one of them arose and said:
"It gives me great pleasure to think of your coming joy, Miss H—, though it gives me pain, also, to think of losing Mr. Turkey from our midst. I have been accustomed to seeing that turkey on our island for many years, he being the only resident turkey we have there. But if in his ripe old age he is to be eaten, I'm sure, Miss H—, Mr. Turkey would rather be eaten by you than by any other person."

Convinced that his death would be an undesirable sacrifice, Miss H— sent her hostess word that she preferred seeing Mr. Turkey to eating him.

DIFFERENCES IN CAT FAMILY

Physiological Reason Why Lions, and Others of the Tribe Are Unable to Purrr.

A lion, while an accredited member of the cat family, cannot purr, however happy he may be when you stroke him, because the hyoid bone in his throat is loose. He has to roar.

This is one of a number of interesting things discovered about the cat family, recently by scientists at the London Zoo. R. I. Pocock, superintendent of the zoo, explains that those feline or cat family that have an elastic ligament between the ceratohyal and the upper elements of the suspensorium (lion, tiger, leopard, jaguar) roar, but never purr, while all the other species of the feline with normally constructed hyoids, purr, but never roar, and among these are the cheetah and puma.

The roars of the jaguar and leopard are like "hoarse, barking coughs, an interval of about one second separating the expiratory efforts," says the observer. They may be easily reproduced or imitated by sawing a piece of thin board with a coarse-toothed saw. The cheetah, however, calls with a decided mew, very much like that of the cat.

When Birds Fight.

Sparrows are proverbially pugnacious. Sometimes a tree will be a sparrow battleground, and for ten minutes it will be as lively as a dog fight. On one occasion a flock of sennils, flying inland from the Channel, took possession of a newly sown field. Then a mob of rooks appeared, swooped down and drove the gulls off.

The rooks posted sentries to watch that no invaders should steal in and take spoil, and it was amusing to see these sentries hustling and bustling the gulls who ventured to return.

From time immemorial a pair of carrier crows had held undisputed sway at Gray's Inn, and not a rook put in an appearance until the felling of the oaks on the Chesterfield property at Mayfair. Then the invasion commenced, and the big crows were overmastered by numbers.

Probably the finest fighter in the world, quadruped or biped, is the gamecock. He is a match for anything his size in the world, probably, if he gets a fair field and no favor. He is as quick as a flash of lightning, and his spurs are terrible weapons, quite as effective as a pair of bayonets, and used much more scientifically and forcefully.—Answers

Correct Heat Records.

Why does a weather bureau thermometer show lower temperatures in hot weather than the thermometer at the corner drug store? asks the Popular Science Monthly. When discrepancies exist, they are due chiefly to the fact that the official thermometer is installed in a wooden cage, where it is open to the air, but screened from both direct sunshine and the heat reflected from surrounding buildings.

Only under such conditions does a thermometer measure accurately the temperature of the air.
A thermometer in the sunshine becomes much hotter than the air around it, and its reading simply tells us how hot the instrument is, not how hot the air is. In large cities the weather bureau thermometer is often installed on the roof of a high building, where the temperatures differ somewhat from those prevailing at the street level. The object sought in this arrangement is to obtain a record of the natural temperature of the locality in general, rather than the artificial temperatures of the city.

CANNING CLUBS AT THE STATE FAIR.

The importance of the canning of fruits and vegetables will be fully stressed at the 1918 Nebraska state fair in the boys' and girls' canning club activities and in the exhibits of the domestic products class. It is stated by the Nebraska state board of agriculture, Canning, as a means of conserving food, was never so important as this year. With our food reserves still distressingly low and with one upon tons of ruins and vegetables going to waste in the fields each year here is need of a new interest in canning.

Last year a great deal of comment rose out of the demonstration of the late fair of a community drier for the preservation of fruits and vegetables and the demonstration was responsible for a drier being used in a good many communities. It is hoped that this year's canning exhibit may be of equal interest to the housewives of the state and that Nebraska may have her share in conserving as well as in producing food.

Filipino Legend.

A Philippine legend tells of the origin of head hunting. In warfare the Igorot always brings home the heads of his victims. One day the Moon, a woman, was bending out brass. The young child of the Sun stood nearby, watching. His scrutiny angered the Moon, and she threw a stick at him, causing deception. The Sun then appeared and put his child's head back on his trunk, declaring that because of the Moon's wanton act mortals would henceforth cut off each other's heads when in wrath.

Hopes Women Will Adopt This Habit—As Well As Men

Glass of hot water each morning helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels

SALTS IF KIDNEYS OR BLADDER BOTHER

Harmless to flush kidneys and neutralize irritating acids—Splendid for system.

Kidney and bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.
