

Railroad News of Interest

Railroad employes are no longer to have the process of garnishment as a menace or a means for debt collection, for it has been settled that a railroad employe's salary cannot be garnisheed.

In a recent case at Topeka, Kan., A. L. Horton, an insurance man, brought garnishment against George Pierson, chief clerk in the freight auditor's department of the Santa Fe road for $29.84, claiming the amount to be due on a note.

The case, before federal railroad control, would have been a trial in the day's business of a great railroad and would have been handled with perhaps a bundle of similar cases by some junior member of the legal department. It brought into court instead the leading attorneys of the Santa Fe and other prominent lawyers.

The federal law under which the railroads now operate is clear and definite. It was established that a railroad employe now is a federal employe. The money that may be due him for salary, as it lies in the treasury of the railroad company, is government money. Until the check for the amount of cash itself has been placed in the hands of the employe remains government money, and there can be no intervention between the payer and receiver of the money prior to payment. Recourse of anyone seeking to collect debt from an employe must be thru other channels after the money has been paid over.

Attorneys quoted from the law which in several paragraphs makes it clear that the railroad employes are to be considered as federal government employes. As a mail clerk or carrier or other post-office employe cannot be garnisheed, or an army or navy officer, so all railroad employes now are no longer subject to the garnishment process.

Our community was shrouded in gloom at a late hour Sunday afternoon when it was learned that A. S. Enyeart, one of our old friends and citizens, had passed away at Norfolk, Nebr., during the afternoon Saturday.

About two years ago Mr. Enyeart sustained injuries by being trampled by a horse from which he never fully recovered and the past few months his health has been gradually failing during that time he has been at several hospitals for treatment and seemed to be much improved in health until a few weeks ago when his health again failed.

Mr. Enyeart was 65 years old and had resided in this county since the early days and knew well the privations of pioneer life.

He leaves a wife (four sons, four daughters and a host of friends to mourn his loss. To the sorrowing family we extend condolence.

50% Better Results Obtained from Trees Delivered in the Fall

I have been growing and planting trees for more than a quarter of a century under all kinds of soil and climatic conditions, and I have found that better results are obtained by at least FIFTY PER CENT where trees are obtained in the Fall in our Western country.

The time to order trees for Fall Delivery is now; telephone or mail us a card, and a descriptive Catalogue of the best trees, both shade and fruit, and all manner of vines and shrubbery will be sent you.

Select the ones you want and they will be delivered to you with printed instructions as to how to care for them when the proper time arrives to make delivery.

The rapid growth in our City Park is positive proof that trees will grow to maturity here in a very few years if they are planted at the proper time and have been given the proper care and attention. I have cared for these trees, and am in a position to instruct you so that you can have as good or better results than I had with the park.

Don't envy the man who has fine trees and shrubs around his home—grow some of your own and increase the value of your property several Hundred Dollars by the investment of a small amount.

A tree has been dug out of the Nursery has a certain amount of work to do before it can commence to grow in the top, so by procuring the tree in the Fall it has all of the time from October to April to leisurely do it; consequently the Fall trees are ahead of the Spring ones several months and besides you are sure that the Fall tree has not gone thru very many hands before it reaches the planter, while the Spring tree has a chance to go thru the trade, and has undergone several transfers, so that you do not know how the tree has been watered; it may be physically dead and not show the least sign of it, while the Fall tree you know has not the time to undergo many changes, and too, they are just going into dormancy, while the Spring tree is just coming out of it, making it a more critical time to handle. By all means get them in the Fall and then you will know how they have been WINTERED.

PLACE YOUR ORDERS NOW—DELIVERY WILL BE MADE AT THE PROPER TIME AND YOUR TREES WILL BE OUT IN LEAF WHILE YOUR NEIGHBOR, THAT ORDERED FOR SPRING, WILL BE WAITING AND WATCHING FOR HIS TO ARRIVE.
